LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was shot in the head and neck and critically wounded early today as he left a jubilant primary election celebration. After nearly four hours of surgery doctors said his condition was "extremely critical."

A team of surgeons removed bullet fragments from his head but did not take out a bullet still lodged in his neck. Until the operation he was able to breathe only with assistance, and the doctors warned that the senator might have suffered impairment of the blood supply to the part of the brain that governs the eye track, the level of consciousness and, indirectly, his speech.

The next 12 to 36 hours will be critical, a medical report said.

The 42-year-old brother of the late President Kennedy was shot from about three feet away by a swarthy man in his 20's who was subdued by three Kennedy aides but not until he had emptied all eight bullets from a .22 caliber revolver toward the senator.

Five other persons in the surging crowd around the victorious California primary candidate were wounded. Kennedy's wife Ethel, who is expecting their 11th child, was not hurt. She bent over her husband as he lay bleeding from the wound near his right ear and another in his shoulder, whispering to him and trying to console him.

Slapped Face

Kennedy was taken by ambulance to Central Receiving Hospital where the examining physician, Dr. Victor Baz, first believed he was dead. He slapped him on the face, saying "Bob, Bob," and the wounded Kennedy stirred.

After 3 hours and 40 minutes on the operating table in Good Samaritan Hospital, to which Kennedy was moved, Deputy Mayor Joseph Quinn said the doctors told him that the senator's condition was encouraging.

"There apparently is no brain damage but they won't know for three or four days," he said.

President Johnson, awakened at the White House shortly after the shooting at 12:20 a.m. PDT (5:20 a.m. EDT), ordered Secret Service agents immediately assigned to all candidates in the 1968 presidential election. The gunman was not immediately identified. He refused to talk about the shooting.

Acted Alone

Los Angeles Police Chief Thomas Reddin said the man apparently acted alone and that so far there was no evidence of a conspiracy. The man was held under maximum security at the Los Angeles city jail while the FBI joined in identity attempts.

The tragedy was stunning in its suddenness and the pandemonium which followed. Kennedy had come down from his suite in the Ambassador Hotel to speak to his supporters massed before television cameras in the Embassy Room and claim victory. He was narrowly leading his main opponent, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, but was steadily drawing away in the California race.

"I think all these primaries have indicated it is quite clear that we can work together in the last analysis and that what has been going on the last three years, the divisions, violence, disenchantment with society between black and white, poor and affluent can be healed," he said.

Then Kennedy left the podium and was pushing his way through a hand-shaking and cheering supporters with a sort of flying wedge led by his aide, Bill Barry, a former FBI man; Roosevelt Grier, a 300-pound tackle for the Los Angeles Rams football team, and Rafer Johnson, former Olympic champion.

Hotel Kitchen

They headed into a corridor leading to a hotel kitchen, seeking to get on a freight elevator and back up to the suite. Kennedy was shaking hands with a young bushy near a row of refrigerators when the shots began ringing out "like a string of Chinese firecrackers."

Los Angeles Times photographer-reporter Boris Yaro was standing a few feet away. "Kennedy backed up against the kitchen freezers as the gunman fired at him at point-blank range," he said. "He cringed and threw his hands up over his face."

"I turned around and saw Kennedy lying on the floor. Blood seemed to be pouring out of a wound in his head or ear. It seemed as though he was trying to say something but you couldn't hear him."

For a few moments the crowd jammed in the ballroom had no idea what had happened. Then shouts for a doctor went out over the public address system and the word spread: "They'd received the last rites of the shot Bobby." Young girls began sobbing and men fought to try to get at the assailant.

Barry wrested the gun from the hand of the would-be killer who struggled wildly until Grier subdued him and sat on him on the floor.

Mrs. Kennedy at first resisted aid by the ambulance attendants and as the senator was lifted up in a stretcher he moaned "Oh, no, don't." Then the wounded man and his wife entered the ambulance and were taken to the Central Receiving Hospital where Kennedy received the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

The operation began at 2:45 a.m. PDT and Quinn did not emerge with news of the encouraging outlook until 6:30 a.m. PDT.

Astronaut John Glenn, who has been campaigning with Kennedy, was one of those who stood in grief-stricken silence in a hospital corridor. Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts flew to Los Angeles in an Air Force plane from San Francisco and hurried to the hospital to be with his brother.

Wounded as they stood beside Kennedy were Paul Schrader, a

President Leads Prayers Of a Horrified Nation

By MILTON R. BENJAMIN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson today led a horrified nation in praying for the recovery of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who was critically wounded in an assassination attempt in Los Angeles. Lawmakers voiced fear "the world's gone mad."

Johnson, who succeeded to the office of President when John F. Kennedy was slain before his eyes in Dallas four years ago, said "There are no words equal to the horror" of this newest tragedy.

"All America prays for his recovery," Johnson said. "We also pray that divisiveness and violence be driven from the hearts of men everywhere."

The President, who spent much of the night watching television accounts of the tragic shooting and its aftermath, also ordered the Secret Service to immediately assign a detail to guard the other presidential candidates.

George Christian, White House press secretary, said Johnson talked with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who had rushed to his brother's bedside in Los Angeles. The President also was in touch with Theodore Sorensen, one of Kennedy's advisers.

Johnson consulted during the night with Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. The attorney general ordered the FBI into the case under authority of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 and the Civil Rights Act of 1968.

Clark also ordered James P. McShane, chief U.S. marshal, to take command of a guard detail posted at Kennedy's home, Hockory Hill, in suburban Fairfax County, Va.

Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex., who was riding with Lyndon B. Johnson two cars behind the presidential limousine when President John F. Kennedy was slain by a sniper in Dallas, said today:

Waves of shock, dismay and sorrow went round the world today at the news of the shooting of Sen. Kennedy. And in Vietnam, an American GI exclaimed, "God help us. What the hell is going on back there?"

Locally, the news of the attempted assassination of Sen. Kennedy in Los Angeles drew feelings ranging from stunned disbelief to total shock. Stories on page 8.

"The horror of it is that political assassination in this country is becoming as common as it is, America has to reorient and take stock of itself that this has become so common in our public life.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., awakened in the pre-dawn hours like many other government officials to be told that a second Kennedy had been shot in an assassination attempt, said: "The world has gone mad."

"My God," gasped House Speaker John W. McCormack on being told of the shooting. "What is this country..." and his voice trailed off. "It's terrible, it's indescribable."

Shocked reaction to the tragedy came from all parts of the world.

The Kennedys—New Tragedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Once more a Kennedy has been struck by violence.

Once more, a child of Joseph P. and Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy lies in a hospital room—the latest victim of a misfortune in a family that had everything going for it: wealth, power and unmatched achievement.

John, the Kennedy who became president, was assassinated. Joe Jr., the oldest, died in the explosion of his bomber on a dangerous mission in World War II. Kathleen, the third of the nine children and a wartime widow, was killed in a plane crash.

Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, a senator like brothers John and Robert, lay painfully immobilized for a year after suffering a back injury in a plane crash. Rosemary, the second oldest Kennedy, has spent much of her life in an institution for the mentally retarded.

Now Robert, at 42, celebrating a major victory in his drive for the presidency, lay critically wounded from bullets fired at close range.

His wife Ethel, expecting her 11th child, was on the campaign trail with him.

The shooting of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy moments after a rousing California primary victory speech has brought the Democratic presidential race to a standstill and left its prospects in disarray.

His lead over Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy continued to grow in the confusion that followed.

McCarthy Cancels Plans

McCarthy canceled plans to campaign in Seattle and said he would instead return to Washington, D.C.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey also cancelled campaign plans and said he would return to Washington from Colorado Springs, Colo., where he was to make a graduation address at the U.S. Air Force Academy.

The California Democratic winner was to control 174 delegate votes at the national convention. State Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch heading an uncommitted delegate slate, was drawing a vote of about 15 per cent.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan was unopposed as a favorite-son candidate for 86 GOP delegate votes.

Incumbent Republican Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, seeking nomination for re-election, was falling behind State Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty.

In South Dakota, Kennedy scored a decisive victory over McCarthy and a stand-in slate for Humphrey for 24 convention delegates.

A slate pledged on the ballot to President Johnson—but which had said after Johnson withdrew that its votes would go to Humphrey—was second and McCarthy's slate third.

Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon was unopposed to control 14 GOP convention votes.

In other primaries Tuesday:

—A New Jersey Democratic organization slate headed by Gov. Richard J. Hughes won some 58 of the state's 82 Democratic delegates and McCarthy won at least 12, possibly all of the remainder.

—Republican Montana Gov. Tim Babcock, seeking the nomination for re-election, took a commanding lead—55 to 39 per-

—Former Alabama Lt. Gov. James B. Allen appeared to have won a narrow runoff win over Rep. Armistead Selden for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Alabama.

—All five Mississippi Democratic representatives—Reps. Jamie L. Whitten, Thomas G. Abernethy, Charles Griffin, G. V. Montgomery and William M. Colmer—won nominations for re-election. Whitten was unopposed.

AN EDITORIAL

We are becoming a nation of assassins.

John F. Kennedy—Martin Luther King—now Robert Kennedy.

The unspeakable horror of the shooting of Robert Kennedy has stunned us into wondering whether political assassination has become a way of life in America.

Has the national temperament become so unstable that our citizens are able to impose no personal restraints upon violent actions and reactions?

The great division in this country today appears to be not between the disadvantaged and the more affluent but between the sane and the violent and uncontrolled. The horror, the anguish and the heart-break that have been inflicted on the American people as the result of the actions of extremists is beyond calculation and no longer to be endured.

Before the multitude of other national problems can be dealt with, our country's leaders must concentrate their efforts towards stabilizing the national temperament, thus bringing order and sanity out of chaos.

A native of Brooklyn, was assigned to Troop C, Sidney and later was assigned to command the Leeds Zone of Troop G. He and his wife and three children reside at Rexford.

Kingston Beauty Unit Aim

An organization created to involve itself fully in the beautification and enrichment of the community, is currently attempting to gain the commitment of all the service groups in the Kingston area in an effort to realize its broad-based goals.

Under the chairmanship of Kingston's ex-mayor John J. Schwenk, the Community Services Committee was originally set up early in the year with the aid of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

One purpose of the committee is to get as many people involved as possible, along with 36 service organizations, to attack area-wide problems.

The committee's goal for 1968 is the beautification of Kingston and its surrounding land area.

According to John R. Shults Jr., a member of the group's steering committee, the organization is set up as a volunteer organization "with no fees or funds involved whatsoever."

Shults said that the Chamber of Commerce, although it lends its offices and facilities to the Community Services Committee, "in no way wants to control the committee."

Accordingly, the committee's by-laws assure that all membership service groups will have one vote each in policy formation.

With membership open to all volunteer service groups willing to take an active part, the committee itself would set its own goals.

The steering committee's task for the first year is to find permanent offices and to appoint chairmen to head the various sub-committees within the organizational structure.

Already, two general meetings have been held with 20 or 30 meetings held by branch committees.

The purpose of the meetings was to give direction to the organization while gathering personnel to carry out the assigned tasks.

Fifteen community organizations in the Kingston area are currently participating in group projects.

One sub-group, the assignment committee, is chaired by Burton S. Davis, and its purpose is to define each individual organization's function in the program within the context of ability to serve effectively.

The Boy Scouts, for instance, are involved in a number of beautification projects in and around their organization headquarters; the Girl Scouts have been asked to join "litter hikes," the Junior Chamber of Commerce will participate in the beautification of the Forsyth Park area, and YMCA members will see if they can clean an area from the old Post Office building to the railroad tracks.

The Lions, Rotary, and Kiwanis clubs are reportedly committed to making the traffic circle in Kingston more beautiful.

Each organization will receive a plaque stating that it participated in a Community Services Committee project.

Kingston Beauty Unit Aim

An organization created to involve itself fully in the beautification and enrichment of the community, is currently attempting to gain the commitment of all the service groups in the Kingston area in an effort to realize its broad-based goals.

Under the chairmanship of Kingston's ex-mayor John J. Schwenk, the Community Services Committee was originally set up early in the year with the aid of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

One purpose of the committee is to get as many people involved as possible, along with 36 service organizations, to attack area-wide problems.

The committee's goal for 1968 is the beautification of Kingston and its surrounding land area.

According to John R. Shults Jr., a member of the group's steering committee, the organization is set up as a volunteer organization "with no fees or funds involved whatsoever."

Shults said that the Chamber of Commerce, although it lends its offices and facilities to the Community Services Committee, "in no way wants to control the committee."

Accordingly, the committee's by-laws assure that all membership service groups will have one vote each in policy formation.

With membership open to all volunteer service groups willing to take an active part, the committee itself would set its own goals.

The steering committee's task for the first year is to find permanent offices and to appoint chairmen to head the various sub-committees within the organizational structure.

Already, two general meetings have been held with 20 or 30 meetings held by branch committees.

The purpose of the meetings was to give direction to the organization while gathering personnel to carry out the assigned tasks.

Fifteen community organizations in the Kingston area are currently participating in group projects.

One sub-group, the assignment committee, is chaired by Burton S. Davis, and its purpose is to define each individual organization's function in the program within the context of ability to serve effectively.

The Boy Scouts, for instance, are involved in a number of beautification projects in and around their organization headquarters; the Girl Scouts have been asked to join "litter-hikes," the Junior Chamber of Commerce will participate in the beautification of the Forsyth Park area, and YMCA members will see if they can clean an area from the old Post Office building to the railroad tracks.

The Lions, Rotary, and Kiwanis clubs are reportedly committed to making the traffic circle in Kingston more beautiful.

Each organization will receive a plaque stating that it participated in a Community Services Committee project.

20th Viet Fatality Was Shady Resident

A 20-year-old Army specialist, who resided in Ulster County for only a short time was killed in Vietnam action, his next of kin in Shady learned Tuesday.

He is Spec 4 Carl F. Green, step-son of Harold S. Quick of Shady, an employee of King Chrysler, Albany Avenue.

Specialist Green had been reported missing in action on May 10 and according to unconfirmed reports his body was found in the jungle on Sunday. He is the 20th county fatality of the war and the fourth during May. He had been in Vietnam five months.

From incomplete information available at this time it was learned that the youth was born in Kingston and educated in Wisconsin, and before entering the service stayed with his stepfather and step-grandmother, Mrs. Herbert Keane of Shady.

Other survivors include three brothers, Lawrence, Harold Jr., and Carl, all at home; four sisters, Judy, Joyce, Bernice and Jean, all at home.

His stepfather said the youth had received the Purple Heart decoration for a previous battle wound in Vietnam. In his letter home the youth said he planned to settle down in Shady after the war.

William S. Keyser of Keyser Funeral Service, Kingston Chapel said it may take a week to 10 days to transport the body to Kingston.

Preliminary arrangements have been made for a Mass at St. Joseph's Church, Kingston and burial in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Other May Fatalities

Other battle fatalities of Ulster County servicemen in May were Spec. 4 Alan Pagliaroni, 19 of Accord, who was killed May 3; Army Sgt. Lewis P. Jorio, 20 of Highland, killed at Chu Lang on May 18 and Marine Lance Cpl. Paul Lewis, 19 of Saugerties, killed near Quang Nam with the 27th Marines on May 26.

Last week the significance of Memorial Day brought closer to home when the death of Lance Cpl. Paul Lewis was revealed during Memorial services in Saugerties.

Lewis' death in Vietnam battle was made known during the traditional reading of the war dead at the Veterans Monument in Saugerties by former Supervisor Peter M. Williams, past county commander of the American Legion. Williams read the names of 65 Saugerties servicemen who had given their lives in wars of the U.S. and then revealed that he had just been informed that a 65th name has been added to the list.

The Saugerties youth is the son of LeRoy Ben Lewis of Quarryville and Mrs. George M. Ascanio of Maple Avenue, Cementon, Greene County. Col. Lewis had been in the Marine Corps since February 1966 after leaving Saugerties High School. He has four brothers, LeRoy, Lawrence, Robert and Clifford Lewis. Lawrence is a petty officer in the Navy and Clifford was recently discharged after serving eight years in the Air Force.

Cpl. Lewis was the fifth service fatality of the war from Saugerties. The parents were informed that it might take from one to three weeks to bring the body back to Saugerties where burial will be in Mt. Marion Cemetery.

Plan Military Funeral

Seamon Funeral Home, Saugerties will be in charge of arrangements and a funeral with full military honors is planned by Saugerties Memorial Post 5034, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Saugerties.

The Associated Press in a Defense Department announcement also listed an Upstate serviceman recently killed in Vietnam action. He was identified as Marine Cpl. Ronald E. Grier of Van Etten, near Elmira. Grier is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Grier.

Ticket Driver On City Crash; Woman Injured

A West Hurley woman was injured and a Main Street driver ticketed for running through a red light at the intersection of Albany Avenue and the Col. George F. Chandler Highway (Rt. 587) at 7:05 this morning.

Injured and taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance was Mrs. Sharon L. Schick, 32, of West Hurley. She complained of pain and shock, was treated and released.

According to city police Harry Houghtaling, 56, of 11 Main Street went through a red light while traveling east on Albany Avenue through the Rt. 587 intersection. His car was struck by a car driven by the Schick woman and another driven by Thomas F. DeAngelis, 32, of Ohio Street. There were no injuries reported on either Houghtaling or DeAngelis. The DeAngelis, Schick, cars were headed north on Rt. 587 at the time of the accident.

Talks Resume, Expect Tactics

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

PARIS (AP) — The Vietnam cease-fire talks resumed today, with U.S. negotiators looking for evidence that North Vietnam may be prepared to make some change in its position to open discussions of basic issues of peacemaking.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and Ambassador Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam met for the seventh time following a four-day recess.

Some experts expected an early tactical move by Thuy to open the second stage of the talks. Others professed puzzlement about Hanoi's aims.

"Something's going on," one informant remarked. "Whether it's more—or less—than meets the eye you can't tell yet."

One development was the arrival Sunday of Le Duc Tho, a member of North Vietnam's politburo, who is serving as an adviser to Thuy. He could have brought fresh instructions.

A later Hanoi maneuver took the form of an interview with Defense Minister Vo Nguyen Giap published Tuesday by the French Communist party newspaper, Humanite.

Giap argued in effect that the United States is negotiating with North Vietnam because America's leaders know they are losing the war. He laid down a hard, confident line, but U.S. officials saw one possible indication of change in his statement that "the United States has been fighting not only the Army of Liberation of South Vietnam, but also the forces of the People's Army of the North."

Harriman has been pressing Thuy—but without success—to admit that North Vietnamese forces are fighting in the South, feeling that such an admission would bolster the American demand for North Vietnamese de-escalation in exchange for the cessation of all American attacks on North Vietnam, which Hanoi demands.

The Street Fighting Slackens in Saigon

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — Street fighting slackened off in one part of Saigon today amid intelligence reports that the Viet Cong were starting a 10-day rest period before launching a new series of attacks on the capital June 15. But there was no letup in another sector.

Bands of Viet Cong were reported slipping out of Cholon, the Chinese section three miles west of the presidential palace, where street fighting has raged for the past five days.

In suburban Gia Dinh, on the northern and northeastern fringes of the capital, other bands of Viet Cong also were reported trying to pull back through the night.

A blocking force of South Vietnamese marines, dropped off by boats along the Saigon River, killed 13 of the withdrawing enemy. Some of them carried North Vietnamese money.

But a fresh company from the North Vietnamese Dong Nai regiment was spotted moving in west of Highway One, Saigon's main artery to the north, and only 500 yards from an American advisory compound in Gia Dinh.

Dive-bombing South Vietnamese Skyraiders and artillery smashed a large residential area abandoned by civilians. But the enemy troops still held out in a cemetery and a multi-story building two miles north of the presidential palace.

A company of South Vietnamese marines, apparently inexperienced in the use of tear gas, accidentally set off several gas grenades among themselves. Panic and confusion halted their advance for an hour as the marines fumbled for gas masks and ran for water.

The enemy got a whiff of the gas and pulled out.

The Viet Cong's "peace talks" drive against Saigon, apparently aimed at strengthening Hanoi's hand in the Paris negotiations with the United States, entered its second month today with another terror shelling of the capital.

The 18-shell barrage during the night killed five Vietnamese civilians and wounded 21. It was the second successive night Saigon was shelled.

One report of the Viet Cong's interrogators: "The Viet Cong plans for intermittent attacks on will launch an attack on Saigon Saigon came from a Viet Cong from May 25 to June 5."

Catholic Chaplain Receives DSC Award

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

SAIGON (AP) — Father Angelo Liteky, a Roman Catholic chaplain who rescued 20 wounded GIs in a jungle fire fight, stood at nervous attention today between a row of armored vehicles to receive the Distinguished Service Cross, the highest award ever given to a chaplain in Vietnam.

The medal, America's second highest for heroism, was pinned on the Jacksonville, Fla., priest by Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, deputy U.S. commander in Vietnam, in a simple ceremony at Forward Fire Base Stephanie, a muddy patch of nowhere three miles west of Saigon.

Some of the watching infantrymen and helicopter pilots were there in the jungles that humid day, Dec. 6, when a company moved out in search of the Viet Cong mortar teams that had shelled the base camp of the 4th Battalion, 12th Infantry the night before.

"The padre always went along on our operations," said Platoon Sgt. Daniel Garrison of Beloit, Wis., who won the Silver Star in the same action. "He's the kind of guy who liked to sit down and talk with you over a beer or a can of C rations."

1st Team Under Fire

But it was the 37-year-old priest's first time under fire when the patrol encountered a well-entrenched North Vietnamese and Viet Cong battalion and was stunned with an opening barrage of automatic weapons, claymore mines and recoilless rifles.

That afternoon in A Company and the two companies that came to the rescue 21 men were killed and 74 wounded, nearly half of them in the first few minutes.

Father Liteky said the last rites over 100 infantrymen. Then there was a tremendous explosion, a claymore mine, knocking two men off their feet. To the priest's amazement, both were alive. He lifted one man onto his chest and began dragging him back off the trail. Then he went back for the other one. Bullets ripped the trees nearby.

All afternoon, the jut-jawed priest, who washed out as a quarterback at the University of Florida, seemed to be everywhere, hauling out wounded, carrying stretchers, bringing up water and ammunition.

"Don't go up there any more, Father," Garrison told him, "until things have quieted down." Then there was the hissing sound of a rocket and everyone dove for cover. Father Liteky was hit in the neck and feet by the flying shards, but he refused evacuation.

Without Helmet

The rest of the day, the priest gave the last rites to dead and dying infantrymen. He moved about without a helmet and had given his flak jacket to a wounded man.

"The guys just seem to feel better having you around," the priest said today, plainly embarrassed by the big medal dangling crookedly from his fatigue shirt. "It just seems to make them more assured. And then when you can give the last rites to a dying man, you're glad you were there, but you always have to be careful that saying the prayers doesn't shock them into realizing how bad off they are." Father Liteky has extended for another six months in Vietnam.

Man Is Weak Link

"It is becoming increasingly clear that this enemy is fully as devious, ruthless and catastrophic as any our society has ever faced. This war—and it is truly a desperate war—is one that threatens far more than our frontline heroes. It threatens entire families . . . everyone."

The speaker is Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, and he is, of course, talking about death on the highways. Fatalities for the first three months of 1968 were six per cent above the first quarter of 1967.

Only 28 states, he complains, have adopted implied consent laws guaranteeing scientific evidence in court cases involving alcohol. Only 31 states have made periodic vehicle inspection mandatory. Only 31 states require periodic re-examination for driver licenses.

Unfortunately, Pyle's words, for all their vivid coloration, simply will not register with most people, least of all those who do not drive safely. They have heard them too many times. And with all due respect to the Safety Council, it is doubtful that even if the remaining 15 to 22 states passed all these laws there would be any startling change in the dismal statistics.

These things must be done, of course, plus the constant improvement of automobile and highway design. But not until an effort is made to improve the quality of people driving cars, no significant decrease in the traffic toll can realistically be expected.

Numerous studies have shown that a high percentage of accident-causers have serious emotional problems.

According to the American Journal of Psychiatry, personality traits and attitudes of high-accident drivers are different from the rest of the population. Psychological-sociological testing could separate good drivers from bad ones and save thousands of lives by keeping emotionally unfit drivers from behind the wheel, it claims.

A comparison between the social records of 96 accident repeaters and 100 accident-free drivers by the Ontario Department of Highways is revealing. (Figures for the accident-free drivers are in parentheses.)

Trouble with credit bureau—34.3 per cent (6 per cent); contact with social service agencies—17.7 per cent (1 per cent); contact with public health and VD clinic—14.4 per cent (0 per cent); adult court, excluding traffic charges—34.3 per cent (1 per cent); juvenile court—16.6 per cent (1 per cent).

Truly it may be said that a man drives as he lives," says the journal. "If his personal life is marked by caution, tolerance, foresight and consideration for others, then he will drive in the same manner."

But the person without those characteristics will drive in an aggressive manner "and over a long period of time he will have a much higher accident rate than his more stable companion."

The safest cars, the safest highways, the stiffest laws, the most rigorous proficiency examinations in the world will not change this.

We need only recall that the worst traffic accident in 1967 was caused by an emotionally distressed man who committed suicide by driving head-on into a bus, taking 19 other persons with him.

Assured Annual Income

The idea of a national system of income guarantees and supplements, as endorsed by 1,000 academic economists, would cost the nation between $11 billion and $26 billion, depending on the plan used, it is estimated. The signing economists declare that a workable and equitable plan of income guarantees would be within the nation's fiscal and economic capacity.

They suggest that need, as objectively measured by income and family size, should be the sole basis of determining payment to which an individual or family is entitled; and payments to families who earn income should be reduced by only a fraction of their earnings in order to provide an incentive to work, save and train for better jobs.

To us this seems a backdoor entrance into socialism. When one in eight persons is on relief, as is expected to be in New York within a year, what incentive is there for the other seven to work to earn the money that is paid the one on relief? Or, for those of us who work, in the country as a whole, to support 25-million non-workers?

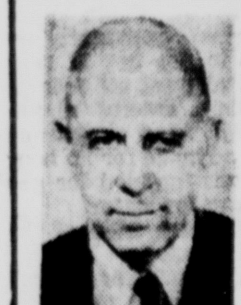

Distress and hunger we cannot tolerate. But where there are persons physically and mentally fit, the nation's responsibility should be to urge them to take the jobs available, while we educate and train them to support themselves and their families even better, and to add to the national income through taxes. The aim must be to trim the relief rolls as people are made self-supporting, not to extend it by this latest instrument of the academic economists, a guaranteed annual income, with little or no work, by whatever name it is called.

An Apple for the Teacher

David Lawrence Says

Plan Common Defense Of Southeast Asia

WASHINGTON—Maybe international altruism has not been presented often enough to the world at the greatest service to humanity today. The concept that man should be his "brother's keeper" is brushed aside frequently by those who proclaim that the Vietnam War is "none of America's business." But the Prime Minister of Australia, John G. Gorton, made a speech the other day in which he expressed to the American people the gratitude of his own nation for what is being done to protect the countries of the far Pacific against aggression and to thwart the imperialists who covet the territory of smaller nations.

Mr. Gorton's speech was delivered before the National Press Club, but wasn't reported widely in the press. Only a few sentences got attention, and several of the larger newspapers didn't mention it at all. Possibly the reason was that the Australian Prime Minister spoke "off the cuff" and a transcript of his remarks was not readily available.

Mr. Gorton said in part: "I do want to say that as a representative of a small nation . . . I wonder if anybody has thought what the situation of comparatively small nations in the world today would be if there were not in existence a United States."

"With a heritage of democracy and with a willingness to see that small nations who otherwise might not be able by themselves to protect themselves, we're given some shield and some guarantee that they would be able to run their own affairs in their own way.

"Just imagine what the situation in the world would be if there were not a great and giant country which was prepared to make those sacrifices for that end. And the end is not negligible."

"If it is true, as I believe that it is true, that in the future mankind as a whole and in all the nations of the world, can only reach a state of enduring peace and proper progress if it is realized that the individual must dominate the state and not the other way around, then what was done in the second world war was something which serves the future of humanity."

"Now I go further. As we see it in Australia, this is the basic question in Vietnam. It is claimed this is a civil war. We do not see it that way. We see it, as your President sees it—and as, I believe, your President's predecessors saw it—as another test of whether small nations are to be subdued by force, as another test of whether the state or the individual is to be the unit by which humanity progresses. And because we see it that way, we contribute."

"We don't contribute a great deal. But we do have navy, air force, army there. We do what we can to help, because we think that what you are doing to help the South Vietnamese is right."

Australia is a country of 12 million people. It has immense natural resources which as yet have not been fully developed. It is making substantial progress, but it would have little chance if Communist autocracy sought to take over. Much the same situation prevails in small nations on and adjacent to the Asian continent.

Prime Minister Gorton is making a trip this week to Vietnam and other countries in Southeast Asia. He desires to emphasize that Australia believes that the independence of small nations must be preserved and that it can be maintained only by guarantees against aggression.

Plans are under way to develop a common defense among the nations of southeast Asia. Australia itself is looking with favor on a citizen-military force in which an individual would continue his regular civilian occupation most of the time, but would have a period of training each year and be armed and equipped for immediate duty for possible emergencies in Australia or areas in which it has treaty commitments.

Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, Malaysia and Singapore are to discuss at a meeting on June 10 the defense of the region after the withdrawal of Britain from Malaysia and Singapore. It is recognized that even if a peace agreement is obtained in Vietnam, the chances of further acts of aggression in Asia still will exist. The Southeast Asian countries want to prepare for such threats, though they may have to rely on the help of the United States if either Red China or the Soviet Union becomes involved in future conflicts.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The student has a lot of knowledge and a little judgement. This makes the true revolutionary. The only way in which he can show his individuality, his new-found vitality, is to be opposed to the views of his parents and the government. It doesn't matter whether the elders are right or wrong—he must oppose and he must be articulate.

If one studies the history of revolutions—successful or aborted—they begin in the universities. The young man who is given tuition, board money, clothes, spending money and a car is a prime candidate to despise his parents. He learns to live without them; his unbridled cord is dad's checkbook; he listens to the radical notions of older students who discuss a new and shinier world in which there is no war, no poverty, nothing but sensual joy.

Is his father clean? The student will not take a bath. Does the old man shave? The son will grow a beard. Is pop a Republican? Junior aspires to be a Communist. Does mother preach chastity? The kid aspires to violate every girl he dates. Do the parents urge him toward a summertime job? He loafs. The true revolutionary must be totally committed to oppose the established order. Does the world hate Nazis? Buy a tin swastika.

It is a subtle irony that graduation time is called commencement. The campus is where wrong things commence. Knowledge is imparted in the classroom and one of every five students does not know what to do with it. The riots and vandalism at Columbia University, at the Sorbonne, at the University of California at Berkeley; Athens, London, Bonn, West Berlin, Madrid, Tokyo, Tunis—all are sparks from the political left.

The marmalade student courts violence. He expresses himself in vandalism and flames. He preaches democracy but practices despotism. He wants to be able to order the president of the university to resign without hearing or trial. He hates policemen, but very few students will fight them unless the numerical superiority is 20-to-1 or better. On the campus at Columbia University, 2,000 students fled their barricades and ran in the face of 150 policemen.

So mark the malcontent as a coward too. This is the one thing he cannot forgive in himself and he becomes a squeaking mouse when a cop collars him and he begs: "Okay, Okay. Don't hit me. I'm not resisting." He covers his head with his hands and his impotence with his beard. In defeat, he loses some of that new manhood. For a moment, he is a whimpering child again.

Knowledge, without judgment is a car without a steering wheel. Unfortunately, no institute of learning teaches judgment, because it arrives, if the student is going to have it, with maturity. A young man of 22 or 23 seldom has it in large measure. To some, like me, it is acquired by repetitious falls on the head. I made all the mistakes known to man; my only boast is that I made each one once.

The parent who once commanded the child now entreats him. The forty-year father is afraid of alienating his son; in truth, he has already lost him. Part of male growing up is to compete with one's father. The old adage: "When I was 18, I realized how stupid my father was, when I was 28, I was surprised at how much the old man had learned in the past ten years" is comically accurate. It is normal for a young man to want to be bigger and better than his father.

The radical youth feels that he has failed in becoming bigger and better, so he blames his father and the world. He is easily seduced into thinking that he can fashion a bigger and better world. He makes war on the voice of authority in the name of peace.

He says he will not listen to me because I am over 30 years of age. I understand him; I appreciate his motives. He doesn't like me, because I hold a mirror before his face. And yet he zrouses contempt in me when he says I am leaving him a lousy world.

The world was never any good. It is a harsh existence among peoples who do not understand each other; nations afflicted with mass paranoia. The only thing they all have in common is suspicion.

My generation of businessmen gave that boy an easier life, with luxuries undreamed of. My generation of scientists kept him alive when, in my childhood, he would have died. My generation lifted the earnings of the common laborer, explored the heavens, plumb the depths of the sea, tried hard to find a permanent formula for peace.

My generation has learned, with patience, to forgive that boy . . .

Drew Pearson Says Rep. Rooney More Vindictive Than Ever; Lausche Is Upset

WASHINGTON—Probably the most vindictive man on Capitol Hill is Rep. John J. Rooney, the Brooklyn Democrat, who for the first time in many years has a Democratic primary opponent. As a result, John is more vindictive than ever.

His opponent, Frederick Richmond, has been rolling up a lot of support in Rooney's reapportioned district, which is no longer Irish Catholic but strongly Jewish and Negro. Rooney has looked for years around election time, seldom goes back home to shake hands or make a speech. His opponent, Fred Richmond, is doing just the opposite.

The other day, Rooney heard of a cocktail party given for Richmond by former Assistant Secretary of Commerce Thomas G. Wyman at which Roger Stevens, White House Assistant for the Arts Program, was scheduled to speak. Three days before the party, Rooney telephoned Stevens and bellowed: "If you want any sort of budget passed out of my committee, you get out of that cocktail party."

"And you also write a letter of apology stating it was all a mistake, and send a carbon copy to me," Stevens, who is dedicated to putting across an arts program in Washington and needed money from Congress for it, wrote the letter. Rooney has the power of life and death over his appropriations.

Speaking at the cocktail party instead of Stevens was theatrical producer Robert Dowling. He personally pledged a large sum of money to defeat Rooney, and told the crowd how important it was to get the crutchety Congressman from Brooklyn out of Washington.

Politically Senile?

Sen. Frank Lausche, the Ohio lame duck, took up about 20 minutes of a closed door Senate Commerce Committee the other day to lambast Dr. Frank Stanton, head of CBS, and Julian Goodman, head of NBC, for their alleged ill treatment of him over a Cleveland radio station. In the end it developed that neither NBC nor CBS was involved.

"Your station claimed that I was senile, and offered me equal time to prove that I wasn't," complained the Senator from Ohio.

Lausche, who had had a couple of snorts before attending the committee meeting, got his Cleveland stations mixed up. Finally it developed that the station involved was WIXY in Cleveland whose jockey Joe Finan had said that Lausche represents "The archaic politics of yesterday." He is politically senile," Finan said.

Lausche still has available equal time over WIXY to prove that he is not politically senile, but he hasn't accepted yet.

Trick on Wayne Morse

One reason why Sen. Wayne Morse nearly lost out in the Oregon primary was a smart trick played on him by Bobby Kennedy's henchmen. They put Morse's name on a Kennedy card as a Kennedy delegate and mailed it to thousands of voters on the eve of the primary.

This got all the McCarthyites, who were in the majority, sore.

"I was furious," said Mrs. K. C. Tanner of Portland. "The card said, 'You can help elect the next President of the United States. The Oregon Committee for Kennedy recommends the support of these delegates.' And it listed prominently Wayne Morse. I called Morse headquarters and they said he was not supporting Kennedy. He was supporting no one. They said they had been getting calls all day. Some people didn't call. They just went out and voted against Morse because he was supposed to be for Kennedy."

That may have been one reason why Oregon voters who went strong for McCarthy, a dove also voted strong for Robert Duncan, a hawk.

LBMR to LBJ

Lynda Bird Johnson Robb is a young lady who sometimes talks back to the President of the United States. Within the family it is sometimes said that Lynda Bird is a chip off the old block.

The other evening at a private party a friend reminded her what happened after her father was defeated for the presidential nomination at the Democratic Convention in Los Angeles in 1960.

His headquarters were terribly depressed. But Lynda Bird, then 16, got up on a table to remind her father's staff: "I know how disappointed you all are. But I remember when I was a little girl my father was defeated for the first time in Texas and there were reports that the election was stolen. A lot of people told him to contest the election, but he said: 'No, there'll be another time.'"

"So just remember tonight that there'll be another time." After the friend had finished reminding Lynda Bird of this story, she piped up, "and do you remember what happened the next day?"

"I went out to Disneyland and father couldn't find me when he was nominated for Vice President. He kept calling all over the place to get me to be on the platform when he accepted the Vice Presidential nomination."

"When he finally got me he was pretty sore."

"We didn't come out here to go to Disneyland," he said. "I said, 'we didn't come out here to be Vice President either.'"

Auto Insurance Probe

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., who has just written a book, "The Dark Side of the Marketplace," on the plight of the American consumer, is planning to become a regular author. He has another book in the works, this one on the plight of the American automobile driver at the hands of the insurance companies.

Magnuson points out that when there's a five-car crack-up, the owners of the five different cars usually have different insurance policies calling for five different types of remuneration. There is also diverse and conflicting insurance in different states, the question of whether auto insurance should be compulsory, and finally refusal of some insurance companies to renew. This leaves a driver unable to drive his car at all. Finally, there is the case of bankrupt and fly-by-night insurance companies.

If the Senator from Washington digs deep into auto insurance, his book should be a best seller.

Henry J. Taylor Says Guide to English Language

A handy 22-point guide to the English language in 1968: War. Not what is happening in Vietnam. You have to get a new dictionary and read it upside down in Braille to understand this word.

Law and Order. What the nation grapples with while the Supreme Court says to the criminals and Commies: "Is Daddy's itty-bitsy boy comfy?"

Academic freedom. Read this to mean imposing by violence anti-academic conditions on our schools and universities. Dissenters are shouted down, not allowed to speak, or the microphone is wrestled from them. Discussion exists only among those who agree. They demand that others follow democratic rules that they themselves defy.

Unemployment. Actually, twice as many people working at two jobs (moonlighting) as there are not working.

Poverty. The War on Poverty has now bureaucratized itself to include 150 Washington bureaus and 170 separate programs in its confusions. Meanwhile, the Budget Bureau needs a 33-page booklet merely to list its poverty consultants. That's Washington, say philosophers.

Ghetto. Often a politicians' paradise. Example: In Oakland, Calif., the total population has declined 3 per cent in the past 10 years, but the Negro population has increased 73 per cent. Only 15 per cent of Oakland's housing units, however, are rated substandard. But Washington is operating (and the Federal taxpayers are paying for) an incredible 125 different Federal aid programs in Oakland.

Federal funds. Meaningless

words. There's no such thing. "Government money," "the government is paying," etc., should be accurately revised by editors and others to read "taxpayers' funds," "the taxpayers are paying," etc. Hey, that's our money! This simple in the press, might even bring a taxpayers' revolt.

Government grants. Again, these sound like four money. Yet any government is a spender, not an earner. Anything a government says it will give to the people it must first take away from the people.

Matching aid. So absurd have definitions become that President Johnson even calls "Federal funds" on a 90-10 matching basis with the states or cities a matching basis.

Inflation. Council of Economic Advisers Chairman Arthur Okun conceded on May 18 that the government itself has been "the major cause" because it has been money in the economy by its super-tremendous borrowings to pay its bills. This is the first time any government official has made so open an admission.

Public debt. Like tickling a tiger, this has certain disadvantages. One trouble with the "public" debt is that we private citizens have to pay it: $14 billion this year.

Collective bargaining. The ultimatums that union officials so incessantly hurl at employers and public officials.

Generation gap. Gibberish for the simple phenomenon that we're not as young as we used to be, but not as old as we're going to be.

Police brutality. Nationwide independent polls confirm that the overwhelming majority of Negroes are sympathetic to the problems of law and order, scora the charges of police brutality as being the cause of Negro riots and want more police protection. Anarchy is what the Negroes fear, and ever fear, as do we all.

Demonstrators. The Gallup Poll reports that only 13 per cent of the people in our country favor demonstrations. And even of that group only one per cent is interested in demonstrating about the Vietnam war. But Lenin extolled the profitable principle that well-organized gangs have very real power.

Hippies. Confucius say amateur sociologist nuttier than fruitcake.

Favorite son. How to remain neutral until you find out who is holding the gun.

Permissiveness. The art of destroying nation's standards.

Sophistication. In politics, a push-button opportunist who manipulates people's emotions, beliefs and hopes in his own interest. Get smart. The end justifies the means.

Viable. The egg has hit the fan.

Pragmatism. Our political windbags' propensity for always waiting and watching the pressure gauges of public opinion to decide when and how loud to blow the whistle. Read pragmatism as the opposite of principle.

Charisma. As Jimmy Durante says, "I'd explain what that means but I'm too over-keen that I can't pronounce it." And when carnival genius P. T. Barnum said, "There's a sucker born every minute," he might have added that there's also a politician born every hour ready to take the crop in hand.

The concept that man should be his brother's keeper is brushed aside frequently by those who proclaim that the Vietnam War is "none of America's business." But the Prime Minister of Australia, John G. Gorton, made a speech the other day in which he expressed to the American people the gratitude of his own nation for what is being done to protect the countries of the far Pacific against aggression and to thwart the imperialists who covet the territory of smaller nations.

Mr. Gorton's speech was delivered before the National Press Club, but wasn't reported widely in the press. Only a few sentences got attention, and several of the larger newspapers didn't mention it at all. Possibly the reason was that the Australian Prime Minister spoke "off the cuff" and a transcript of his remarks was not readily available.

Mr. Gorton said in part: "I do want to say that as a representative of a small nation . . . I wonder if anybody has thought what the situation of comparatively small nations in the world today would be if there were not in existence a United States."

"With a heritage of democracy and with a willingness to see that small nations who otherwise might not be able by themselves to protect themselves, we've given some shield and some guarantee that they would be able to run their own affairs in their own way.

"Just imagine what the situation in the world would be if there were not a great and giant country which was prepared to make those sacrifices for that end. And the end is not negligible. . . ."

"If it is true, as I believe that it is true, that in the future mankind as a whole and in all the nations of the world, can only reach a state of enduring peace and proper progress if it is realized that the individual must dominate the state and not the other way around, then what was done in the second world war was something which serves the future of humanity."

"Now I go further. As we see it in Australia, this is the basic question in Vietnam. It is claimed this is a civil war. We do not see it that way. We see it, as your President sees it—and as I believe, your President's predecessors saw it—as another test of whether small nations are to be subdued by force, as another test of whether the state or the individual is to be the unit by which humanity progresses. And because we see it that way, we contribute."

"We don't contribute a great deal. But we do have navy, air force, army there. We do what we can to help, because we think that what you are doing to help the South Vietnamese is right."

Australia is a country of 12 million people. It has immense natural resources which as yet have not been fully developed. It is making substantial progress, but it would have little chance if Communist autocracy sought to take over. Much the same situation prevails in small nations on and adjacent to the Asian continent.

Prime Minister Gorton is making a trip this week to Vietnam and other countries in Southeast Asia. He desires to emphasize that Australia believes that the independence of small nations must be preserved and that it can be maintained only by guarantees against aggression.

Plans are under way to develop a common defense among the nations of southeast Asia. Australia itself is looking with favor on a citizen-military force in which an individual would continue his regular civilian occupation most of the time, but would have a period of training each year and be armed and equipped for immediate duty for possible emergencies in Australia or areas in which it has treaty commitments.

Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, Malaysia and Singapore are to discuss at a meeting on June 10 the defense of the region after the withdrawal of Britain from Malaysia and Singapore. It is recognized that even if a peace agreement is obtained in Vietnam, the chances of further acts of aggression in Asia still will exist. Southeast Asian countries want to prepare for such threats, though they may have to rely on the help of the United States if either Red China or the Soviet Union becomes involved in future conflicts.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The student has a lot of knowledge and a little judgment. This makes the true revolutionary. The only way in which he can show his individuality, his new-found virility, is to be opposed to the views of his parents and the government. It doesn't matter whether the elders are right or wrong—he must oppose and he must be articulate.

If one studies the history of revolutions—successful or aborted—they begin in the universities. The young man who is given tuition, board money, clothes, spending money and a car is a prime candidate to despise his parents. He learns to live without them; his umbilical cord is dad's checkbook; he listens to the radical notions of older students who discuss a new and shinier world in which there is no war, no poverty, nothing but sensual joy.

Is his father clean? The student will not take a bath. Does the old man shave? The son will grow a beard. Is pop a Republican? Junior aspires to be a Communist. Does mother preach chastity? The kid aspires to violate every girl he dates. Do the parents urge him toward a summertime job? He loafs. The true revolutionary must be totally committed to oppose the established order. Does the world hate Nazis? Buy a tin swastika.

It is a subtle irony that graduation time is called commencement. The campus is where wrong things commence. Knowledge is imparted in the classroom and one of every five students does not know what to do with it. The riots and vandalism at Columbia University, at the Sorbonne, at the University of California at Berkeley; Athens, London, Bonn, West Berlin, Madrid, Tokyo, Tunis—all are sparks from the political left.

The articulate student courts violence. He expresses himself in vandalism and flames. He preaches democracy, but practices despotism. He wants to be able to order the president of the university to resign without hearing or trial. He hates policemen, but very few students will fight them unless the numerical superiority is 20-to-1 or better. On the campus at Columbia University, 2,000 students fled their barricades and ran in the face of 150 policemen.

So mark the malcontent as a coward too. This is the one thing he cannot forgive in himself and he becomes a squeaking mouse when a cop collars him and he begs: "Okay. Okay. Don't hit me. I'm not resisting." He covers his head with his hands and his impudence with his beard. In defeat, he loses some of that new manhood. For a moment, he is a whimpering child again.

Knowledge without judgment is a car without a steering wheel. Unfortunately, no institute of learning teaches judgment, because it arrives, if the student is going to have it, with maturity. A young man of 22 or 23 seldom has it in large measure. To some, like me, it is acquired by repetitions of the head. I made all the mistakes known to man; my only boast is that I made each one once.

The parent who once commanded the child now entreats him. The forthright father is afraid of alienating his son; in truth, he has already lost him. Part of male growing up is to compete with one's father. The old adage: "When I was 18, I realized how stupid my father was, when I was 28, I was surprised at how much the old man had learned in the past ten years" is comically accurate. It is normal for a young man to want to be bigger and better than his father.

The radical youth feels that he has failed in becoming bigger and better, so he blames his father and the world. He is easily seduced into thinking that he can fashion a bigger and better world. He makes war on the voice of authority in the name of peace.

He says he will not listen to me because I am over 39 years of age. I understand him; I appreciate his motives. He doesn't like me, because I hold a mirror before his face. And yet he arouses contempt in me when he says I am leaving him a lousy world.

The world was never any good. It is a harsh existence among people who do not understand each other; nations afflicted with mass paranoia. The only thing they all have in common is suspicion. My generation of businessmen gave that boy an easier life, with luxuries undreamed of. My generation of scientists gave him the medicines to keep him alive when, in my childhood, he would have died. My generation lifted the earnings of the common laborer, explored the heavens, plumb the depths of the sea, tried hard to find a permanent formula for peace.

My generation has learned, with patience, to forgive that boy . . .

Drew Pearson Says Rep. Rooney More Vindictive Than Ever; Lausche Is Upset

WASHINGTON — Probably the most vindictive man on Capitol Hill is Rep. John J. Rooney, the Brooklyn Democrat, who for the first time in many years has a Democratic primary opponent. As a result, John is more vindictive than ever.

His opponent, Frederick Richmond, has been rolling up a lot of support in Rooney's reapportioned district, which is no longer Irish, Catholic but strongly Jewish and Negro. Rooney has loafed for years around election time, seldom goes back home to shake hands or make a speech. His opponent, Fred Richmond, is doing just the opposite.

The other day, Rooney heard of a cocktail party given for Richmond by former Assistant Secretary of Commerce Thomas G. Wyman at which Roger Stevens, White House Assistant for the Arts Program, was scheduled to speak.

Three days before the party, Rooney telephoned Stevens and bellowed: "If you want any sort of budget passed out of my committee, you get out of that cocktail party."

"And you also write a letter of apology stating it was all a mistake, and send a carbon copy to me."

Stevens, who is dedicated to putting across an arts program in Washington and needed money from Congress for it, wrote the letter. Rooney has the power of life and death over his appropriations.

Speaking at the cocktail party instead of Stevens was theatrical producer Robert Dowling. He personally pledged a large sum of money to defeat Rooney, and told the crowd how important it was to get the crochety Congressman from Brooklyn out of Washington.

Politically Senile?

Sen. Frank Lausche, the Ohio lame duck, took up about 20 minutes of a closed door Senate Commerce Committee the other day to lambast Dr. Frank Stanton, head of CBS, and Julian Goodman, head of NBC, for their alleged ill treatment of him over a Cleveland radio station. In the end it developed that neither NBC nor CBS was involved.

Warren Magnuson, the Washington Democrat, took up about 20 minutes of a closed door Senate Commerce Committee the other day to lambast Dr. Frank Stanton, head of CBS, and Julian Goodman, head of NBC, for their alleged ill treatment of him over a Cleveland radio station. In the end it developed that neither NBC nor CBS was involved.

Academic freedom. Read this to mean imposing by violence anti-academic conditions on our schools and universities. They demand that others follow democratic rules that they themselves defy.

Unemployment. Actually, twice as many people working at two jobs (moonlighting) as there are not working.

Poverty. The War on Poverty has now bureaucratized itself to include 150 Washington bureaus and 170 separate programs in its confusions. Meanwhile, the Budget Bureau needs a 33-page booklet merely to list its poverty consultants. That's Washington, say philosophers.

Ghetto. Often a politicians' paradise. Example: In Oakland, Calif., the total population has declined 5 per cent in the past 10 years, but the Negro population has increased 73 per cent. Only 15 per cent of Oakland's housing units, however, are rated substandard. But Washington is operating (and the Federal taxpayers are paying for) an incredible 125 different Federal aid programs in Oakland.

Federal funds. Meaningless

"Your station claimed that I was senile, and offered me equal time to prove that I wasn't," complained the Senator from Ohio.

Lausche, who had had a couple of snorts before attending the committee meeting, got his Cleveland stations mixed up. Finally it developed that the station involved was WIXY in Cleveland whose disk jockey Joe Finan had said that Lausche represents "The archaic politics of yesterday. He is politically senile," Finan said.

Lausche still has available equal time over WIXY to prove that he is not politically senile, but he hasn't accepted yet.

Trick on Wayne Morse

One reason why Sen. Wayne Morse nearly lost out in the Oregon primary was a smart trick played on him by Bobby Kennedy's henchmen. They put Morse's name on a Kennedy card as a Kennedy delegate and mailed it to thousands of voters on the eve of the primary.

This got all the McCarthyites, who were in the majority, sore.

"I was furious," said Mrs. K. C. Tanner of Portland. "The card said, 'You can help elect the next President of the United States. The Oregon Committee for Kennedy recommends the support of these delegates.' And it listed prominently Wayne Morse."

"I called Morse headquarters and they said he was not supporting Kennedy. He was supporting no one. They said they had been getting calls all day. Some people didn't call. They just went out and voted against Morse because he was supposed to be for Kennedy."

That may have been one reason why Oregon voters who went strong for McCarty, a dove, also voted strong for Robert Duncan, a hawk.

LBJR to LBJ

Lynda Bird Johnson Robb is a young lady who sometimes talks back to the President of the United States. Within the family it is sometimes said that Lynda Bird is a chip off the old block.

The other evening at a private party a friend reminded her what happened after her father was defeated for the presidential nomination at the Democratic Convention in Los Angeles in 1960.

His headquarters were terribly depressed. But Lynda Bird, then 16, got up on a table to remind her father's staff: "I know how disappointed you all are. But I remember when I was a little girl my father was defeated for the first time in Texas and there were reports that the election was stolen. A lot of people told him to contest the election, but he said: 'No, there'll be another time.'"

"So just remember tonight that there'll be another time." After the friend had finished reminding Lynda Bird of this story, she piped up, "and do you remember what happened the next day?"

"I went out to Disneyland and father couldn't find me when he was nominated for Vice President. He kept calling all over the place to get me to be on the platform when he accepted the Vice Presidential nomination."

"When he finally got me he was pretty sore."

"We didn't come out here to go to Disneyland," he said.

"I said, 'we didn't come out here to be Vice President either.'"

Auto Insurance Probe

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., who has just written a book, "The Dark Side of the Marketplace," on the plight of the American consumer, is planning to become a regular author. He has another book in the works, this one on the plight of the American automobile driver at the hands of the insurance companies.

Magnuson points out that when there's a five-car crack-up, the owners of the five different cars usually have different insurance policies calling for five different types of remuneration. There is also diverse and conflicting insurance in different states, the question of whether auto insurance should be compulsory, and finally refusal of some insurance companies to renew. This leaves a driver unable to drive his car at all. Finally, there is the case of bankrupt and fly-by-night insurance companies.

If the Senator from Washington digs deep into auto insurance, his book should be a best seller.

Federal funds. Meaningless

words. There's no such thing as "government money." "The government is paying," etc., should be accurately revised by editors and others to read "taxpayers' funds," "the taxpayers are paying," etc. Hey, that's our money! This simple in the press, might even bring a taxpayers' revolt.

Government grants. Again, these sound like found money. Yet any government is a spender, not an earner. Anything a government says it will give to the people it must first take away from the people.

Matching aid. So absurd have definitions become that President Johnson even calls "Federal funds" on a 90-10 matching basis with the states or cities a matching basis.

Inflation. Council of Economic Advisers Chairman Arthur Okun conceded on May 18 that the government itself has been "the major cause" because it has been money into the economy by its super-tremendous borrowings to pay its bills. This is the first time any government official has made so open an admission.

Public debt. Like tickling a tiger, this has certain disadvantages. One trouble with the "public" debt is that we private citizens have to pay it: $14 billion this year.

Collective bargaining. The ultimatums that union officials so incessantly hurl at employers and public officials.

Generation gap. Gibberish for the simple phenomenon that we're not as young as we used to be, but not as old as we're going to be.

Police brutality. Nationwide independent polls confirm that the overwhelming majority of Negroes are sympathetic to the problems of law and order, scorn the charges of police brutality as being the cause of Negro riots and want more police protection. Anarchy is what the Negroes fear, and ever fear, as do we all.

Demonstrators. The Gallup Poll reports that only 19 per cent of the people in our country favor demonstrations. And even of that group only one per cent is interested in demonstrating about the Vietnam war. But Lenin established the profitable principle that well-organized gangs have very real power.

Hippies. Confucius say amateur sociologist nuttier than fruitcake.

Sophistication. In politics, a push-button opportunist who manipulates people's emotions, beliefs and hopes in his own interest. Get smart. The end justifies the means.

Viable. The egg has hit the fan.

Pragmatism. Our political windbags' propensity for always waiting and watching the pressure gauges of public opinion to decide when and how loud to blow the whistle. Read pragmatism as the opposite of principle.

Charisma. As Jimmy Durante says, "I'd explain what that means but I'm too over-come that I can't pronounce it." And when carnival genius P. T. Barnum said, "There's a sucker born every minute," he might have added that there's also a politician born every hour ready to take the crop in hand.

Editor, The Freeman:

We have received many favorable comments about the Memorial Day Parade. The Kingston Veterans Association and American Legion Post 150 wish to thank the Kingston Daily Freeman, radio stations WGHQ, WKNY, WBAZ, the colorful bands, the marching units and all the spectators for making the Parade the success that it was.

We hope that the meaning of the Holiday will never be forgotten and that keeping in mind the occasion the Parade will continue to grow in size and stature.

Brass Tacks

By LYNN MULVANEY
Freeman Political Reporter

IT WASN'T really too long ago that the Hudson Valley hills were reverberating with wails of "Poor Joe". And, the echoes were coming from Democrats and Republicans alike for President Johnson had just announced his surprise withdrawal as a presidential candidate.

"Poor Joe" was, of course the 28th District's own Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick who had much earlier and confidently pinned his entire hopes of a senatorial nomination on his backing of the president's stand on Vietnam.

Following LBJ's announcement, a good many Democrat hearts went out to Joe (What should he, what could he do now?)

Other Democrat hearts simply stopped. (his active supporter's)

Some Glee

THE GOP, of course, added to the "Poor Joe" pronouncements with glee.

But several months have passed now, months which saw Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's hand-picked supposedly "shoo-in" candidate Eugene Nickerson enter the race, months in which peace candidate Paul O'Dwyer put in his bid, months in which the echoes of "Poor Joe" have begun to fade and seem to be heading for oblivion.

For Joe isn't poor, and that is precisely the point.

Money Talks

For money talks and Joe talks and both have been putting out incessantly. The Ellenville manufacturer promised he would spend a million on the primary and it looks like he is doing it.

He is speaking to the people through foreign-language newspapers, in endless numbers of television and radio spot announcements, in speeches, on the streets and in every little weekly and big newspaper in the state.

Huge signs line the Thruway, the highways and byways. He is talking through bumper stickers, buttons and rock and roll bands. One hundred and 50 headquarters herald his happenings and as Paul O'Dwyer lamented yesterday, "He has done everything in such detail."

What else has Resnick got going for him?

Man of Peace

For one thing he certainly has soft-pedaled his "hawkish" views on Vietnam. Why even one of his television spots refers to him as "a man of peace". Too, he has refused to debate Vietnam with his opponents, using the Paris peace sessions as an excuse.

All this helps align him with people who have leaned toward the more dovish Nickerson and O'Dwyer.

And this seems to be working too. Just yesterday Resnick announced five upstate county chairmen deserting the other ranks and coming over to his side.

Speaking of the party organization, Resnick says it is doing Nickerson an injustice in that it is spending all its time and effort trying to elect convention delegates and not giving him the kind of campaign effort he thinks he should be getting.

Joe has something else going too. An AFL-CIO telephone campaign will be conducted asking union members to vote for him and vice president Humphrey.

But in spite of all this there is one thing more we feel Joe would dearly love to cap off his campaign—an endorsement from Humphrey.

That one might prove a bit elusive however.

Red China Plays

By GEORGE WELLER
(Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)
ROME—Are 700,000,000 (M) Chinese silent allies of the West against Soviet imperialism?

The long overlooked role of China in the backyard defense of Europe and the Middle East against Russia is being recognized.

Germany and the United States, the two strongest powers of the Atlantic Alliance, have separately reached a cautious recognition that China's role as a brake on Soviet Imperialism has been underrated and deserves encouragement.

China's 6,000-mile border with Russia—the longest in the world—is continually under tension due to Peking's pledge to expel Russia from her Asiatic holdings.

The NATO powers, always too European-centered, are coming to a delayed recognition that China's presence, breathing down Russia's neck, has been an unrecognized deterrent to Soviet expansion in the Middle East. China is NATO's invisible member, keeping Russia worried.

This week's interruption of the series of 135 talks in Warsaw since 1955 between the Americans and the Chinese begins to assume an importance it never had before. The interruption is only procedural and temporary. Peking contends the United States, whose new envoys are packed to go, wanted the talks stopped until November.

The tendency, on Peking's part as well as the West's, is cautiously toward something more intimate, not less.

China's prime minister Chou En-Lai came up with an astonishing statement this week that "American power is no longer a serious threat in Asia." This statement appeared to belittle Soviet aid to North Vietnam and also to warn Russians that China is now free to expand, relieved of the threat of an American attack.

Chou could not say, of course, that a strong NATO aids China.

Washington's cautious recognition that China can be helped bilaterally, without her Pariah status in the U.N., came in two careful speeches by State Department policy makers Nicholas Deb. Katzenbach and William P. Bundy. Katzenbach lauded the benefits of non-strategic trade with what he cautiously called "The Mainland." Bundy said Chinese "contracts" should be maintained and added, "we should hold open these possibilities and continue to examine our trade possibilities."

One immediate trade possibility is that the United States could take over the 400,000-ton wheat order Peking got from France. President Charles de Gaulle cleverly persuaded the European Common Market to put up a $30,000,000 wheat credit to help Peking while he was wooing China along with Russia. But China-inspired demonstrations against de Gaulle and in favor of the rebel students have endangered that deal.

Germany, facing the 20 Soviet divisions in East Germany, disturbed by the American tieup in Vietnam, is looking for Chinese relief from the rebel students have endangered that deal.

Russia's famous commentator "Ernest Henri," who uses this pseudonym in both Russia and Europe, has done a long treatment of what he calls "Bonn-Peking: the attraction of opposites" in the Moscow weekly, Literaturny Gazeta.

Basing himself apparently on Soviet intelligence, he claims that a Sino-German pact is in the making. Its beginning he traces to the secret meetings with Chinese envoys by West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger on his Asiatic trip. Kiesinger met the Chinese in Colombo, Ceylon, and in two Pakistan cities, Karachi and Rawalpindi, according to "Henri."

The Chinese, who used to be popular in Poland as anti-Soviet tacticians, have now switched around to wooing the Germans. "Henri" says Mao refuses to recognize the Oder-Neisse River frontier, thus pleasing German nationalists.

The German experts are now helping China build medium-range missiles with ranges up to 400 miles, a potent weapon on the enormous frontier. Germany is supposed also to be selling China heavy water for the Chinese atomic plants in Sinkiang, on the Soviet border.

The Soviets see Germany and China confronted with the failure of their systems of alliance. Germany by the weakening of NATO and China by her rejection in Indonesia, Burma, Cambodia and India.

The Gallup Report

Public Favors Limit on Spending By Candidate in His Campaign

By GEORGE GALLUP
Copyright, 1968, American Institute of Public Opinion. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with written consent of the copyright holders.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 4—The considerable sum of money spent by presidential candidates in the California primary, and in earlier contests this year, raises the question of a law limiting the amount that can be spent for or by a candidate in his campaign for public office.

It was estimated that Senator Robert Kennedy and Senator Eugene McCarthy spent at least $3 million between them in the California race alone. The final cost of the 1968 presidential campaign is estimated at nearly $50 million, an all-time high and $15 million more than the 1964 presidential campaign.

Seven adults in ten favor a law to control this kind of spending. Majorities of both Republicans and Democrats, and at both high and low educational levels, would back such a law.

Although present laws are designed to control the amount that any person can contribute to a campaign, these laws can be evaded or avoided in many different ways.

This question was asked in a national survey completed last week:

	National
Favor	68%
Oppose	21%
No opinion	8%
	Republicans
Favor	72%
Oppose	23%
No opinion	5%
	Democrats
Favor	65%
Oppose	25%
No opinion	10%

A chief argument cited in favor of a ceiling on spending is that many outstanding persons of limited financial means do not run for office because of the costs involved.

Free Radio, TV Time
A chief argument of those opposed to a ceiling on spending is that such a move could prevent a candidate from presenting his case to the widest possible audience.

One proposal that would permit candidates considerable exposure while cutting down campaign costs has been supported by a majority of the public.

This plan would require all radio and television stations to give a certain amount of free time to the national political parties during election years.

Still another proposal, also with public backing is to have the Federal Government print and distribute free a pamphlet dealing with the views of each candidate for national office. The pamphlet would be mailed to all households in each election district.

Tougher Laws in Britain
Many persons who have studied the problem of campaign spending believe a ceiling would be impractical and unworkable. And yet other countries, and particularly Great Britain, have had to wrestle with the same problem and have adopted practices that limit spending and go much farther in equalizing the opportunity all candidates have to win the nomination or the election.

In Great Britain a law controls the total amount that candidates for parliament can spend. Each candidate is limited to an expenditure that ranges between $2,000 and $3,000, depending on the number of voters in the constituency where he runs. Each candidate has the right to send one mailing to the voters postage free.

Brass Tacks

By LYNN MULVANEY
Freeman Political Reporter

IT WASN'T really too long ago that the Hudson Valley hills were reverberating with wails of "Poor Joe". And, the echoes were coming from Democrats and Republicans alike for President Johnson had just announced his surprise withdrawal as a presidential candidate.

"Poor Joe" was, of course the 28th District's own Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick who had much earlier and confidently pinned his entire hopes of a senatorial nomination on his backing of the president's stand on Vietnam.

Following LBJ's announcement, a good many Democrat hearts went out to Joe (What should he, what could he do now?)

Some Glee

THE GOP, of course, added to the "Poor Joe" pronouncements with glee.

But several months have passed now, months which saw Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's hand-picked supposedly "shoo-in" candidate Eugene Nickerson enter the race, months in which peace candidate Paul O'Dwyer put in his bid, months in which the echoes of "Poor Joe" have begun to fade and seem to be heading for oblivion.

For Joe isn't poor, and that is precisely the point.

Money Talks

For money talks and Joe talks and both have been putting out incessantly. The Ellenville manufacturer promised he would spend a million on the primary and it looks like he is doing it.

He is speaking to the people through foreign-language newspapers, in endless numbers of television and radio spot announcements, in speeches, on the streets and in every little weekly and big newspaper in the state.

Huge signs line the Thruway, the highways and byways. He is talking through bumper stickers, buttons and rock and roll bands. One hundred and 50 headquarters herald his happenings and as Paul O'Dwyer lamented yesterday, "He has done everything in such detail."

What else has Resnick got going for him?

Man of Peace

For one thing he certainly has soft-pedaled his "hawkish" views on Vietnam. Why even one of his television spots refers to him as "a man of peace". Too, he has refused to debate Vietnam with his opponents, using the Paris peace sessions as an excuse.

All this helps align him with people who have leaned toward the more dovish Nickerson and O'Dwyer.

And this seems to be working too. Just yesterday Resnick announced five upstate county chairmen deserting the other ranks and coming over to his side.

Speaking of the party organization, Resnick says it is doing Nickerson an injustice in that it is spending all its time and effort trying to elect convention delegates and not giving him the kind of campaign effort he thinks he should be getting.

Joe has something else going too. An AFL-CIO telephone campaign will be conducted asking union members to vote for him and vice president Humphrey.

But in spite of all this there is one thing more we feel Joe would dearly love to cap off his campaign—an endorsement from Humphrey.

Red China Plays

By GEORGE WELLER
(Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)
ROME—Are 700,000,000 (M) Chinese silent allies of the West against Soviet imperialism?

The long overlooked role of China in the backyard defense of Europe and the Middle East against Russia is being recognized.

Germany and the United States, the two strongest powers of the Atlantic Alliance, have separately reached a cautious recognition that China's role as a brake on Soviet Imperialism has been underrated and deserves encouragement.

China's 6,000-mile border with Russia — the longest in the world — is continually under tension due to Peking's pledge to expel Russia from her Asiatic holdings.

The NATO powers, always too European-centered, are coming to a delayed recognition that China's presence, breathing down Russia's neck, has been an unrecognized deterrent to Soviet expansion in the Middle East. China is NATO's invisible member, keeping Russia worried.

This week's interruption of the series of 135 talks in Warsaw since 1955 between the Americans and the Chinese begins to assume an importance it never had before. The interruption is only procedural and temporary. Peking contends the United States, whose new envoys are packed to go, wanted the talks stopped until November.

The tendency, on Peking's part as well as the West's, is cautiously toward something more intimate, not less.

China's prime minister Chou En-Lai came up with an astonishing statement this week that "American power is no longer a serious threat in Asia." This statement appeared to belittle Soviet aid to North Vietnam and also to warn Russians that China is now free to expand, relieved of the threat of an American attack.

Chou could not say, of course, that a strong NATO aids China.

Washington's cautious recognition that China can be helped bilaterally, without her Pariah status in the U.N., came in two careful speeches by State Department policy makers Nicholas DeB. Katzenbach and William P. Bundy. Katzenbach lauded the benefits of non-strategic trade with what he cautiously called "The Mainland." Bundy said Chinese "contracts" should be maintained and added, "we should hold open these possibilities and continue to examine our trade possibilities."

One immediate trade possibility is that the United States could take over the 400,000-ton wheat order Peking got from France. President Charles de Gaulle cleverly persuaded the European Common Market to put up a $30,000,000 wheat credit to help Peking while he was wooing China along with Russia. But China-inspired demonstrations against de Gaulle and in favor of the rebel students have endangered that deal.

Germany, facing the 20 Soviet divisions in East Germany, disturbed by the American tieup in Vietnam, is looking for Chinese relief from the pressure on the East.

Russia's famous commentator "Ernest Henri," who uses this pseudonym in both Russia and Europe, has done a long treatment of what he calls "Bonn-Peking: the attraction of opposites" in the Moscow weekly, Literaturnya Gazeta.

Bazing himself apparently on Soviet intelligence, he claims that a Sino-German pact is in the making. Its beginning he traces to the secret meetings with Chinese envoys by West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger on his Asiatic trip. Kiesinger met the Chinese in Colombo, Ceylon, and in two Pakistan cities, Karachi and Rawalpindi, according to "Henri."

The Chinese, who used to be popular in Poland as anti-Soviet tacticians, have now switched around to wooing the Germans. "Henri" says Mao refuses to recognize the Oder-Neisse River frontier, thus pleasing German nationalists.

The German experts are now helping China build medium-range missiles with ranges up to 400 miles, a potent weapon on the enormous frontier. Germany is supposed also to be selling China heavy water for the Chinese atomic plants in Sinkiang, on the Soviet border.

The Soviets see Germany and China confronted with the failure of their systems of alliance. Germany by the weakening of NATO and China by her rejection in Indonesia, Burma, Cambodia and India.

CHICAGO — The chairman of the legislative session was explaining the basic aims of the Republic of New Africa, a group that petitioned Washington this week to establish its own nation in five southern states.

The Gallup Report

Public Favors Limit on Spending By Candidate in His Campaign

By GEORGE GALLUP
Copyright, 1968, American Institute of Public Opinion. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with written consent of the copyright holders.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 4 —The considerable sum of money spent by presidential candidates in the California primary, and in earlier contests this year, raises the question of a law limiting the amount that can be spent for or by a candidate in his campaign for public office.

It was estimated that Senator Robert Kennedy and Senator Eugene McCarthy spent at least $3 million between them in the California race alone. The final cost of the 1968 presidential campaign is estimated at nearly $50 million, an all-time high and $15 million more than the 1964 presidential campaign.

Seven adults in ten favor a law to control this kind of spending. Majorities of both Republicans and Democrats, and at both high and low educational levels, would back such a law.

Although present laws are designed to control the amount that any person can contribute to a campaign, these laws can be evaded or avoided in many different ways.

This question was asked in a national survey completed last week.

"Would you favor or oppose a law which would put a limit on the amount of money which can be spent FOR or BY a candidate in his campaign for public office?"

The results, nationally and by party.

National
Favor ..... 68%
Oppose ..... 24%
No opinion ..... 8%

Republicans
Favor ..... 72%
Oppose ..... 23%
No opinion ..... 5%

Democrats
Favor ..... 65%
No opinion ..... 10%

A chief argument cited in favor of a ceiling on spending is that many outstanding persons of limited financial means do not run for office because of the costs involved.

Free Radio, TV Time

A chief argument of those opposed to a ceiling on spending is that such a move could prevent a candidate from presenting his case to the widest possible audience.

One proposal that would permit candidates considerable exposure while cutting down campaign costs has been supported by a majority of the public.

This plan would require all radio and television stations to give a certain amount of free time to the national political parties during election years.

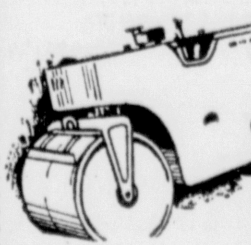

Still another proposal, also with public backing is to have the Federal Government print and distribute free a pamphlet dealing with the views of each candidate for national office. The pamphlet would be mailed to all households in each election district.

Tougher Laws in Britain

Many persons who have studied the problem of campaign spending believe a ceiling would be impractical and unworkable. And yet other countries, and particularly Great Britain, have had to wrestle with the same problem and have adopted practices that limit spending and go much farther in equalizing the opportunity all candidates have to win the nomination or the election.

In Great Britain a law controls the total amount that candidates for parliament can spend. Each candidate is limited to an expenditure that ranges between $2,000 and $3,000, depending on the number of voters in the constituency where he runs. Each candidate has the right to send one mailing to the voters postage free.

County GOP Charged With Armtwisting

Frank Ferro, a Republican committeeman from the Town of Marlboro, today slammed the Ulster County Republican Organization for using "underhanded armtwisting tactics in support of the primary candidacy of Peter J. Savago in his bid for the assemblyman nomination."

Ferro in a statement issued today said, "Primaries are part of the American political process and all Republicans are entitled to participate in them. For some reason, today in Ulster County, anyone who supports H. Clark Bell in the assembly race is purged by the party leadership. This has been evidenced in the City of Kingston and now the creeping tentacles of these armtwisting tactics are reaching even into the Town of Marlboro."

Ferro said he based these charges on events flowing from a recent meeting of the Marlboro Republican Committee. Ferro said he and Brian White, County Legislator from the Ninth Legislative district, have no intention of resigning and deplored the methods used by the Committee. Ferro said that no reason was stated in the meeting which took place at Mondell's Hotel in Marlboro, both Ferro and White received a letter from Marshall Barney, secretary of the Republican Committee calling for their resignations from the Republican Party Committee.

Ferro said that he and White would continue to support H. Clark Bell and added that he was confident Bell would carry the Town of Marlboro in the primary on June 18. He said the rank and file Republicans of Marlboro are very disturbed over the dictatorial methods used by the Savago machine. The "do as you are told or get out of the party" approach is undemocratic.

Ferro also posed a question to his fellow Republican Committeemen in Marlboro and to the county leadership "Gentlemen, what will you do on June 19 after Bell has won the GOP primary? Will you resign from the Republican Party or will you work for the party's 'official' candidate?"

Lions Hear Report on New Teaching

Kingston Lions members took a look at new trends in the teaching of social studies to local teenagers Tuesday as Miss Viola Opdahl described a changing curriculum in her special field. The speaker, a recognized authority, spoke before an intensely interested group at the regular weekly luncheon meeting.

Miss Opdahl, a teacher at Kingston High School, revealed one teenager's reaction to the abandonment of the textbook method and the switch to the "inquiry approach," involving different materials, committee study and the emphasizing of the use of source material. As part of a "mass resistance" to the many changes, one student remarked, "We're too old to change to something like this."

Despite this, and similar initial objections, the speaker reported that—as she and her supervisors expected—the students have made great strides through the use of such techniques as role-playing, inviting local speakers and similar motivating techniques.

A 25-minute film-tape for showing throughout New York State to interested educators, has been prepared in the local school to reveal the excellent results obtained through revision of the eleventh grade curriculum.

Miss Opdahl was accompanied by Miss Thelma Schwab, chairman of the social studies department of Kingston High School, and was introduced by John Johnson, program chairman.

County Grange News

Plattekill Notes

Mrs. Raymond Davies of Plattekill Grange was awarded the first place in the chocolate cake baking contest held on the county level at the Ulster County Grange Saturday. This award will entitle her to enter the State Grange Baking Contest to be held at the State Grange Service and Hospitality Committee Conference in September. In the doughnut contest, Mrs. Gladys Hammond of the local Grange won second place with Mrs. Isaac Graham of Stone Ridge Grange winning first. The State Contest will be held at Fredonia on Oct. 28.

The Lecturer's Program at the regular meeting of the Plattekill Grange, Saturday, June 8 will feature a patriotic program with Mr. and Mrs. Eber Smith heading the committee. Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kopaskie will be chairmen of the social committee. All applications for membership for the June 15 class of candidates should be presented to the secretary, Mrs. Ira Merwin, at this meeting.

Rosendale Hearing

A public hearing on a proposed zoning ordinance will be held before Rosendale Town Board Wednesday 7 p. m. at Town Hall.

A Worse Fate

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — A fully grown male baboon, to have been used for kidney transplant research, gave doctors at Karl Bremer Hospital a vigorous chase when it escaped as it was about to be operated on.

It fled through a hospital window and was eventually cornered in the home of a police sergeant. A hospital official shot the baboon after it had spent 20 minutes in the house searching for food.

Generous Solons

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The 1968 Kentucky Legislature has voted itself a bonus—doubling expense allowances between biennial sessions from $150 to $300 a month.

Candidates Night Set in Woodstock

The Woodstock Democratic Committee announced today that it will sponsor a "Candidates' Night" for all Democratic candidates at the Woodstock Town Hall on Friday, June 14, at 7:30 p. m.

Town Chairman John Bonilla said that "this will be the first and only opportunity for Democratic voters in the 28th Congressional District to see and hear all the candidates under one roof at one time."

"All three presidential slates vying for election in the June 18 primary as delegates to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago will be present," said Bonilla. "This includes Roger Mabe, Hillary Masters and George Whalen, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy delegates; Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, Roy Guarino and Thomas Quinn, Vice President Hubert Humphrey delegates and Mrs. Tobie Geertsema, George Skau and Marshall Efron, Sen. Eugene McCarthy delegates."

Also expected are John Dyson, candidate for Congress in the 28th District, Al Woolley, candidate for State Senate, and Dr. Gerald Gorman and George Majestic, both of whom are seeking the nomination for Assemblyman. James McCardle and Freda Martens, unopposed candidates for State Committee-man and Committeewoman respectively, and William Martin, candidate for Ulster County Sheriff, also unopposed, round out the slate.

Bonilla said that "With the exception of Congressman Resnick who has another engagement but will make every effort to attend, all candidates have indicated that they will be there." Bonilla said that Town Hall capacity is only 250, so admittance, which is open to all, will have to be on a first-come, first-served basis.

The occasion, which will be moderated by Bonilla, should provide for a spirited evening since debate between primary candidates will be the featured attraction in addition to addresses by the regular party candidates.

Further information may be obtained from Bonilla.

Card of Thanks

The family of the late Flavio D. Castiglione Jr., wish to take this opportunity to thank the Reverend Clergy and religious, Pilgrim Furniture Co., Musicians Local No. 215, local news media, doctors nurses and our many friends, neighbors and relatives for their acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy extended during his illness and at the time of his death. ## Lions Hear Report on New Teaching

Kingston Lions members took a look at new trends in the teaching of social studies to local teenagers Tuesday as Miss Viola Opdahl described a changing curriculum in her special field. The speaker, a recognized authority, spoke before an intensely interested group at the regular weekly luncheon meeting.

Miss Opdahl, a teacher at Kingston High School, revealed one teenager's reaction to the abandonment of the textbook method and the switch to the "inquiry approach," involving different materials, committee study and the emphasizing of the use of source material. As part of a "mass resistance" to the many changes one student remarked, "We're too old to change to something like this." Despite this, and similar initial objections, the speaker reported that—as she and her supervisors expected—the students have made great strides through the use of such techniques as role-playing, inviting local speakers and similar motivating techniques.

A 25-minute film-tape, for showing throughout New York State to interested educators, has been prepared in the local school to reveal the excellent results obtained through revision of the eleventh grade curriculum.

Miss Opdahl was accompanied by Miss Thelma Schwab, chairman of the social studies department of Kingston High School, and was introduced by John Johnson, program chairman.

County Grange News

Plattekill Notes
Mrs. Raymond Davies of Plattekill Grange was awarded the first place in the chocolate cake baking contest held on the county level at the Ulster County Grange Saturday. This award will entitle her to enter the State Grange Baking Contest to be held at the State Grange Service and Hospitality Committee Conference in September. In the doughnut contest, Mrs. Gladys Hammond of the local Grange won second place with Mrs. Isaac Graham of Stone Ridge Grange winning first. The State Contest will be held at Fredonia on Oct. 28. The Lecturer's Program at the regular meeting of the Plattekill Grange, Saturday, June 8 will feature a patriotic program with Mr. and Mrs. Eber Smith heading the committee. Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kopaskie will be chairman of the social committee. All applications for membership for the June 15 class of candidates should be presented to the secretary, Mrs. Ira Merwin, at this meeting.

Rosendale Hearing
A public hearing on a proposed zoning ordinance will be held before Rosendale Town Board Wednesday 7 p. m. at Town Hall.

Generous Solons
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The 1968 Kentucky Legislature has voted itself a bonus—doubling expense allowances between biennial sessions from $150 to $300 a month.

A Worse Fate
CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — A fully grown male baboon, to have been used for kidney transplant research, gave doctors at Karl Bremer Hospital a vigorous chase when it escaped as it was about to be operated on.

It fled through a hospital window and was eventually cornered in the home of a police sergeant. A hospital official shot the baboon after it had spent 20 minutes in the house searching for food.

Candidates Night Set in Woodstock
The Woodstock Democratic Committee announced today that it will sponsor a "Candidates' Night" for all Democratic candidates at the Woodstock Town Hall on Friday, June 14, at 7:30 p. m.

Town Chairman John Bonilla said that "this will be the first and only opportunity for Democratic voters in the 28th Congressional District to see and hear all the candidates under one roof at one time."

All three presidential slates vying for election in the June 18 primary as delegates to the Democratic National Convention, in Chicago will be present," said Bonilla. "This includes Roger Mabe, Hillary Masters and George Whalen, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy delegates; Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, Roy Guarino and Thomas Quinn, Vice President Hubert Humphrey delegates and Mrs. Tobie Geertsema, George Skau and Marshall Efron, Sen. Eugene McCarthy delegates."

Also expected are John Dyson, candidate for Congress in the 28th District, Al Woolley, candidate for State Senate, and Dr. Gerald Gorman and George Majestic, both of whom are seeking the nomination for Assemblyman. James McCardle and Freda Martens, unopposed candidates for State Committeeman and Committeewoman respectively, and William Martin, candidate for Ulster County Sheriff, also unopposed, round out the slate.

Bonilla said that "With the exception of Congressman Resnick who has another engagement but will make every effort to attend, all candidates have indicated that they will be there." Bonilla said that Town Hall capacity is only 250, so admittance, which is open to all, will have to be on a first-come, first-served basis.

The occasion, which will be moderated by Bonilla, should provide for a spirited evening since debate between primary candidates will be the featured attraction in addition to addresses by the regular party candidates.

Further information may be obtained from Bonilla.

Eleven Received Into Membership At Atonement

A class of 11 pupils was received into membership of Atonement Lutheran Church, recently, by rite of Confirmation, at the 11 a. m. service.

The class has completed two years of 30 hours each of study of Bible, Luther's Catechism, teachings of the Lutheran Church and responsibilities of membership. Those confirmed were: Steven Anders, Caron E. Clemmetson, Ellen Hauck, Lance Hudson, William Johnson, Victor Peletieri, David Kleinert, Lina Mae Readler, Linda Rittie, John VanVoorhis, Diane Warns.

William Johnson of West Saugerties was awarded a prize for the best essay on the Life of Martin Luther. Awards for the best attendance in their classes were given to Ellen Hauck, Kathleen Romano, Dorinda Coons and Mark Hildebrandts.

Parents who received awards for best parental cooperation in the four confirmation classes were: Mr. and Mrs. David Hildebrandt, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Olson and Mr. and Mrs. Clemmetson. Cynthia Clemmetson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clemmetson, of Blue Hills Drive, Saugerties was awarded a second place ribbon at the Metropolitan New York Synod meeting at the Nevelle, Ellenville on May 22. Her entry with other award winners will be entered at the meeting of the Lutheran Church in America Convention at Atlanta in June.

Miss Margaret Gippert has been elected a lay delegate to the convention of the Lutheran Church in America at Atlanta, Ga., to be held in June.

A special congregational meeting has been called by Atonement Church for June 16 at 6 p. m. at the church, following a covered-dish supper. Members are asked to bring a dish to pass. The wives of the members of the Church Council will be in charge of the supper. A congregational meeting will follow to present information and procedure necessary for the plan-

Jaycees Plan July 4 Events

The Saugerties Jaycees invite everyone to their July 4 celebration. It will start on July 3 with the Jaycees "Country Mod Nite" with a battle of the bands by invitation, and the Lefooters are scheduled at Cantine Field.

July 4, the day will start with a parade at 10 a. m. Ten bands and numerous floats and novelty acts will be presented. After the parade field day activities will start at Cantine Field including a drum corps exhibition, horse show by Woodstock Riding Club, and an air show by Cole Palen.

The day's activities will terminate at 9:30 with fireworks.

Pastor and Wife Honored At Retirement Dinner

Members and friends of Blue Mt. Reformed Church honored their retiring minister and his wife, the Rev. August Pfau Jr., recently.

About 150 attended the event which recognized the Rev. Mr. Pfau's 15 years of service to the church. Scott Gilpin was master of ceremonies and presented the Pfau's with a corsage, boutonniere and a gift on behalf of the congregation.

A supper was served and entertainment was provided with group singing, poems and a church history.

The Pfau's will remain as residents of the community.

Jaycees Plan July 4 Events

The Saugerties Jaycees have a full day of field activities scheduled for July 4. The main event will be a drum corps exhibition at Cantine Field after the parade. A riding show will be put on by the Woodstock Riding Club, an air show by Cole Palen of Kainebeck. Other events scheduled are: watermelon eating contest, model airplane show, penny hunt for the children, children's games, dog show, pie baking and pie eating, first aid demonstration, rock and roll music, "Sweet Adelines," and band concert plus fireworks.

The Pfau's will remain as residents of the community.

Joint Piano Recital Held

A joint piano recital, presenting a group from the classes of Miss Isabel Tubbs and Howard Houghtaling, was held recently at the Dutch Arms Chapel, Saugerties.

A special feature of the program was a demonstration of the Robert Pace method of group teaching, a creative approach to piano study with special emphasis on fundamentals.

Participating in the program were Nina Bosco, Regan Russell, Debralea Buchan, Betty Rose Kelly, Diane Gordon, Linda Smith, Connie Martello, Jacquelyn Russell, Gretchen Hildebrandt, Karen Whitenor, Carol Aviles, Mary Beth Wen-

School Notes

The first grade class of Mrs. Gertrude Peetoom presented an assembly recently in which they performed in a skit and a musical story of The Three Little Pigs.

The third session kindergarten class of Mrs. Ann Glan-none had a recent tour of Lachmann's Bakery.

He has been investigating the feasibility of all sizes of pools from a kiddie wading pool to one that is all-weather and olympic size. In the past month he has conferred with the Ulster County Board of Health and the Ulster County Planning Board.

Donald Martin of Mt. Marion outlined a program of movies to be presented in recreation areas. He visualized movies being projected outdoors utilizing ing ball fields for an evening's entertainment for Saugerties youngsters. The screen would be primitive, consisting of a sheet stretched across a back stop.

Town Councilman Bernard Rinaldi, recreation commissioner, reported that the temporary diamond at Veteran's Memorial Field was nearing completion and that the committee was providing improved facilities at Cantine Field in time for the annual July 4 observance.

To lend balance to the programs of the committee, the feminine viewpoint will be handled by new appointee Mrs. George Mahony. For many years a teacher in the Saugerties School system and a mother of a teen age son and daughter, she will propose activities in the visual and performing arts.

Others attending the session were Planning Board Chairman Dr. Richard J. Messina, Michael A. Catalinotto, Vernon Benjamin, Fred Seither, Frank Orlando, Charles Mullaney, and Vincent Van Bramer.

Summer Pastor Returns to Saugerties

Guest minister at both the 9:45 and 11 a. m. services at the Reformed Church of Saugerties will be Richard Brihn, summer pastor at the church last summer and also serving during this coming summer. Mr. Brihn is a student for the ministry at The New Brunswick Theological Seminary, having received his AB degree from Rutgers University in 1966.

The Junior and Senior High Youth Fellowships will meet on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Plans are being made to hold a Pancake Supper on Friday, June 21, from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m. for the benefit of the Steeple Fund. Further plans for the dinner will be made at the meeting on Sunday night under the direction of the Senior High President, William Brown Jr.

Collarmen Sing Next Sunday

The Collarmen, an energetic, apostolic group of six priests from the Redemptorist Seminary, Esopus, will entertain during an outdoor sing-a-long Sunday evening, June 9, at Cantine's Field, starting at 7:30 p. m. In their hour and a half program, they will include folk songs, popular ballads and even rock and roll to please the appetite of any age.

Previous engagements in the Saugerties area include appearances at the Methodist churches in the village and in Malden and at St. Joseph's, Glasco. This may be the final appearance of the group. At the end of June, each man will go his separate way in doing the work of the Lord, although a new singing group from Mt. St. Alphonsus will be formed for engagements in the fall.

There is no admission and no offering is expected. In case of rain, the program will be held in Donlon Auditorium.

The Saugerties Jaycees have a full day of field activities scheduled for July 4. The main event will be a drum corps exhibition at Cantine Field after the parade. A riding show will be put on by the Woodstock Riding Club, an air show by Cole Palen of Kamebeck. Other events scheduled are watermelon eating contest, model airplane show, pony hunt for the children, children's games, dog show, pie baking and pie eating, first aid demonstration, rock and roll music, "Sweet Adelines," and band concert plus fireworks.

Joint Piano Recital Held

A joint piano recital, presenting a group from the classes of Miss Isabel Tubbs and Howard Houghtaling, was held recently at the Dutch Arms Chapel, Saugerties.

A special feature of the program was a demonstration of the Robert Pace method of group teaching, a creative approach to piano study with special emphasis on fundamentals.

Participating in the program were Nina Bosco, Regan Russell, Debralea Buchanan, Betty Rose Kelly, Diane Gordon, Linda Smith, Connie Martello, Jacquelyn Russell, Gretchen Hildebrandt, Karen Whitenor, Carol Aviles, Mary Beth Wenger, Fabian Russell and Robert Russell. Duets were played by Debralea Buchanan and Regan Russell, Karen Whitenor and Carol Aviles.

The program closed with "Marche Militaire" by Schubert, played by Fabian and Robert Russell.

School Notes

The first grade class of Mrs. Gertrude Peetoom presented an assembly recently in which they performed in a skit and a musical story of The Three Little Pigs.

The third session kindergarten class of Mrs. Ann Gian-lachmann's Bakery.

Disbelief, Shock Is Local Reaction

By TORIE GEERTSEMA

The way they must have reacted in April a hundred years ago—and the way they reacted in November four years ago—Americans reacted today. News of Lincoln's assassination was so horrifying, Carl Sandburg once wrote, that for the rest of their lives men remembered where they were, what they were doing when they heard about it. The same would have to be said of Dallas and now, for the shocking tragedy that has come out of California.

Locally, the news of the attempted assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in Los Angeles drew feelings ranging from stunned disbelief to total shock.

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick of this district, who has been an outspoken political foe of Kennedy, told The Freeman from New York today that he was "shocked by this terrible indefensible act." He added that he "prays for Sen. Kennedy and his complete recovery and extends his sympathy and concern to his wife and his entire family."

The congressman also announced he is postponing his own campaign activities and cancelling for the moment his advertising campaign.

Other reactions in and around the Kingston area ranged from Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo's stunned and simply stated, "I'm shocked. I'm shocked," to what was probably the most poignant and tearful statement of all from Don MacIsaac.

MacIsaac, who has been a personal friend of Kennedy for some years and is currently involved in his campaign here, said the irony of the shooting was reflected in the first words uttered by Kennedy to his wife, Ethel, when he was on the floor of the Ambassador Hotel. "Is everyone safe?" MacIsaac quoted as saying. "If those are the words of a ruthless man," said the IBM executive, "then we have no conception of one of the finest human beings one could ever meet." He also said the act highlighted the magnitude of the crime situation in this country; added that he would have to "lend some credence to those who say it points up the fact that 'We're a sick country.'"

Kingston City Republican Chairman John Mayone echoed similar sentiments when he commented that "this terrible tragedy is one more manifestation of the sick society in which we appear to be living." Added Mayone: "My heart goes out to Mrs. Kennedy and her family."

The two Republican candidates who have been waging around-the-clock primary campaigns here for the job of Assemblyman also spoke of the assassination attempt in subdued tones. Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago said, "It is almost impossible to believe that something like this could happen again, and it is almost unbearable to see the things that are happening in this world we have."

Savago, obviously perturbed and puzzled, added that such acts "are hard to comprehend when people in public office try to do the best thing for the country." Savago also said he is cancelling all advertising in his behalf today.

H. Clark Bell, whose primary fight with Savago has been major news here, also told The Freeman that he has canceled all sound trucks being used in his campaign, asked that his advertisement be dropped from newspapers, and has canceled all public appearances in light of the events. Bell said only that he was "at a loss for words to comment" and that anyone "could only react with 'WOW!'"

Judge John B. Sterley, Ulster County Republican chairman, emphasized the perils facing political candidates in his remarks on the shooting. "I am deeply shocked," said Judge Sterley, "to hear about the attempt on Sen. Kennedy. It is most unfortunate that we have such conditions in our country that make it possible for a candidate for public office, who is campaigning, to be faced with such possibilities." Added the GOP chairman: "I certainly hope for the speedy recovery of Sen. Kennedy."

Among those who have been politically opposed to Robert Kennedy as a Presidential aspirant locally has been Frank Costello, Democratic Town Chairman of Saugerties. But, like everyone else, he was sick at heart; said in strained tones that he was "disappointed that such a thing could happen," and was " saddened for the country in general."

Costello seemed to reflect the general attitude of most local political figures and the people in the streets when he said: "I am heartbroken at the way the country is going and certainly hope we can arrive at something to cure the ills that beset us as a nation. One can only feel embarrassed about what the rest of the world will think of us."

From his office at City Hall here, Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan summed up the thinking of some segments of the community. Garraghan, who was to attend a Mayors Conference today, had this to say to The Freeman:

"As for the shooting of Bobby Kennedy, what can one say? The question is, what is wrong with America?"

"There must be a complete change in our thinking if our democracy is to survive. The thinking must be in the minds of the people but they need leadership and leadership has been lacking in Washington for some six years. The liberal thinking of the Supreme Court has done more to hurt the poor and the minorities than has helped them."

"I do hope Bobby Kennedy can survive as a healthy man to continue the work that he has in mind, as America and the world need him."

Attempts by The Freeman to reach Republican congressional candidate Hamilton Fish, Ulster County Democratic Chairman Dr. Gerald Gorman, Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson, District Attorney Joseph P. Torrace, Democratic Congressional aspirant John Dyson, James McCordle, Ulster County coordinator for Kennedy and new State Committeemen from this area, and others proved unsuccessful prior to press time.

GRIER GRABS GUNMAN — Roosevelt Grier (top), the professional football star traveling with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy on his campaign trail, was credited with grabbing the gunman who is accused of shooting Kennedy. The gunman, according to UPI audio correspondent John Chambers, handed his gun to Rafer Johnson (bottom), former Olympic decathlon champion now aiding the Kennedy campaign. He was then held by Grier and turned over to police. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

The World Reaction: Shock and Sorrow

LONDON (AP) — Waves of shock, dismay and sorrow went round the world today at news of the shooting of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"God help us," said a GI in Vietnam. "What the hell is going on back there?"

"I feel just like the last time," said another, referring to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Members of the Kennedy family in Europe were on the telephone to the United States. An aide to Sargent Shriver, the U.S. ambassador to France and the senator's brother-in-law, said Shriver was trying to reach members of the family in Los Angeles.

In London, Princess Lee Radziwill said she had spoken to her sister, President Kennedy's widow, but "she tells me the news is pretty confused so far."

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy was at her New York Fifth Avenue home when the shooting of her brother-in-law occurred.

She was not available for comment.

News of the shooting caused "acute sorrow" at the Vatican, the chief press official there said. He said Pope Paul VI was being kept informed constantly of the condition of the senator, who is a Roman Catholic.

"It's a nightmare—it's terrible," said a Russian woman on a Moscow street.

"It is a great pity that you live in such a country where any person can be shot," a Russian man told an American in the Soviet capital.

Tass, the official news agency, reported the shooting briefly and without comment.

Italian President Giuseppe Saragat expressed shock and dismay and told the Italian Embassy in Washington to keep him constantly informed of Kennedy's condition. Aides termed the shooting "a nefarious and vile attempt."

The news reached Europeans first by radio and television broadcasts. News agency offices were besieged by telephone calls. First editions of London afternoon papers spread the news in huge black type across their front pages.

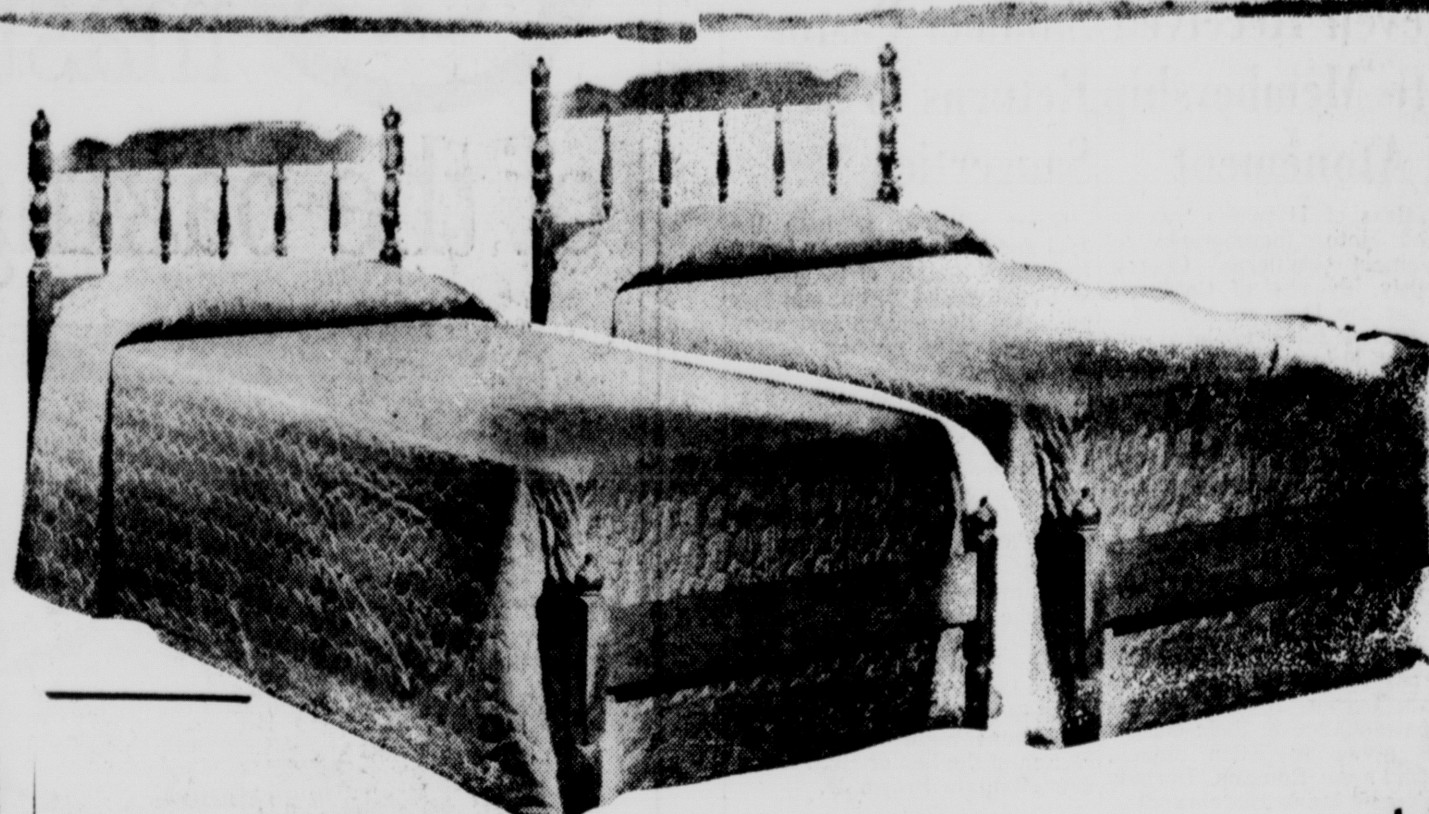

"This is horrible, horrible," said a spokesman for the Swiss government in Bern, where the cabinet was meeting when the news broke.

"The same thing all over again," said a diplomat in Bern. "Horrid, Horrid."

Crowds gathered at Tokyo newspaper offices to read bulletins pasted in the windows. Men shook their heads in disbelief. Some women wiped tears from their eyes, other muttered prayers.

"Unbelievable," said a Belgian government official in Brussels. "American political ways are frightening."

Greece's military government expressed "deep sorrow" over the shooting, and Premier George Papadopoulos cabled the senator the government's wishes for a speedy recovery.

Kennedy Campaign Pattern Gave Him Little Protection

By SAUL PETT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Among the overwhelming ironies, one rushes to mind among reporters who have covered Robert Francis Kennedy on his intensive campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

It occurred to virtually all of us as we watched the pattern.

Invariably, he would bounce down the steps of his campaign plane and, with little protection, plunge into frenzied screaming crowds seeking to grab and tug at him. And inevitably we thought of Dallas and thought that this Kennedy was moving among strangers with much less protection than his brother did on the dark November day in 1963.

Ironically, it was a thing that he felt, according to his aides, that he had to prove: That he, Robert Kennedy, a United States senator and brother of the assassinated President, could move more freely and with more confidence among crowds than President Johnson.

He seemed to do so with a certain sense of fatalism. Those who observed him closely are certain he did not relish being grabbed and pushed and mauled by strangers. It violated his sense of privacy.

But he was, as Kennedys always seem to be, the all-out candidate; he would do what he thought necessary to win.

He talked rarely of possible assassination or the murder of his brother. When questioned, he would say simply he was satisfied with the findings of the Warren Commission, which investigated his brother's death.

He mentioned the late President often in his speeches but it invariably was in an impersonal way. He referred to him as "President Kennedy" and almost never as "my brother" or by his first name. Repeatedly, as he campaigned, there were reminders of the man who campaigned in 1960, in the current candidate's stance, cadence, rhythm, Boston accent, right hand pumping, and, almost invariably, after describing deplorable social conditions, this peroration: "I think we can do better. That is why I run for president. That is why I ask your help."

Many Reminders

But while there were many reminders, he seemed compelled to keep personal memory at arm's length, at least in public. When, on occasion, an admirer in the crowd would offer him a gift memorializing his brother, an etching or quilt, he would try to pull away, murmur a hurried thanks and ask an aide to take the gift.

And then there was this, and it needs to be described carefully: During the lulls in the campaign, at the end of a long day, or during a long flight before the next stop, we often noticed as he rested and finally was alone, a look of infinite sadness, of terrible hurt, in his blue eyes and taut, angular face.

Most reporters noticed this and among those who knew him well, newsmen and staff aides, there was common agreement that that look wasn't there before Nov. 22, 1963.

He was, on the stump, intensive, hard-hitting and frequently very funny, especially in a self-deprecating way that might tend to undermine his alleged ruthlessness.

Not Many Laughs

But away from the platform, he was a man much less inclined to laugh. He would make jokes, listen to jokes but he, himself, seemed to laugh seldom.

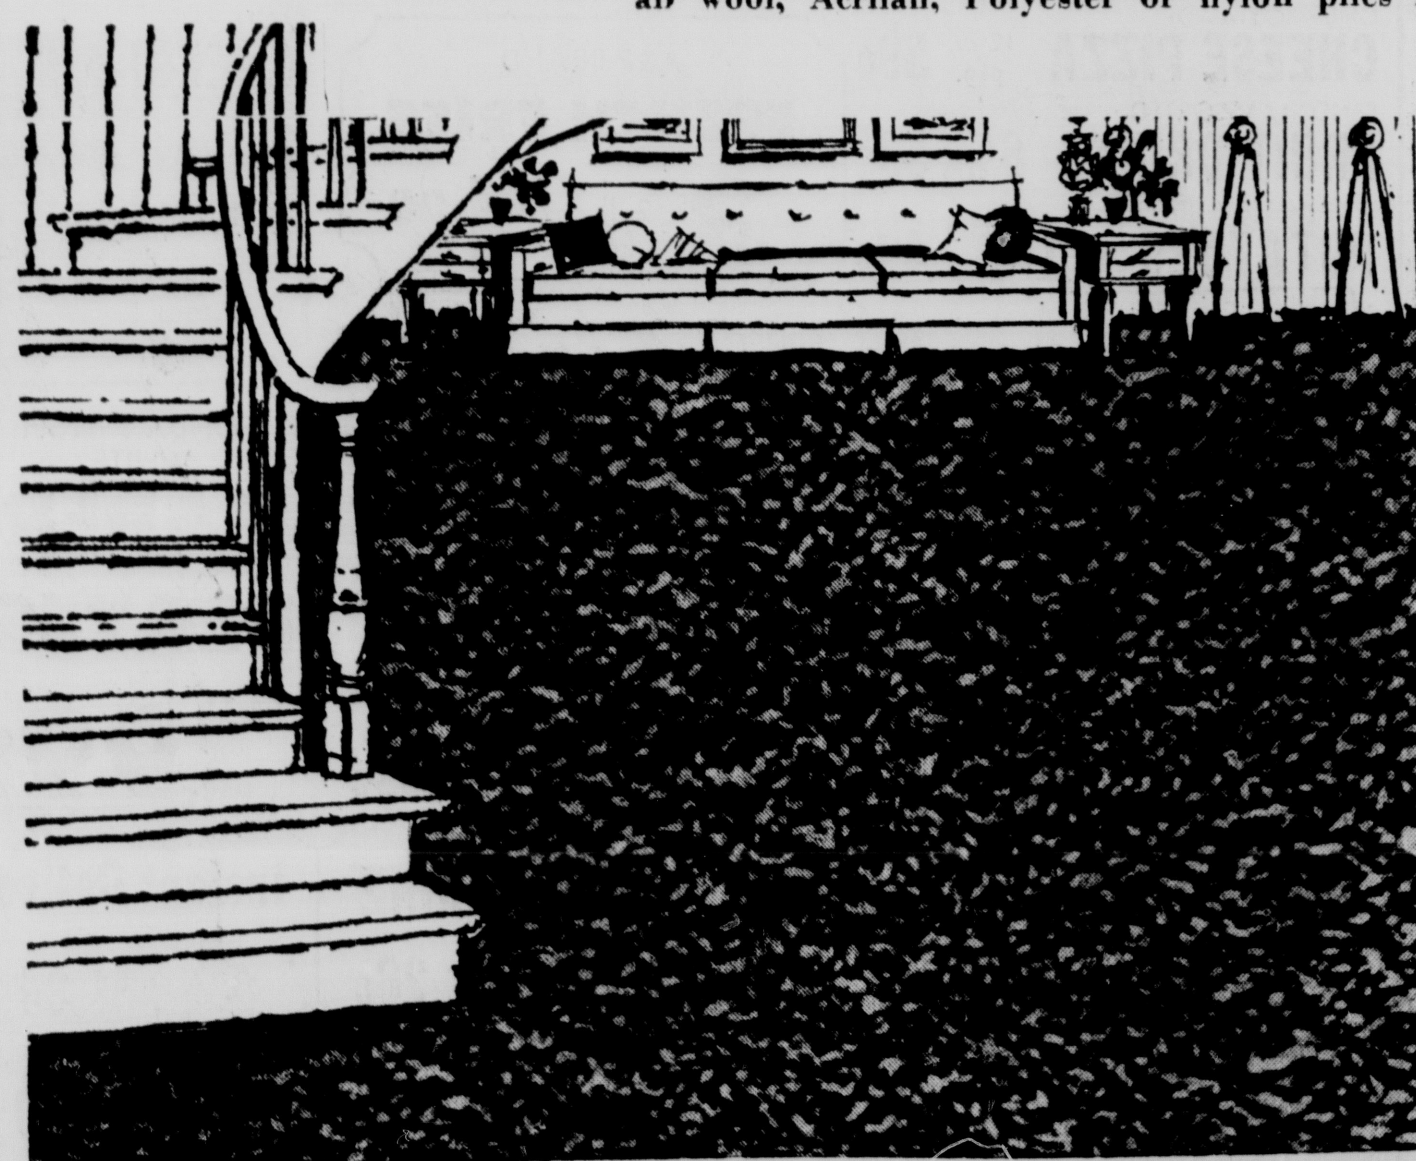

And when he could, even during the campaign, he would walk off alone with his dog at night, or early morning, and he leaned forward into the wind, coat collar up, hands deep in his pockets, very much a reminder of a famous picture taken of him on the day the bulletin came from Dallas in 1963.

About Robert Kennedy, there was always that.

A FATAL BITE FOR A FOOLISH MITE.

Of course, mites don't bite. But they can put the bite on your crop. Serve them Ethion and they'll bite the dust, instead.

Ethion is the quick way to be rid of them. It assures you of a mite-free orchard. Because Ethion means sudden death for mites, pear psylla, codling moth and their friends.

For them, there's nothing friendly about Ethion's fast kill and long residual action.

And that's just peachy for plum trees, apple trees, pear trees, peach trees and other deciduous fruit trees.

Many Reminders

But while there were many reminders, he seemed compelled to keep personal memory at arm's length, at least in public. When, on occasion, an admirer in the crowd would offer him a gift memorializing his brother, an etching or quilt, he would try to pull away, murmur a hurried thanks and ask an aide to take the gift.

And then there was this, and it needs to be described carefully: During the lulls in the campaign, at the end of a long day, or during a long flight before the next stop, we often noticed as he rested and finally was alone, a look of infinite sadness, of terrible hurt, in his blue eyes and taut, angular face.

Most reporters noticed this and among those who knew him well, newsmen and staff aides, there was common agreement that that look wasn't there before Nov. 22, 1963.

He was, on the stump, intense, hard-hitting and frequently very funny, especially in a self-deprecating way that might tend to undermine his alleged ruthlessness.

Not Many Laughs

But away from the platform, he was a man much less inclined to laugh. He would make jokes, listen to jokes but he, himself, seemed to laugh seldom.

And when he could, even during the campaign, he would walk off alone with his dog at night, or early morning, and he leaned forward into the wind, coat collar up, hands deep in his pockets, very much a reminder of a famous picture taken of him on the day the bulletin came from Dallas in 1963.

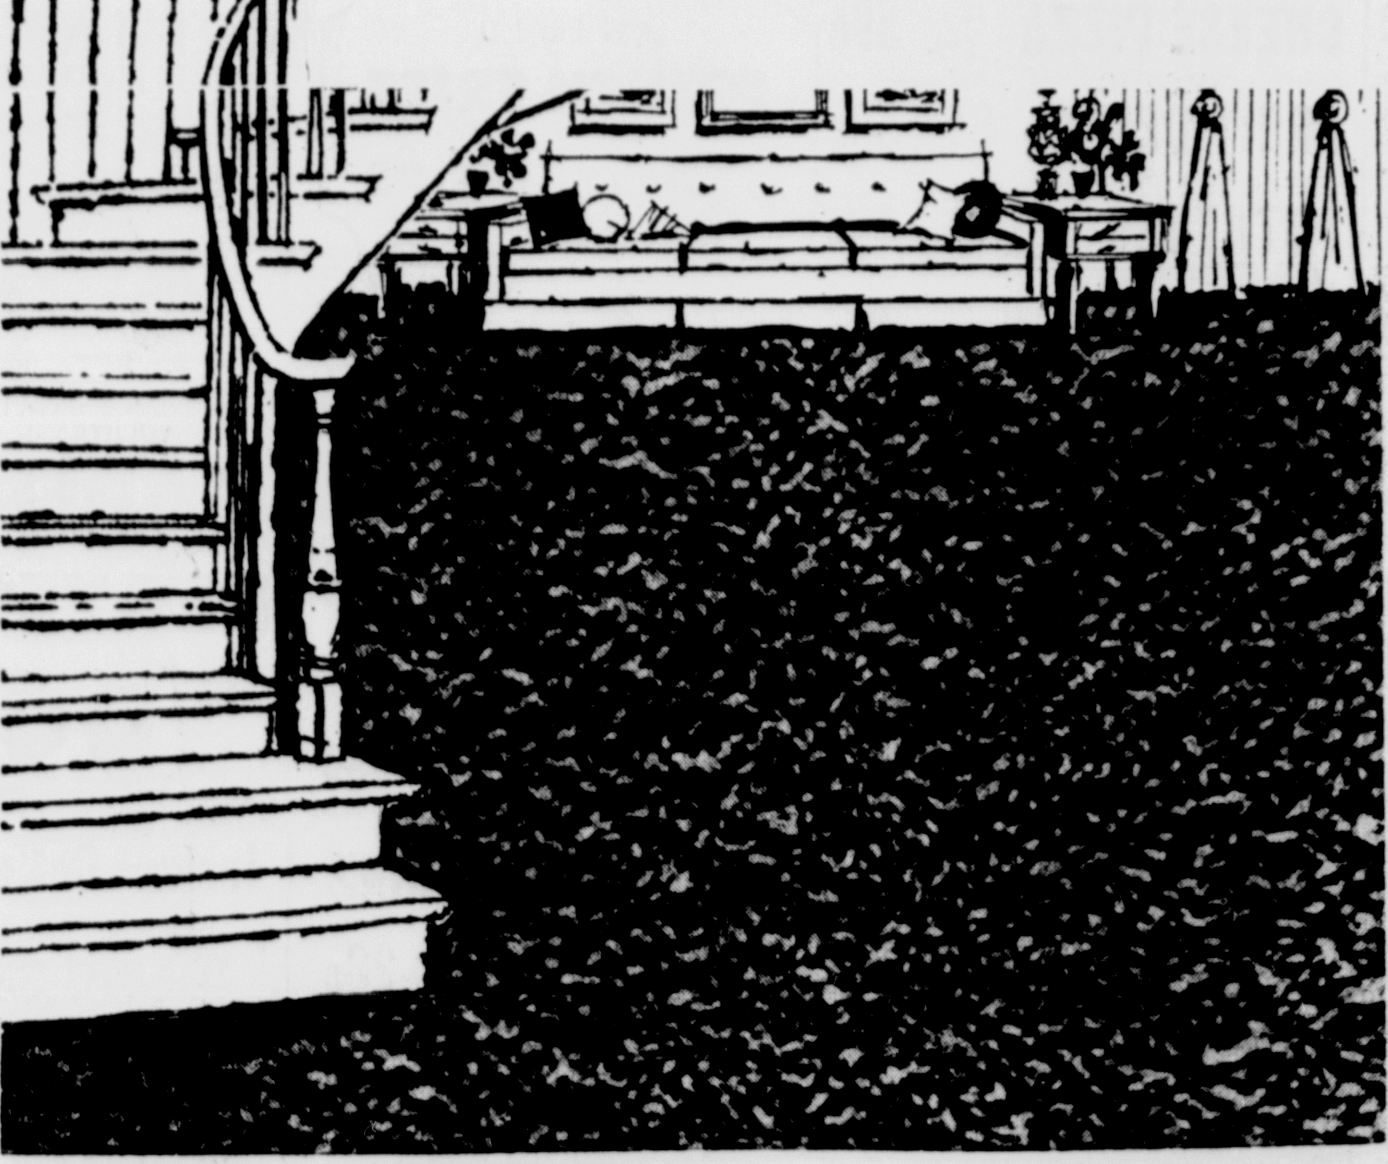

About Robert Kennedy, there was always that.

A FATAL BITE FOR A FOOLISH MITE.

Of course, mites don't bite. But they can put the bite on your crop. Serve them Ethion and they'll bite the dust, instead.

Ethion is the quick way to be rid of them. It assures you of a mite-free orchard. Because Ethion means sudden death for mites, pear psylla, codling moth and their friends.

For them, there's nothing friendlier about Ethion's fast kill and long residual action.

And that's just peachy for plum trees, apple trees, pear trees, peach trees and other deciduous fruit trees.

And for you, too. Ethion helps you raise a bumper crop as it bumps off one pest after another.

Polyram®: the first fungicide that's also an apple-polisher.

So you thought all a fungicide did was kill fungi. You were right. Until now.

Now there's new Polyram® for apples. As fungicides go, there isn't a one that can beat Polyram's power to prevent scab, cedar apple rust, fly speck and sooty blotch.

But Polyram is also a beauty spray. Polyram actually promotes smoother, more perfect skins. Doesn't cause russeting on any variety.

And the beauty treatment is more than skin deep. Because Polyram's zinc content contributes to better apple growth all the way to the core.

Of course, you'd never believe that the world's first fungicide that's also a beauty spray helps fight mites too.

But Polyram does.

Like the label says, Polyram aids in the control of European red mites.

It's an 80% wettable powder. Very easy to handle. Compatible with other pesticides (including oil). Leaves low visible residue. Can be sprayed within 7 days of harvest.

And now that you know all about our fungicide/beautifier/mite-fighter, why settle for just plain fungicide?

Rolison Reports Savings Proposal

A proposal to save money in the printing of Legislature bills has met with favor in the State Senate and will become effective with the opening term of 1969.

State Sen. Jay P. Rolison Jr., R-Dutchess-Ulster, in his final legislative report at the close of the current session notes that the legislators serve a two-year term and each year at the beginning of the session there is a flood of legislative bills. These have to be printed at a cost of about $12 per page. Generally, between 1,000 and 1,200 bills are sent to the governor for signature, Sen. Rolison said. The senate has decided, starting 1969, to carry over to the second year of each term those bills which were not acted upon in the first year of the term. This year about 12,900 bills were introduced. If we assume that the average bill runs four pages, the Dutchess senator said, we can come up with some interesting figures: Bills printed first year 12,900; bills sent to governor 1,200; bills carried over to second year 11,700. This figure, assuming four pages per bill would become 46,800 pages at $12 per page, reflecting a savings of $361,600. This would be the savings in one year, if both houses adopt the new rule, Sen. Rolison said. Again, the Senate has not only improved its procedure, but has also cut down on the expense of the old procedure. This is comparable to the Senate's step several years ago of doing away with the cumbersome committee books for keeping track of action on bills and converting to a simpler card index and reporting system, thus cutting down on the expense for books, printed forms, paper and other supplies required under the old system, the senator said.

Onteora P-TA Future Will Be Discussed

The question of whether the Onteora High School Parent-Teacher Association be dissolved will be explored at the June 11 meeting of the association.

The meeting will be at 8 p. m. at the Boiceville school.

The resolution to be presented reads: Resolved that the Onteora High School Parent-Teacher Association be dissolved.

It further states: Resolved that the officers of the Onteora High School (PTA) are authorized and directed to take all necessary and appropriate steps to wind up the affairs of the association.

A request was made that all members and interested area citizens attend the meeting.

Guilty Plea

Louis Bevier, 18 of New Paltz, through his attorney W. Harp, entered a plea of guilty to attempted robbery, second degree Monday afternoon in county court.

Judge Raymond J. Mino set June 17 at 2 p.m. for sentencing. Bevier was indicted by the grand jury in connection with the robbery of a serviceman, Ronald Parlliman of Walden. The serviceman's wallet which contained $40, was taken in the robbery.

Assistant District Attorney Albert I. Lonstein represented the DA's office.

Welfare Office Finds Lodgings For the Perrys

The Albert Perry family of six, stranded in Ulster County due to a misunderstanding with Perry's step-mother were given temporary shelter in a home in Stone Ridge, the County Welfare Department said today.

The family had set up camp on the fourth floor of the county office building which houses the Department of Social Services Monday afternoon.

James R. Murphy, deputy commissioner said his department is also assisting Perry to find a job. He is an unemployed truck driver.

The Perry's have four children, Thomas 5, Regina 8, Christopher 9, and Albert John 13.

They had left their lodgings in Brooklyn last week with the understanding that they could stay with Perry's step-mother in Sawkill. However due to a misunderstanding not immediately divulged, the Perrys were forced out to find a home of their own.

Cement Plant Loot Could Prove Fatal

Part of the loot in the Century Cement Company burglary last weekend at Rosendale could be fatal to the young people believed to be involved in the crime, Ulster County Sheriff's Department revealed today.

County Investigator Harold T. Bowers said the loot included about $359 worth of laboratory equipment and a quantity of barium chloride, a deadly poison.

Bowers said William Burns, manager of the plant reported that the break-in occurred after 1 p. m. Sunday and entry was gained by prying open the double doors on the north side of the building.

Successful Investing....

by ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor & Analyst
Building a Modest Portfolio for Income

Q—I own Eastman Kodak, Du Pont, Avco and General Motors. I expect shortly to receive $20,000. How should I invest this for extra income, now that I am retired?—L.C.

A—You have some good stocks to hold, but with the exception of General Motors their dividend yields are low. Conversely, their total growth potential is high and hence all should be retained if you'd like some further capital gains. Part of your new cash might be used to build up a round lot of GM if you now hold fewer than 100 shares.

The following income issues are worth considering for current high yields and industry diversification: Allied Chemical, Cheapeake & Ohio, C.I.T. Financial, Pacific Lighting, Tenneco, Washington Water Power.

Your broker will gladly show you current reports, on operations and earnings to assist you in your final choice of possibly four issues to make a manageable portfolio you can readily follow in your paper.

Q—A friend tells me I've made a serious mistake not keeping records of what I've paid for my few stocks or what I've received from the sale of stock dividends. He says I should do something about this and I don't know why, but whatever's wrong I want to rectify. I've always reported cash dividends.—R.M.

A—Since you aren't a trader, buying and selling stocks for intermediate gains, you evidently aren't aware of the reports on your transactions required by tax authorities. Every transaction should be recorded accurately and immediately in a book of entry kept for this purpose. Your broker—or his salesman—also preserves records of your transactions for at least seven years and might help you to start your book. If you have heirs to inherit your holdings, they will need the purchase prices to figure their tax obligations.

Discarded Cans

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—The city recently discarded 256 metal water cans placed in Civil Defense shelters in 1963. The 17½-gallon metal cans began to leak because of rusting and new cans in the shelters will be made of plastic.

'MOST WANTED' — Phillip Morris Jones, who allegedly committed lone-wolf bank robberies in California, Florida and Maryland and reportedly abandoned most of the loot to pursuing authorities, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives." Jones, also known as Philip Morris or Dennis James Mummert, is a white American who was born July 28, 1940 in Jay, Fla. He is 6'1" tall, and weighs 195 to 210 pounds, has dark brown hair, a medium complexion and a large build. His eyes have been described as blue or grey. Jones should be considered armed and extremely dangerous. Anyone with information concerning him is requested to notify the nearest office of the FBI (UPI TELE- PHOTO)

Police Chief Reddin said the gunman had been offered an attorney but that he made no response.

The police station was guarded by police with pistols, rifles and anyone entering the building was searched twice.

Photographers asked if they could get a picture of the gunman and a police aide, obviously recalling the shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald by Jack Ruby, in the Dallas police station, said:

"No one is going to get within a thousand feet of him."

The suspect was assigned as "John Doe" and represented by the public defender. He was charged with six counts of assault with intent to commit murder when he appeared before Municipal Judge Joan Dempsey Klein in the Hall of Justice in Los Angeles. The suspect was then returned to the city hall.

MACON, Mo. (AP)—The Quarterback Club is the backbone of athletic-oriented projects in many cities and towns. This is true in Macon, but the local club is going a step beyond to help a young athlete who was graduated last spring from Macon High School.

The club has launched a Joe Terry fund with $200 from its treasury to help pay expenses for Terry, a three-sport athlete, now suffering from a kidney disease. Terry travels to Kansas City twice each week to use a special kidney machine and may require a transplant.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices today opened slightly lower in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Wall Street commentators generally felt the tragic shooting of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy might have an emotional impact today but few looked for any long term decline.

Shortly after the opening bell, the United Press International marketwide indicator had dropped 0.19 per cent with 480 issues traded. There were 223 declines and 137 advances.

A few glamor stocks showed declines of a point or more but one vast majority of stocks moved in a fractional range.

Chrysler tacked on ¼ to 67½ in the mixed autos. U.S. Steel dipped ¼ to 40½. Bethlehem lost the same amount to 31½.

Polaroid fell ¼ to 119. McDonnell Douglas opened at 13½. Texaco eased ¼ to 79½. Sinclair opened unchanged at 84½.

Kennecott Copper lost a fraction but Anaconda rose ¼ to 51½.

Lion Graduation--Students Walk Out

NEW YORK (AP)—Six weeks of student disorders at Columbia University have climaxed with the school's first rump graduation held for 250 capped and gowned students who walked out of the regular commencement exercises.

The protestors, joined by about 15 members of the Teaching staff, left as Prof. Richard Hofstadter was beginning his commencement address Tuesday. They walked out quietly holding up their fingers in V signs.

1,600 Remain

About 1,600 other degree candidates remained in their seats in the huge Cathedral of St. John the Divine to hear Hofstadter denounce the tactics of student protest that crippled the 214-year-old Ivy League institution.

The demonstrators joined a cheering crowd of supporters outside the Episcopal church and then walked four blocks to the campus of the 25,000-student university to hold their rump exercise on the steps of Low Library.

Attendance at commencement is not required to qualify for a degree and a university spokesman said he had no reason to doubt the students who walked out could get their diplomas later, either by mail or by picking them up.

Hofstadter, a two-time Pulitzer Prize winner in history and literature, assailed the protest tactic of occupying campus buildings as a "thrust at the vitals of university life."

He said the "cruel and mis-conceived venture in Vietnam has done more than any other thing to inflame our students, to undermine their belief in the legitimacy of our normal political processes, and to convince them that violence is the order of the day."

Hofstadter said the constructive response to the Columbia demonstrations "has been a call for university reform. I have spoken to no one who does not believe in its desirability."

But he suggested that "what students need and should have is influence, not power; but they also need formal channels to assure them that their influence is in fact effective."

At the rump exercise, called a "counter commencement," psychoanalyst Erich Fromm drew cheers when he told an audience of 2,000 that the students' walkout was a protest against "society's approaching state of low-grade schizophrenia, with the split between thought and feeling, truth and passion, mind and heart."

Hundreds of policemen were on hand for the day's activities.

Two persons were arrested during the commencement walkout on disorderly conduct charges. There were about 6,500 students eligible to receive diplomas throughout the university. The administration had canceled the usual mass outdoor ceremony on the campus in favor of the indoor exercises. Several colleges of the university held separate ceremonies before and after the regular commencement.

Investment Advisor & Analyst
Building a Modest Portfolio for Income

Q—I own Eastman Kodak, Du Pont, Avco and General Motors. I expect shortly to receive $20,000. How should I invest this for extra income, now that I am retired?—L.C.

A—You have some good stocks to hold, but with the exception of General Motors their dividend yields are low. Conversely, their total growth potential is high and hence all should be retained if you'd like some further capital gains. Part of your new cash might be used to build up a round lot of GM if you now hold fewer than 100 shares.

The following income issues are worth considering for current high yields and industry diversification: Allied Chemical, Chesapeake & Ohio, C.I.T. Financial, Pacific Lighting, Tenneco, Washington Water Power.

Your broker will gladly show you current reports on operations and earnings to assist you in your final choice of possibly four issues to make a manageable portfolio you can readily follow in your paper.

Q—A friend tells me I've made a serious mistake not keeping records of what I've paid for my few stocks or what I've received from the sale of stock dividends. He says I should do something about this and I don't know why, but

of us than there is trouble."

But trouble has never quite stalked the Kennedys.

Joseph, the 80-year-old patriarch who was ambassador to England, has been paralyzed for years from a stroke.

The son of John and Jacqueline Kennedy, Patrick Bouvier Kennedy, died of lung disease when two days old. A daughter had been stillborn to them earlier and both are buried beside their father in Arlington National Cemetery.

Began in 1941

The Kennedys' days of heartbreak began in 1941 when Ambassador Kennedy and his family returned from London.

"Rosemary was not making progress but seemed instead to be going backward," Eunice Kennedy said. "At 22 she was becoming increasingly irritable and difficult... her memory and concentration and her judgment were declining."

The family made the agonizing decision to put her into an institution and later launched a drive to aid persons similarly afflicted.

L. Joseph P. Kennedy Jr., was just 29 when he was killed Aug. 12, 1944.

He had entered the Navy in 1941, graduated first in his class at pilot training school, and by May, 1944 had flown enough combat missions to qualify for a trip home.

Instead he volunteered for a mission that involved loading up a Liberator bomber with 10 tons of high explosive and aiming at a German V-2 rocket site. The plane was to eject before radio-guided the bomber to its target. The plane exploded in flight.

Kathleen, who had been serving since 1945 as an American Red Cross worker in London, had married William John Robert Cavendish, the Marquess of Hartington, a captain in the Coldstream Guards. They had been married only four months when Cavendish was killed on an infantry patrol.

Killed on Way to Dad

In May 1948, flying to Cannes to meet her father, Kathleen was killed when her chartered plane crashed into a peak bordering the Rhone Valley near Marseille, France. A peasant brought her body down from the hill in an ox cart.

There are three other female members of the Kennedy clan, all attractive, all prominent in their own right.

Patricia Kennedy was married to actor Peter Lawford and divorced last year. Eunice is married to Sargent Shriver, once director of the Peace Corps and until recently director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, now in France as U.S. ambassador. Jean is married to Stephen E. Smith, who handles many of the Kennedy family business interests, taking frequent leave to assist in political campaigns.

The family of Mrs. Robert Kennedy also has been struck by tragedy.

Joan Patricia Skakel, her widowed sister, died in May 1967 when a particle of meat lodged in her throat. Mrs. Skakel's husband was killed in a plane crash in 1966.

Benedictine's Employees Are Cited for Service

Benedictine Hospital paid tribute to its long service employees at the eighth annual employee recognition day festivities held recently at the School of Nursing Auditorium.

Approximately 175 employees were on hand to pay honor to co-workers who had completed five to 33 years of continuous service.

Guest speaker was H. Clark Bell, Kingston attorney and a director of the Ulster County Bar Association, who lauded the hospital and employees for continuing service to the community.

Other speakers were the Most Rev. James E. McManus, C.S.R., DD, of the Church of the Presentation, Port Ewen and episcopal vicar of Ulster and Sullivan Counties; the Rev. Mother M. Cornelia, O.S.B., president of Benedictine Hospital and Dr. John L. Alley, president of the Benedictine Hospital medical staff.

Participating in the program were Sister Mary Charles, administrator who welcomed guests; Gerard Nocton, assistant administrator as master of ceremonies; the Rev. Joseph N. Collins, hospital chaplain who gave the invocation and Mrs. Charlotte Smith, licensed practical nurse, who sang the National Anthem.

Long Service awards were presented at the conclusion of the program by Mother Cornelia, Sister Mary Charles, Nocton and Richard M. Wagner.

Recipients were Mrs. Maureen Fitzgerald, Miss Patricia Fleming, Mrs. Agnes Hallinan, Charles Lasher, Mrs. Delores Banks, Richard M. Wagner, Mrs. Marguerite Baker, Miss Ann Hayes, Miss Clare Egan, Mrs. Theresa Karkowski, Mrs. Joan Greer, Mrs. Vernice Gulknick, Mrs. Katherine Myers, Miss Catherine Richter, Mrs. Lillian Boler, August Cregan, five years.

Mrs. Frances Fogarty, Mrs. Angeline Ayres, Miss Joan Sefora, Mrs. Bertha Gilbert and Mrs. Theresa Stenson, 10 years.

Mrs. Mary Redmond, Mrs. Kathleen Bruckner, Miss Margaret Cregan, Mrs. Louis Senft and Mrs. Julie Cunningham, 15 years.

Mrs. Rebecca Bight, 20 years; Miss Beatrice Redmond, and Miss Marie McCarthy, 25 years; Mrs. Anna Woods, 26 years; John Wilson, 31 years; Miss Mary Zoda, 32 years; Mrs. Germaine Callahan, 33 years.

A special award was given Mrs. Florence Nebeling for 15 years of daily volunteer work for the hospital's medical records department.

Honored guests were Anthony DeLisio, Robert E. Davis, member of the hospital advisory board, Mr. and Mrs. John Egan and Mrs. Clark Bell.

Marriage Bureau

DUBLIN (AP) — The bishops of Connacht, six counties in the West of Ireland, have established a marriage introduction bureau in the Marian shrine village of Knock, County Mayo. Archbishop Joseph Walsh of Tuam says: "The idea is that there are so many elderly bachelors and unmarried ladies who are more or less afraid of one another, afraid to make any advance, and the result is they don't get married and we have this terrible depopulation. We are trying to make it easier for them to meet."

A Study of WW 2

Soviet Indecision Costly

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON AP — A new U.S. Army study suggests excessive caution and indecision cost the Soviets a chance to reach the Rhine River—and thus control of most of Germany—in the last months of World War II.

Had the Soviets succeeded in reaching the Rhine before the Allies crossed that river, they would have been in position to have menaced France and the low countries, and to have controlled virtually all of Germany instead of settling for a division of control with the Allies.

Could Have Altered
This, in turn, might have altered the whole shape and fate of postwar Europe.

These conclusions are implicit in the Army's account of the late stages of the Soviet-German war.

That account, titled "Stalingrad to Berlin," was researched and written by Army historian Earl F. Ziemke. He drew on captured German documents and on Soviet military writings.

According to this study, the Soviet high command staff in the late fall of 1944 planned a winter offensive that was to have ended the war in about 45 days.

The offensive began Jan. 12, 1945, and within two weeks Soviet units were closing up to the Oder River.

But on Feb. 17, 1945, Ziemke wrote, the Soviet staff "suddenly scrapped the whole original plan" and ordered Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov and other field leaders to clean up the flanks of the advancing Soviet armies.

Almost Six Weeks Wasted
This, in the view of U.S. Army historians wasted almost six weeks.

"By the end of the third week in February the great Soviet 1945 winter offensive had come to a dead halt," the study said. "Caution was in the air."

The Army study noted that the Soviet high command's decision coincided with two small German counterattacks—one aimed at Stargard east of Berlin and the other on the Hron River in Hungary.

It is suggested the counterattacks accomplished nothing for the Germans militarily, but apparently intensified caution among Soviet staff officers.

"The abortive Stargard operation brought the Germans a substantial, unexpected, and unearned dividend of time that may have profoundly affected Germany's future," the study said.

"In the fit of caution that took hold in mid-February" the study said, the Soviet high command "dismantled its operation for an advance to Berlin and beyond into central Germany and committed its main forces in marginal, wholly unspectacular clearing operations on the flanks in Pomerania and Silesia."

"No doubt, observing that the Allies were still west of the line... the Soviet command concluded it had time enough."

"This could have provided a rational for cleaning out the flanks in anticipation of a deeper thrust into Germany than originally intended and, meanwhile, letting the Allies bleed themselves out."

No Clear-Cut Solution

But, the study said, the sequence of events indicates "caution and a consequent inability to decide upon a clean-cut, direct solution to the final strategic problem also weighed heavily."

Army historians, amplifying on the study, said that more than likely the Soviets could have been on the Rhine by March 1.

They recalled that the British and American armies on the German border were not even

Apple for Students

PITTSBURG, Kan. (AP) — Once a year tradition is reversed at Kansas State College in Pittsburg as teachers present their students with apples.

The custom has been observed for 64 years and was started on March 8, 1905, to commemorate an historical series of events.

During a bitter, but subsequently successful legislative battle for $10,000 to buy the college's first land, R.S. Russ, the first head of the school, was fined a barrel of apples by a jovial legislature.

Upon Russ' return to Pittsburg the students gleefully exacted a similar penalty from two Germanys, a Communist East and non-Communist West, tradition continues to this day.

ready to strike toward the Rhine before then. The Allies did not cross that key river until the end of the first week in March.

In the final stages of the European war, which ended May 8, 1945, the Soviet and allied forces both drove through Germany from opposite directions and finally agreed on a division of occupied territory along the line of the Elbe and Mulde Rivers.

This subsequently led to the two Germanys, a Communist East and non-Communist West.

Another Crisis In Italy

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Women's Editor

It was an ironic fact that as Italy observed its 22nd anniversary as a republic in the midst of a new wave of prosperity, it also was facing another of its recurring political crises.

It further was torn by new student demonstrations which in the last eight months have brought periods of paralysis to the Italian university system.

The government crisis came as result of a decision by the Unified Socialists led by Deputy Premier Pietro Nenni to withdraw from their six-year-old alliance with the dominant Christian Democrats of Premier Aldo Moro.

Social Reforms

The Socialists blamed their election losses last month on their coalition with the Christian Democrats, a coalition in which they have been the junior partners, and on failure of the center-left to press vigorously enough for social and economic reforms.

The Socialist action seems to foreshadow another long period of crisis for the Italian government.

In theory, it should be possible for the Christian Democrats, Italy's leading party since the end of World War II, to form a coalition with parties of the far right, the neo-Fascists, the Monarchists and Liberals, and achieve the necessary 316 majority in the chamber of deputies.

But the last such government, in 1960, fell to bloody Communist riots and even the hard core conservatives among the Christian Democrats would shy from any such similar experience again.

On the other hand, the Unified Socialists lost their votes in the May elections to the Communists and to the splinter Proletarian Socialists.

Price High

Their price now for continued association with the Christian Democrats will be high and perhaps impossible to meet since among the latter are many who would rather see a government fall than to go any further to the left.

For most Italian political pundits, the Communist gains came as a surprise because of Italy's new wealth. But the wealth is unevenly distributed and the swing to the left, particularly among Italy's young voters, is attributed to this and to the long delay in solving social problems.

Student unrest sprang from dissatisfaction with an antiquated educational system and manifested itself long before similar demonstrations by French students. The fact of its violent take-over by pro-Red Chinese elements was an unfortunate accompaniment.

State Signs

$103,535 Health Pact for County

Governor Rockefeller announced today that the State Health Department has signed a contract for a $103,535 comprehensive solid wastes planning study for Ulster County. The contract is now being processed by the Attorney General's Office and the Comptroller's Office.

"The 12-month study," Governor Rockefeller said, "will include a land area of 1,141 square miles, which has a normal population of 138,121. In the summer, however, Ulster County's population increases by more than 50 per cent. One of the tasks involved in the study is finding the most economical and efficient way to handle the solid wastes during the peak load months."

"Another important aspect of the study is that of seeking a satisfactory method of treating or disposing of solid wastes from the many chicken farms, actually 'chicken factories,' in Ulster County."

"The odors from these chicken farms have generated many complaints, particularly from the summer residents who are downwind of them."

"The study will cover efficient and sanitary disposal of all trash, garbage, refuse and other forms of solid wastes, such as junked cars, debris of razed buildings, trees, brush and leaves."

"It will develop both short-term and long-term (30 years) plans and outline alternate plans for the collection, treatment and disposal of wastes."

These grants for comprehensive solid wastes planning studies are made under Article 13, Title IX of the Public Health Law. The State pays 100 per cent of the cost.

The study will be made by the engineering firm of Manganaro, Martin and Lincoln of New York City.

Human Closeup of First Lady

Mrs. Johnson in Her Final Act of Unrehearsed Performance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "First lady of the land, looking forward with unabashed eagerness to retiring to private life next Jan. 20. There is wide-spread agreement that she has done an outstanding job in the role she stepped into so unexpectedly."

Lady Bird Johnson spoke those words to a reporter-friend on Nov. 22, 1963, shortly after her husband was catapulted into the Presidency by the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Four and a half years later, she's in the last act of her unrehearsed performance as predecessor, Jacqueline Kennedy, dazzled the public with her beauty and grace while her husband lived and captured its heart with her dignity and courage following his tragic death.

Relentless Campaigner

Mrs. Johnson has won public esteem in part because she is a good wife, a good mother, and a gracious lady. But her most lasting fame doubtless will stem from her relentless campaign to make this country once again "America the Beautiful."

Her name has become so closely identified with the national beautification drive that a Republican politician recently commented at a Washington cocktail party: "It's getting so a Republican can't even plant a geranium without feeling guilty."

Her successful fight for legislation to ban auto junkyards and billboards from the interstate highway system brought her an inverse tribute from Capitol lobbyists over whom she triumphed. Some of them showed up at a Congressional hearing one day bearing picket signs which demanded: "Impeach Lady Bird!"

In an effort to advertise America's natural beauties and encourage tourists to "See America First," she became the most-traveled First Lady since the peripatetic Eleanor Roosevelt. White House records show that Lady Bird has traveled more than 137,000 miles back and forth across the country. Some of those miles were logged on foot, during long hikes, and others in rubber rafts shooting the rapids of the beautiful but treacherous Snake River of Idaho.

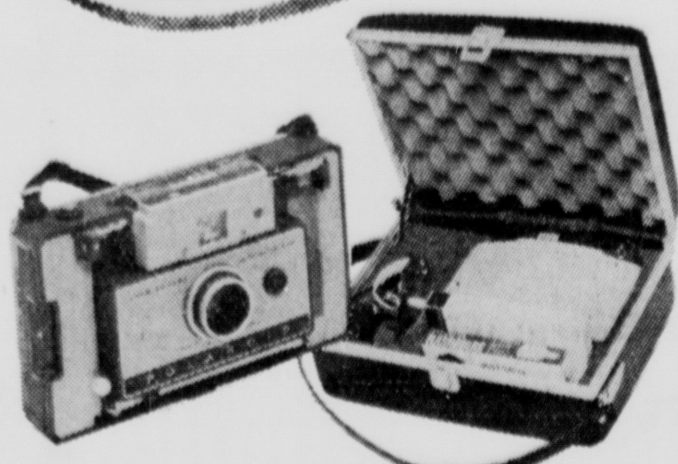

Like her husband, Mrs. Johnson is a seasoned political pro. During the 1964 presidential election campaign which LBJ won by a landslide, she made a grueling "whistle stop" tour in which she made 47 speeches in only four days.

Amid all this activity, she also managed to keep close watch on her daughters, Lynda Bird and Luci, and their romances. When they became White House brides, she tried valiantly to make the weddings simple "family affairs." But her girls had more spectacular wedding plans, and they prevailed.

When Luci Nugent, whose husband Pat is serving in Vietnam, made her a grandmother last June, Mrs. Johnson was frank to say being called "grandma" was not her cup of tea. She is more detached toward grandson Lyn, now nearly a year old, than is her doting husband.

Human Closeup of First Lady

Mrs. Johnson in Her Final Act of Unrehearsed Performance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "I feel as if I'm suddenly on stage for a part I never rehearsed. But I will do my best."

Lady Bird Johnson spoke those words to a reporter on Nov. 22, 1963, shortly after her husband was catapulted into the Presidency by the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Four and a half years later, she's in the last act of her unrehearsed performance as first lady of the land, looking forward with unabashed eagerness to retiring to private life next Jan. 20. There is widespread agreement that she has done an outstanding job in the role she stepped into so unexpectedly.

The favor she has won with Americans of all parties and persuasions is doubly noteworthy in that she had, as people in show business say, "a hard act to follow."

Relentless Campaigner

Mrs. Johnson has won public esteem in part because she is a good wife, a good mother, and a gracious lady. But her most lasting fame doubtless will stem from her relentless campaign to make this country once again "America the Beautiful."

Her name has become so closely identified with the national beautification drive that a Republican politician recently commented at a Washington cocktail party: "It's getting so a Republican can't even plant a geranium without feeling guilty."

Her successful fight for legislation to ban auto junkyards and billboards from the interstate highway system brought her an inverse tribute from capitol lobbyists over whom she triumphed. Some of them showed up at a Congressional hearing one day bearing picket signs which demanded: "Impeach Lady Bird!"

Presidential Spoiler? Gov. Wallace Could Be

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Four years ago George Wallace racked up 30 per cent of the vote or better in Democratic primaries for president in Indiana, Wisconsin and Maryland.

The heavy balloting for the then governor of Alabama, known principally as a foe of racial integration, was widely interpreted as a white backlash vote.

But this year the name of Wallace has attracted little attention in the primaries, and he has looked to his critics like a fading candidate.

Not so, says Bill Jones, coordinator of Wallace's campaign. He says the primary outcome was anticipated and was due to the grand strategy of the campaign.

The reason: Wallace decided this time to run as a third-party candidate and to stay out of Democratic primaries. So his efforts had been toward getting on the ballot in November, not on the primaries.

"Primaries are designed to get convention votes," said Jones. "We're not interested in the conventions. We're running in November."

Starting Thursday, Wallace will resume the public campaign he dropped for a month because of his wife's death from cancer. He will swing through a three-day speaking tour in Maine, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Maryland.

His goal: To give impetus to petition drives in those states to get his name on the ballot.

His campaign headquarters says he already has met the ballot requirements in 22 other states and has petition drives going in five more, Jones said he expects to get on the ballot in every state except perhaps Alaska, Idaho and Ohio.

"We're running to win," Wallace has said. But few political analysts rate him better than a potential spoiler who in a close race could keep either of the major candidates from getting the required majority of electoral votes, thus throwing the election into the House of Representatives for a decision.

A recent Gallup Poll indicated Wallace might carry enough Southern states to do that.

Drug Session Is Revealed At Murder Trial

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The girlfriend of a motorcyclist charged with killing two men told Common Pleas Court here Tuesday about an LSD and marijuana session that preceded the killings Feb. 28.

Nelley Sideris, 20, said Timothy (T.A.) Adams took a dose of "white lightning" (concentrated LSD) before he left for Barto's Cafe near his East Side Hell's Angels headquarters.

There he allegedly shot and killed two 38-year-old Clevelanders, James Tillett and Roosevelt Brown.

Adams is one of nine members of his motorcycle group charged with first degree murder in the slayings of Brown and Tillett. Prosecution witnesses have testified Tillett, a white truck driver, was killed when he sought to help Brown, a Negro factory worker, who was being savagely beaten by gang members.

Adams has already admitted he "shot at" Tillett and Brown.

Miss Sideris, a shapely brunette with bangs down to her eyes, testified she met Adams in a motorcycle hangout in New York's Greenwich Village. Speaking in a soft Brooklyn accent, she told Adams' attorney, Charles Clark, she worried about Adams after he and the others left the Hell's Angels headquarters for Barto's.

She said he took a tablet of "white lightning" with a glass of water and then "we sat around and smoked grass (marijuana) and listened to music for a couple of hours."

"It was good grass," she said. "Everybody was getting raked."

Miss Sideris, held as a material witness, said she stayed in the clubhouse when everyone left for the tavern. She testified Adams was "out of it" on drugs when the shootings occurred.

85 Congressmen Back Resnick On Arnheiter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., who conducted a one-man hearing last month into the removal of an officer from command of his ship, has been joined by 85 other congressmen in demanding that the Navy order a court of inquiry to investigate the case.

The 75 Democrats and 11 Republicans said in a letter Tuesday to Navy Secretary Paul R. Ignatius "that the honor and integrity of the U.S. Navy is of the greatest importance," and therefore the removal of Lt. Cmdr. Marcus A. Arnheiter should have a full airing.

Resnick, of Ellenville, N. Y., said Arnheiter's request for a full inquiry had been rejected by Ignatius.

Traffic, Cash Up on Bridges

Traffic and revenue continue to rise on bridges in the Mid-Hudson Valley according to the latest report by the New York Bridge Authority.

The Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge showed an increase this May compared to last May of 171,371 to 178,079. Revenue was up from $46,173 to $47,737.

The bridge at Poughkeepsie continues to be the traffic and revenue leader with 414,225 vehicles last May compared to 436,859 this year. Revenue was up from $108,433 to $112,775.

The Rip Van Winkle Bridge in Catskill showed a traffic increase from 131,786 to 137,304 and a revenue rise from $40,028 to $42,542.

Killed in Crash

MANLIUS, N. Y. (AP) — Douglas H. Howell, 49, of nearby Delphi Falls, was killed today when his automobile veered off Route 92 and struck trees about a mile east of this community southeast of Syracuse.

Fatal Injuries

Recon Plane, Pilot Missing

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — A high altitude U.S. reconnaissance plane and its pilot have been missing in the Pacific area since Tuesday while on a "routine training flight," the U.S. Air Force reported.

The Air Force said an air and sea search was launched for the YF12A SR71—a spy plane described as more sophisticated than the U2. The Air Force said the search was concentrated in the Pacific about 600 miles south of Okinawa and 500 miles east of Manila. The plane was based on Okinawa.

North Vietnam claimed that its anti-aircraft guns shot down an American reconnaissance plane south of Hanoi Tuesday but described it as a "U.S. pilotless spy plane." The search area for the other plane is more than 1,000 miles east of Vietnam.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., who conducted a one-man hearing last month into the removal of an officer from command of his ship, has been joined by 85 other congressmen in demanding that the Navy order a court of inquiry to investigate the case.

The 75 Democrats and 11 Republicans said in a letter Tuesday to Navy Secretary Paul R. Ignatius "that the honor and integrity of the U.S. Navy is of the greatest importance," and therefore the removal of Lt. Cmdr. Marcus A. Arnheiter should have a full airing.

Resnick, of Ellenville, N. Y., said Arnheiter's request for a full inquiry had been rejected by Ignatius.

Traffic, Cash Up on Bridges

Traffic and revenue continue to rise on bridges in the Mid-Hudson Valley according to the latest report by the New York Bridge Authority.

The Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge showed an increase this May compared to last May of 171,371 to 178,079. Revenue was up from $46,173 to $47,737.

The bridge at Poughkeepsie continues to be the traffic and revenue leader with 414,225 vehicles last May compared to 436,859 this year. Revenue was up from $108,433 to $112,775.

The Rip Van Winkle Bridge in Catskill showed a traffic increase from 131,786 to 137,304 and a revenue rise from $40,028 to $42,542.

Killed in Crash

MANLIUS, N. Y. (AP) — Douglas H. Howell, 49, of nearby Delphi Falls, was killed today when his automobile veered off Route 92 and struck trees about a mile east of this community southeast of Syracuse.

Fatal Injuries

95 Complete Area History Seminar

Ninety-five persons have completed the Third Regional History Workshop sponsored by the Ulster County Community College and the Ulster County Historical Society. The workshop instructors were Rigby, who has written extensively on local history for the Ulster County Historical Society held at its headquarters, Bevier House, in the Town of Marlinton. The tea was arranged by John P. Remensnyder, society president, and Mrs. George Hutton, society secretary. The workshop covered the Founding of the Dutch West India Company and the Arrival of the Dutch in the New World. The Early Dutch Period, The Settlement of Hurley and New Paltz, and The Cosmopolitanism of New Netherlands.

Esopus Rector Hosts Quarter Century Reunion

The rector of Mount St. Alphonsus, the Rev. Joseph L. Kerins, CSsR, played host Monday to his classmates at the Redemptorist seminary at Esopus, where 25 years ago they were raised to the priesthood. Festivities were highlighted by a concelebrated Mass at 4 p.m. in the seminary chapel in which the 11 remaining classmates took part, coming from Vermont, Alabama, Maryland, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and from South America. Father William Smith, a classmate, who preached the homily, indicated that the Redemptorist ordination class of 1943 had rung up its expected score of memorable statistics. They had offered at least 155,000 Masses during their four-hundred and seventeen years in the priesthood. They had spent 129 years on foreign missions and 163 years in parish work, 30 years in teaching and 53 years preaching parish missions. All told the class had spent 476 years in Redemptorist vows. Members of the class had worked in Germany, Italy, Alaska, French Canada, Paraguay, Japan, France, the Dominican Republic, Virgin Islands, Greenland, Brazil, Puerto Rico and Korea. Two classmates had won doctorates in Theology; one, a doctorate in Sociology. One holds a Bene Merenti medal from Pope John. Another has been provincial procurator of the Redemptorist for the past 16 years. One classmate wrote a book on Sex Instruction that has long passed the half-million mark. Only one member of the class served as chaplain to the Armed Forces. He made his own history by building his base chapel with his own hands, carving it out of solid black ice a thousand feet inside the Greenland ice cap. For three years he held services in the ice-chapel traveling 140 miles by helicopter from Thule each Sunday morning. Mass of thanksgiving, dinner was served at 6:30 in the seminary refectory with guests and well wishers from among the area clergy and religious as well as from Redemptorist houses in New England, New Jersey and New York. Father Kerins plans to have a private jubilee Mass for his relations on Sunday, June 9, at the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, Brooklyn, his home parish.

REV. JOSEPH KERINS

95 Complete Area History Seminar

Ninety-five persons have completed the Third Regional History Seminar, a highly informative and interesting workshop sponsored by the Ulster County Community College and the Ulster County Historical Society.

The workshop instructors were Rev. Joseph Kerins, who has written and lectured extensively on local history for the Ulster County Historical Society; Harry Matzen, who has done extensive research into the Dutch settlement of the Hudson Valley; and George Hutton, society secretary and president of the Huguenot Historical Society.

The workshop covered the history of the Dutch West India Company and the arrival of the Dutch in the New World, a workshop coordinator. The other coordinator was Harry Matzen, Jr., of the historical society. Matzen said the people attending the seminar found it highly informative and interesting.

Area Workshop Helps Disabled

Growing, Modern Workshop For Disabled

Gainful Employment Through Cooperation

"No man stands as tall as when he stoops to help another."

This old adage, applied by three area men 20 years ago, was the first step in a series that led to the creation of the Mid-Hudson Workshop for the Disabled, an organization that has provided a productive life for the area's handicapped.

The original idea, stressed back in 1947, by Dause Bibby, Stephen Puff and Benjamin Wickler, founders, still persists: The Mid-Hudson Workshop for the Disabled, Inc. at 212 Washington Street, Poughkeepsie, is self-sustaining and is not supported by any federal, state, county, municipal or charitable organization.

The effort is entirely one of having a place where the physically handicapped can find gainful employment through public and individual effort.

It has contributed much. There have been 795 applications for employment and the workshop has been able to accommodate 260. Sixty-two have been rehabilitated and have taken their place in the competitive labor market.

The 20-year experience of the workshop has been referred to as a gratifying period for many who have served on the board of directors and committees without compensation and who have witnessed the satisfaction that has been earned by the employees who are handicapped by muscular dystrophy, arthritis, cerebral palsy, polio, diabetes, emphysema, multiple sclerosis or who are cardiacs, amputees, deaf or blind.

The workshop had its beginnings in Poughkeepsie in 1947 where the Chamber of Commerce arranged a dinner to demonstrate how handicapped people could be trained and rehabilitated.

Early in 1948, the Poughkeepsie Kiwanis Club sponsored the workshop and raised $3,500 for the initial operating expense from eight local manufacturing firms, all of whom have since been repaid.

In 1948, an organization was set up and a Board of Directors elected representative of a wide range of community leaders from industry-commerce-law-medicine-education-banking and from other local fields of endeavor. The original sponsors were requested to continue and seek out a suitable place to begin operations. After many locations were surveyed, the first shop was established at no charge through the cooperation of Nelson House Hotel Corporation in what is now a radio station.

On Sept. 16, 1948, Mrs. Marion D. Coday was hired as managing director. The organization was incorporated in November and on Dec. 13, the workshop opened with two physically handicapped employees and soon added two more—with a gradual increase for the next three years.

Needed Larger Quarters
In 1951, it was necessary to find larger quarters, and with an expanded workshop to a complement of 34 people, a move was made to a new shop at 912 Main Street in Arlington. The operation remained at the Arlington location until February 1957, when it was determined to build a building that would accommodate future growth by having a facility that could be expanded without the necessity of repeated moving of the machinery and people who had become part of the everyday operation.

The present location, at 212 Washington Street, was decided on to accommodate the 53 employees in a modern 6,600 sq. ft. building, and during the summer of 1964, a 1,200 sq. ft. addition was opened. An additional 9,000 sq. ft. is nearing completion.

The founding managing director, Mrs. Marion D. Coday, retired on Nov. 30, 1964, after 16 years of dedication and devotion to the handicapped. She was succeeded by Alfred Hanson, who has a long record in Workshop.

local industry in machine shop practice, supervisory and management capacities. Hanson has successfully carried on the principles that have contributed so much to the operation of the Workshop.

Gorman Speaks In Syracuse

Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, Democratic candidate for the Assembly, appeared as a main speaker at a Syracuse roundtable which was broadcast over two television stations recently.

Thirty-five persons took part in the three-hour session which Dr. Gorman said was especially notable for its array of learned and political talent.

In his own delivery, the Ulster County Democratic chairman stressed the lack of leadership on the part of the Democratic State Committee, the failure of the Democratic Party to win a statewide election since 1954 and for failure to curb riots and ghetto conditions in the country.

Dr. Gorman also told his listeners he felt the state legislature needed men from a variety of professions rather than mainly confining its membership to members of the bar. He said having doctors, educators and other professionals might prove of added value.

Dr. Gorman is being opposed in his bid for the Democratic nomination by Gardner Supervisor George Majestic.

It includes names and addresses of workers covered by state employment security programs, state motor vehicle registration lists, and data about licensing and sales.

Anatomy Aid Lecture Slated For Attorneys

Attorney William D. Brinnier of Saugerties will act as moderator on behalf of the Ulster County Bar Association at the "Anatomy for Attorneys," program to be held at Ulster County Community College, Stone Ridge, on Saturday.

Hundreds of lawyers in 20 New York communities will be taught anatomy by one of the most novel telephone calls ever made.

The one-day course sponsored by the 19,500-member New York State Bar Association will be transmitted to college and hotel classrooms around the state by four telephone companies.

It will be one of the largest educational conference calls ever placed," said a New York Telephone Company spokesman. The program will originate in the studios of WAMC-FM, the Albany Medical College radio station, and will be transmitted by a special service known as Tele-lecture, which is a conference call using special amplifying equipment at each location. The radio station will carry the entire day's lectures by 14 members of the Albany Medical College teaching staff as well as the question period. All sites have an amplified two-way conversation capability.

Frederick J. Hmiel, State Bar director of continuing legal education, said more lawyers would be reached than by any single educational program ever attempted by the Association. The program will cover common injuries to the face, head, neck and back, and their diagnoses and treatment. Slides, charts, X-rays and other visual aids will be used at each site. Its purpose is to make the practitioner more familiar with medical aspects of various injuries to enable them to represent their clients more effectively.

State Fatals Up

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Traffic accidents in New York State are still running well ahead of last year's pace, the State Motor Vehicle Department reported Monday.

The department said 226 persons were killed on New York highways and streets during April, bringing the toll for the first four months of the year to 870. This compares with 740 during the first four months of 1967, when 203 were killed in April.

The people of North America and northwestern Europe have the longest life expectancy span in the world, averaging slightly more than 70 years of age, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Gorman Speaks In Syracuse

Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, Democratic candidate for the Assembly, appeared as a main speaker at a Syracuse roundtable which was broadcast over two television stations recently.

Thirty-five persons took part in the three-hour session which Dr. Gorman said was especially notable for its array of learned and political talent.

In his own delivery, the Ulster County Democratic chairman stressed the lack of leadership on the part of the Democratic State Committee, the failure of the Democratic Party to win a statewide election since 1954 and for failure to curb riots and ghetto conditions in the country.

Dr. Gorman also told his listeners he felt the state legislature needed men from a variety of professions rather than mainly confining its membership to members of the bar, he said.

Sinking

By BJORN E. HOJER

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Thousands of people lined the shores that sunny Sunday afternoon to cheer the mightiest battleship in the Swedish Navy as it set out on its maiden voyage.

With sails set and flags flying the Wasa made a brave show and the onlookers spoke proudly of the part it would play in the southern Baltic in support of the armies of King Gustaf II Adolf, then engaged in the Thirty Years War.Suddenly a squall sprang up. Before the unbelieving eyes of the vast throng the Wasa heeled over, and slowly sank. At least 60 of her crew of 450 died.

That was Aug. 10, 1628. Today, 340 years later, the Wasa rests in a museum at the Royal Ejugaarden Park. The hulk was raised from its watery grave in 1961 and since then marine archaeologists have pieced together a great deal of information about the ship.But the actual reason for the sinking still puzzles them. One theory is that the Wasa carried too much weight. She was armed with bronze cannon with a total weight of 80 tons. Another is that the lower cannon ports were not closed in time against the water.At the original court of enquiry the prosecutor said the ship was well built but that her proportions were wrong. Severin Hansson, master of the Wasa, who was jailed immediately after the catastrophe, rejected rumors that his crew was drunk.

Setback

The tragedy was a setback for Sweden as a great power and for King Gustaf Adolf who said, when he ordered the ship built, that "next to God the welfare of Sweden depends on her navy."

An amateur archeologist, Anders Franzen, discovered the site of Wasa's sinking in 1956. Divers went down and on Aug. 20, 1959, the Wasa, hanging in a cradle of wires between two pontoons, named Oden and Frigg, after two gods of the Nordic mythology, was moved into shallow water.

On April 24, 1961 her water-logged hull saw the light of day again. As in August, 1628, thousands of cheering people lined the shores and hundreds of small boats surrounded the armada of salvage craft.

Later King Gustaf VI Adolf went aboard to take a first look. What he saw was a scene of tragedy, the skeletons of dead sailors, their personal belongings and everything else covered with the mud and clay of centuries.

Island Burial

The sailors were buried in graves on an island close to the place of disaster. On an island opposite the burial ground the unique museum of Wasa, Sweden's foremost tourist attraction today, was built.Today, the hull of Wasa is still immersed in a preservation liquid of a high atomic alcohol mixed with the brackish water of the Baltic.

Some 3,500 objects belonging to the ship and crew have been fished up from the water.

Archaeologists say that by 1971 the Wasa will be almost completely restored and ready for examination by ordinary folk.Red Hook
School Parley
Set June 11

The annual meeting of Red Hook Central School District will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, June 11 in the high school gymnasium.

Members of the board of education and the staff will present the 1968-1969 school budget and be available to answer questions concerning the budget and the total school program.

Voting will take place in the high school between the hours of 2 p.m. and 9 p.m. on Tuesday, June 12.

Voters must be registered in order to vote June 12. The Board of Registration will be available between the hours of 2 and 9 p.m. in the high school on Wednesday, June 5.

Three items will be presented to the voters on June 12. Election of a member of the Board of Education to a five-year term, Francis A. Rabbett is a candidate to succeed himself. The 1968-1969 budget and permission to sell the unused building and property located in the Village of Tivoli.

20th Club Elects

The Twentieth Century Club held their Annual Dinner Party at Judie's Restaurant recently with all but four members present.

Afterward, a regular meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Shellenberger. An election of officers for the coming year resulted in a unanimous vote for the following: president, Mrs. John Pope; vice president, Mrs. Cloyd Elias; treasurer, Mrs. Shellenberger and secretary, Mrs. F. S. Fasullo. The paper presented was by "The Tale of Mice and Man," supplemented by a small exhibit of porcelain, china, silver, bronze, horn and ivory figurines of mice and rats, both modern and antique.

The evening concluded with a short social interlude.

Mystery Shrouds Sinking

By BJORN F. HOJER

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Thousands of people lined the shores that sunny Sunday afternoon to cheer the mightiest battleship in the Swedish Navy as it set out on its maiden voyage.

With sails set and flags flying the Wasa made a brave show and the onlookers spoke proudly of the part it would play in the southern Baltic in support of the armies of King Gustaf II Adolf, then engaged in the Thirty Years War.

Suddenly a squall sprang up. Before the unbelieving eyes of the vast throng the Wasa heeled over, and slowly sank.

At least 60 of her crew of 450 died.

In 1628

That was Aug. 10, 1628. Today, 340 years later, the Wasa rests in a museum at the Royal Ejugaarden Park. The hulk was raised from its watery grave in 1961 and since then marine archaeologists have pieced together a great deal of information about the ship.

But the actual reason for the sinking still puzzles them. One theory is that the Wasa carried too much weight. She was armed with bronze cannon with a total weight of 80 tons. Another is that the lower cannon ports were not closed in time against the water.

At the original court of enquiry the prosecutor said the ship was well built but that her proportions were wrong. Severin Hansson, master of the Wasa, who was jailed immediately after the catastrophe, rejected rumors that his crew was drunk.

Setback

The tragedy was a setback for Sweden as a great power and for King Gustaf Adolf who said, when he ordered the ship built, that "next to God the welfare of Sweden depends on her navy."

An amateur archeologist, Anders Franzen, discovered the site of Wasa's sinking in 1956. Divers went down and on Aug. 20, 1959, the Wasa, hanging in a cradle of wires between two pontoons, named Oden and Frigg, after two gods of the Nordic mythology, was moved into shallow water.

On April 24, 1961 her water-logged hull saw the light of day again. As in August, 1628, thousands of cheering people lined the shores and hundreds of small boats surrounded the armada of salvage craft.

Later King Gustaf VI Adolf went aboard to take a first look. What he saw was a scene of tragedy, the skeletons of dead sailors, their personal belongings and everything else covered with the mud and clay of centuries.

Island Burial

The sailors were buried in graves on an island close to the place of disaster. On an island opposite the burial ground the unique museum of Wasa, Sweden's foremost tourist attraction today, was built.

Today, the hull of Wasa is still immersed in a preservation liquid of a high atomic alcohol mixed with the brackish water of the Baltic.

Some 3,500 objects belonging to the ship and crew have been fished up from the water.

Onteora Charter Recommendations

The Onteora Board of Education wants the Ulster County Charter Commission to include in its recommendations provision for a professional county assessor, a county tax map and county-wide reassessment. This was revealed today by Ward W. Ingalsbe Jr., chairman of the Charter Commission, which is studying the feasibility of a charter for Ulster County providing for a county executive and for separation of legislative and executive functions. The Commission is completing a round of public hearings to sound out public opinion and suggestions on the charter proposal. Hearings have been held in Kingston, New Paltz, Boeraville and Ellenville. A Saugerties hearing is set for tonight. Suggestions and comments from the public are welcomed at any time by the commission members, according to Chairman Ingalsbe.

In a letter to the Commission, Philip Gordon, president of the Onteora Central Schools Board of Education, wrote: "The Onteora Central School district overlaps into six different political subdivisions. This is not an uncommon phenomena with school districts today. Unfortunately, this overlap causes boards of education severe taxation problems due to alleged unrealistic assessments and alleged inequities in equalization rates. In fact, taxpayers in this school district have informed our Board of Education in public meeting, that they will endeavor to defeat the school budget until such time as these inequities are corrected."

"The Onteora Board of Education urges the Ulster County Charter Commission to include in the new Charter a new provision for a County Tax Map, the establishment of the office of a county professional assessor employed on a non-political basis, and proceed with a county-wide reassessment. We further urge that the Ulster County Board of Legislators proceed with the above requests immediately."

Social Activities

MISS JESSIE PHILIPS of Boonton, N. J. who was born in Saugerties June 9, 1864 will celebrate her 104th birthday on Sunday. She is the daughter of the late Thomas and Martha Philips. Her father who was born in England came to America at the age of 17 and worked in the Iron Works at Saugerties on lower Esopus Creek. At a young age, Miss Philips, her parents, brother and sister, moved to Boonton where she has resided since. For many years she and her sister operated a dressmaking shop on Main Street in Boonton and even now does some sewing. Aided by a magnifying glass, she reads regularly and is conversant on world affairs. Residing at Sarah Francis Nursing Home, Powerville Road, Boonton, N. J. since the age of 100, she is alert, has great religious faith and has a cheerful personality. Mayor Neil Cox of the Village of Saugerties will send official greetings.

Hadassah Will Honor President

Mrs. Arthur Landesman, president of the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah for the past two years, will be honored by the chapter board at a luncheon set for 12:30 p.m. Thursday, June 20, at Leher's Restaurant.

Members of the board and others who would like to attend may make reservations with Mrs. Robert Yallum.

The chapter held its closing meeting of the season May 29 at Temple Emanuel with Mrs. Landesman presiding. Opening prayer was given by Mrs. George Starkman. Reports were given by the following chairmen: Mrs. Oscar London, Jewish national fund and life membership; Mrs. Charles Jacobs, new and nearly new sale; Mrs. Sidney Halpern, special Hadassah medical organization benefit; and Mrs. Arthur London, vice president in charge of fund-raising. Thanks were extended to all chairmen and workers.

Mrs. Nathaniel B. Gross reported on the recent regional spring conference and presented a presidential service award to Mrs. Landesman. Refreshments were served with the Mmes. Gerald Cohen, Maurice Crystal and Morris Berman in charge. Hadassah concludes its HMO activities with "Donor Day at the Nevele" to be held June 9 at the Eellenville resort. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Robert E. Davis, Mrs. George Starkman is HMO treasurer.

Democrats Plan Gala Carnival In New Paltz

There'll be PANDA-PAN-DEMONIUM down New Paltz way this coming Saturday. That's the day set aside by the Concerned Democrats of New Paltz to give children of the area some of the same kind of memories adults already retain about carnivals.

The Concerned Democrats of the campus town have slated a gala Children's Carnival Saturday, June 8, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Festivities will take place at the Huguenot Bank Parking Lot and even though sunny skies have been predicted, the group has announced June 15 as the rain date.

Parents from all over the country are invited to bring their children to New Paltz on Saturday for a day of unexcelled fun. A fund raising event for the Concerned Democrats, the carnival is also being presented as a community service.

Nina Seymour Weds Peter S. Golian

Miss Nina Lee Seymour, daughter of Mrs. Nina Neebe Seymour of 16 Sylvester Street, Kingston, and James A. Seymour of Wannamassa, N. J., exchanged vows with Peter Sigmund Golian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Golian of 1 Whitney Drive, Woodstock, on Saturday, June 1, in Christ's Lutheran Church, Woodstock.

The Rev. Steven Middernacht officiated at the double ring ceremony. Traditional wedding selections were provided. Baskets of pink and white gladioli decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Robert Hardwick, the bride wore a white silk organza gown styled with an Alencon lace bodice and short sleeves. The back of the gown featured an apron train edged with appliques of matching Alencon lace. Her headpiece was an Alencon lace open crown attached to a silk illusion veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white sweetheart roses with pink streamers.

Miss Cathy Seymour, Kingston, was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a gown accented at the high neckline with a placket of lace. The short sleeves were edged with matching lace. Her headpiece was a floor length pink veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of varied shades of pink sweetheart roses with white streamers.

E. Leroy Cochran Jr. of Kingston was best man. Ushers were Alexander Golian, and Robert Golian, both of Woodstock and brothers of the bridegroom.

After the wedding a reception for 100 guests was held in the church hall.

For her wedding trip to Long Beach Island, N. J., the bride chose a pink voile dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink and white sweetheart roses.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, is now a junior at State University of New York at Albany. Her husband, an alumnus of Madison Township High School, Old Bridge, N. J., is employed by IBM, Kingston. He is presently on military leave of absence from the U.S. Navy where he is stationed at New London, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Golian will reside at 34 Wood Street, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Chakar of Danbury, Conn., are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son Robert, born June 2 in Danbury Hospital. Mrs. Chakar, the former Mary Patricia Gavigan, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Gavigan of Montross Street, Saugerties. A registered nurse, Mrs. Chakar is a graduate of the Benedictine School of Nursing, this city.

Wedding Announced

Two Kingston IBM employees were married Saturday, June 1, in Immaculate Conception Church, Watervliet. Miss Carolyn Elizabeth Motkowicz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Motkowicz of Watervliet, became the bride of Robert Charles Francis Hout, son of Mrs. Florence Hout of Dunkirk, and the late Carl Hout, at a noon ceremony. The Rev. Boleslaw Watroba officiated. Mrs. Hout is employed as a computer operator and her husband works in the Systems Development Division of IBM. They will reside at 2 Pearl Street, this city.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a silk organza and rosepoint lace wedding gown fashioned with a molded lace empire bodice, and embroidered with crystals and seed pearls. The gown was styled with a bateau neckline, elbow length sleeves, and featured an A-line silhouette lace skirt, also embroidered with seed pearls, with a removable wateau circle train. Her headpiece was a cathedral length veil with lace appliques, and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis, orchids and ivy.

Mrs. Helen Kost was matron of honor. She wore a grass and mint green lace and crepe gown styled with a molded empire bodice of Venice lace, a scooped neckline and short sleeves. The crepe skirt was accented in the back with a wateau panel of crepe applique with Venice lace. Her headpiece was a matching Dior bow and she carried a bouquet of summer flowers.

Attendants were Miss Christine Kohls, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Ann Palma. Their gold and maize colored gowns, bride, was ring bearer.

Oragnist was Raymond Szymanski who provided traditional wedding selections.

After the wedding a reception was held at the Pulaski Club, Watervliet.

For her wedding trip to Florida, the bride selected a Frank Burns, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Gary Feddes and Robert VanDam. Michael

O'Brien - Keohan Nuptials Told

MRS. DAVID A. KEOHAN JR. (Proskin photo)

Miss Geraldine Anne O'Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. O'Brien Sr., 42 Bolivar Avenue, Troy, became the bride of David A. Keohan Jr., son of Mrs. Anna Keohan of 133 Second Street, Troy, and the late David A. Keohan Sr., Sunday, May 26, at Sacred Heart Church, Berlin, N. Y.

The Rev. Francis Mullen officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of linen ottoman, fashioned with a high rise neckline of Venice lace, short sleeves and an A-line skirt accented with two bands of Venice lace encircling the hem of the gown. The gown featured a detachable train. A cluster of buds and flowers accented with pearls held her English illusion veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Melinda O'Brien was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a pink ottoman gown accented with rose Venice lace and carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses.

Best man was William Keohan, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Thomas J. O'Brien Jr., brother of the bride, and James Bell, cousin of the bridegroom.

After the wedding a reception was held at the American Legion Post, Wynanskill.

The bride, a graduate of Troy High School, attended St. Mary's School of Nursing, and is employed by the New York Telephone Company. Her husband, an alumnus of Cohoes High School and Ward's IBM School, is employed by IBM, Kingston.

When the couple return from their wedding trip to Canada, they will reside in Kingston.

Hadassah Will Honor President

Mrs. Arthur Landesman, president of the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah for the past two years, will be honored by the chapter board at a luncheon set for 12:30 p.m. Thursday, June 20, at Leherb's Restaurant.

Members of the board and others who would like to attend may make reservations with Mrs. Robert Yallum.

The chapter held its closing meeting of the season May 29 at Temple Emanuel with Mrs. Landesman presiding. Opening prayer was given by Mrs. George Starkman. Reports were given by the following chairmen: Mrs. Oscar London, Jewish national fund and life membership; Mrs. Charles Jacobs, new and nearly new sale; Mrs. Sidney Halpern, special Hadassah medical organization benefit; and Mrs. Arthur London, vice president in charge of fund-raising. Thanks were extended to all chairmen and workers.

Mrs. Nathaniel B. Gross reported on the recent regional spring conference and presented a presidential service award to Mrs. Landesman. Refreshments were served with the Mmes. Gerald Cohen, Maurice Crystal and Morris Berman in charge.

Hadassah concludes its HMO activities with "Donor Day at the Nevele" to be held June 9 at the Eellenville resort. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Robert E. Davis, Mrs. George Starkman is HMO treasurer.

Democrats Plan Gala Carnival In New Paltz

There'll be PANDA-PAN-DEMONIUM down New Paltz way this coming Saturday, June 8, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Festivities will take place at the Huguenot Bank Parking Lot and even though sunny skies have been predicted, the group has announced June 15 as the rain date.

Parents from all over the country are invited to bring their children to New Paltz on Saturday for a day of unexcelled fun. A fund raising event for the Concerned Democrats, the carnival is also being presented as a community service.

Wedding Announced

Two Kingston IBM employees were married Saturday, June 1, in Immaculate Conception Church, Watervliet. Miss Carolyn Elizabeth Motkowicz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Motkowicz of Watervliet, became the bride of Robert Charles Francis Hout, son of Mrs. Florence Hout of Dunkirk, and the late Carl Hout, at a noon ceremony. The Rev. Boleslaw Watroba officiated. Mrs. Hout is employed as a computer operator and her husband works in the Systems Development Division of IBM. They will reside at 2 Pearl Street, this city.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a silk organza and rosepoint lace wedding gown fashioned with a molded lace empire bodice, and embroidered with crystals and seed pearls. The gown was styled with a bateau neckline, elbow length sleeves, and featured an A-line silhouette lace skirt, also embroidered with seed pearls, with a removable wateau circle train. Her headpiece was a cathedral length veil with lace appliques, and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis, orchids and ivy.

Mrs. Helen Kost was matron of honor. She wore a grass and mint green lace and crepe gown styled with a molded empire bodice of Venice lace, a scooped neckline and short sleeves. The crepe skirt was accented in the back with a wateau panel of crepe applique with Venice lace. Her headpiece was a matching Dior bow and she carried a bouquet of summer flowers.

Attendants were Miss Christine Kohls, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Ann Palma, both of Troy, were bridesmaids. The brides wore gold and maize colored gowns, and headpieces were fashioned identically to that of the bride or attendant and they carried bouquets of summer flowers.

MRS. ROBERT C. F. HOUT

Miss Karen Kilian, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Her gown was fashioned similarly to that of the matron of honor.

Frank Burns, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Gary Feddes and Robert VanDam. Michael

Widdows - Rizzo Wedding Told

St. James Church in Milton was the setting for the wedding of Miss Barbara Ann Widdows, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Widdows, and Samuel Raymond Rizzo, Milton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rizzo of Marlboro, on Saturday, June 1.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length gown of peau satin trimmed with Alencon lace appliques on the bodice. The gown featured long sleeves, a scoop neckline, empire waist and a modified A-line skirt with a chapel train. A matching lace petal cluster trimmed with pearls and crystals over a bouffant French silk illusion veil served as her headpiece, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white pompons and two white orchids, one of which was detachable.

Helene D. Calandrino, Milton, was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a floor length gown of lime green crepe with an overlay of white lace. The sleeveless gown was fashioned with a scoop neckline and sheath skirt accented with a green satin belt at the waist which terminated with a bow and long sash at the back. A lime green silk illusion bouffant veil served as her headpiece, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white

Paltz Seniors Repeat Successful Show

Tonight and Thursday, the New Paltz Central School is giving its Spring Arts Festival. Students in art classes, home making, industrial arts, will be exhibiting the results of their efforts in classes ranging from seventh grade through the senior year.

The exhibits will be set up in the gym.

As part of the New Paltz Central School's Art Exhibition, the seniors of the high school choir will present a repeat performance of the senior "Sing-To-Me-Time." The show will begin at 9 p.m.

This show was performed at the Spring Vocal Concert and was so well received it was requested the students give a return performance. The show will be staged in the school auditorium.

The performance will include a dance routine, barbershop quartet, small scenes from various Broadway musicals, solos, group numbers and the "Catas-trophes."

There is no admission charge.

Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kiwas of 14 South Wall Street will celebrate their 37th wedding anniversary on Friday, June 7.

Auxilians Issue Last Call for Show-Luncheon

Last minute reservations for the June 10 fashion show and luncheon sponsored by Ellenville Community Hospital Auxiliary may be made by phoning Mrs. Louis Resnick, Mrs. Benjamin Lonstein, or Mrs. James Barthel.

"We will have a number of out-of-area auxilians with us," Mrs. Resnick pointed out, "and we'd like to have as large a local representation as possible. Not only to impress our guests, but also because it is for our hospital."

The luncheon will again feature the very entertaining Muriel King Show, presenting songs and fashions in the inimitable Muriel King style. Stunning summer and fall clothes will be shown by sixteen lovely models.

Kenny Graham will be at the piano.

The proceeds of the luncheon, which is scheduled for noon at the Fallsview Hotel, will be used to purchase new equipment for the local voluntary non-profit hospital. The affair will be the Third Annual Fashion Show and Luncheon sponsored by the Auxiliary for the Hospital's benefit.

UNUSUAL BLOOMS

A gardening friend of mine was remarking on the unusual blossoms on a rose bush, half of the petals palest pink, the others a deep red. "These combinations are showing up all over gardens in the area," he said. "One of my neighbors has given the rose a name—Careless Love."

The Doctor Says

Takes Love and Patience To Toilet-Train Child

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

One mail brings letters from three mothers whose children are not toilet-trained. The youngest is a boy, 2½, who showed signs of being trained at the age of 20 months. Then a baby brother was born and now he is still in diapers. The advent of a baby in a family is often seen by the one who was formerly the baby of the family as a threatened loss of his mother's love. As a result the child may try to revert to babyhood in various ways—thumbsucking, preferring a bottle to drinking from a cup or refusing to be toilet-trained.

With such a child it is important, first of all, to be patient and not show displeasure with his behavior. Punishment will only make him feel more rejected and thus increase the problem. Second, every effort must be made to show him that your love is all-encompassing and that love for the new baby in no way diminishes love for him. When he is convinced of this he will start acting his age again.

The second mother wonders whether the fact that her daughter, 3, is not toilet-trained might indicate a physical defect. Most children by their third birthday will have learned to recognize the need to go to the toilet and will be able to attend to this function without assistance. There may still be accidents when the child is too absorbed in playing to heed the "call." A physical defect as a cause is so rare that the possibility can be dismissed. It would not appear as an isolated symptom but as a part of a serious nervous or mental disease. As with the younger child, love and patience are the best treatment.

The third child, a boy, 4, was born with spina bifida and associated meningocele—outpouching through the skin of the membranes surrounding the spinal cord. This was corrected surgically at the time of birth. It is possible but not likely that this boy's lack of control of his bowel is related to the birth defect. The family doctor would have to determine whether this is so. This mother wants to know what will happen when her son starts to school. I think the disfavor he will meet in the eyes of the children of his own age will cure him overnight.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

The musicians are (l-r) Marjorie Devereaux, flute; Lorelei Heidenstrom, violin; Lorraine Holzman, cello; and Shayan Malkine, viola.

OCS STUDENTS who performed with this year's Area All State Band in Monticello included Tim Barone, baritone saxophone, and Kristine Petersen, French horn. Director of the band was George Christopher, conductor of the Port Washington High School Band on Long Island. The entire program was recorded by a professional recording company.

Widdows-Rizzo Wedding Told

St. James Church in Milton was the setting for the wedding of Miss Barbara Ann Widdows, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Widdows, and Samuel Raymond Rizzo, Milton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rizzo of Marlboro, on Saturday, June 1.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length gown of peach satin trimmed with Alencon lace appliques on the bodice. The gown featured long sleeves, a scoop neckline, empire waist and a modified A-line skirt with a chapel train. A matching lace petal cluster trimmed with pearls and crystals over a bouffant French silk illusion veil served as her headpiece, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white pompons and two white orchids, one of which was detachable.

Helene D. Calandrino, Milton, was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a floor length gown of lime green crepe with an overlay of white lace. The sleeveless gown was fashioned with a scoop neckline and sheath skirt accented with a green satin belt at the waist which terminated with a bow and long sash at the back. A lime green silk illusion bouffant veil served as her headpiece, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white

Geraldine Rizzo, Marlboro, sister of the bridegroom, and Serena Pinna were attendants. They wore floor length yellow chiffon gowns trimmed with lace at the bodice and sleeves. The full skirts were accented with a moss green satin belt. Their headpieces were yellow horsehair picture hats trimmed with yellow roses and moss green satin ribbon and streamers. They carried colonial bouquets of white sunburst pompons and yellow pompons.

John A. Rizzo of Marlboro, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Michael Vasile of Vails Gate and Anthony Benicasa of Cold Springs.

After the wedding a reception was held at Blossom Farm Inn, Milton, for 85 guests.

For her wedding trip to Miami, Fla., the bride chose a white dress with white, black and brown jacket, and patent leather accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Rizzo will reside at Hasbrouck Road New Paltz.

Paltz Seniors Repeat Successful Show

Tonight and Thursday, the New Paltz Central School is giving its Spring Arts Festival. Students in art classes, home making, industrial arts, will be exhibiting the results of their efforts in classes ranging from seventh grade through the senior year.

The exhibits will be set up in the gym.

As part of the New Paltz Central School's Art Exhibition, the seniors of the high school choir will present a repeat performance of the senior "Sing-To-Me-Time." The show will begin at 9 p.m.

This show was performed at the Spring Vocal Concert and was so well received it was requested the students give a repeat performance. The show will be staged in the school auditorium.

The performance will include a dance routine, barbershop quartet, small scenes from various Broadway musicals, solos, group numbers and the "Catastrophies."

There is no admission charge.

Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kiwus of 14 South Wall Street will celebrate their 37th wedding anniversary on Friday, June 7.

Auxiliaries Issue Last Call for Show-Luncheon

Last minute reservations for the June 10 fashion show and luncheon sponsored by Ellenville Community Hospital Auxiliary may be made by phoning Mrs. Louis Resnick, Mrs. Benjamin Lonstein, or Mrs. James Barthel.

"We will have a number of out-of-area auxiliaries with us," Mrs. Resnick pointed out, "and we'd like to have as large a local representation as possible. Not only to impress our guests, but also because it is for our hospital."

The luncheon will again feature the very entertaining Muriel King Show, presenting songs and fashions in the inimitable Muriel King style. Stunning summer and fall clothes will be shown by sixteen lovely models.

Kenny Graham will be at the piano.

The proceeds of the luncheon, which is scheduled for noon at the Fallsview Hotel, will be used to purchase new equipment for the local voluntary non-profit hospital. The affair will be the Third Annual Fashion Show and Luncheon sponsored by the Auxiliary for the Hospital's benefit.

UNUSUAL BLOOMS

A gardening friend of mine was remarking on the unusual blossoms on a rose bush, half of the petals palest pink, the others a deep red. "These combinations are showing up all over gardens in the area," he said. "One of my neighbors has given the rose a name—Careless Love."

The Doctor Says

Takes Love and Patience To Toilet-Train Child

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

One mail brings letters from three mothers whose children are not toilet-trained. The youngest is a boy, 2½, who showed signs of being trained at the age of 20 months. Then a baby brother was born and now he is still in diapers. The advent of a baby in a family is often seen by the one who was formerly the baby of the family as a threatened loss of his mother's love. As a result the child may try to revert to babyhood in various ways—thumbsucking, preferring a bottle to drinking from a cup or refusing to be toilet-trained.

With such a child it is important, first of all, to be patient and not show displeasure with his behavior. Punishment will only make him feel more rejected and thus increase the problem. Second, every effort must be made to show him that your love is all-encompassing and that love for the new baby in no way diminishes love for him. When he is convinced of this he will start acting his age again.

The second mother wonders whether the fact that her daughter, 3, is not toilet-trained might indicate a physical defect. Most children by their third birthday will have learned to recognize the need to go to the toilet and will be able to attend to this function without assistance. There may still be accidents when the child is too absorbed in playing to heed the "call." A physical defect as a cause is so rare that the possibility can be dismissed. It would not appear as an isolated symptom but as a part of a serious nervous or mental disease. As with the younger child, love and patience are the best treatment.

The third child, a boy, 4, was born with spina bifida

and associated meningocele—outpouching through the skin of the membranes surrounding the spinal cord. This was corrected surgically at the time of birth. It is possible but not likely that this boy's lack of control of his bowel is related to the birth defect. The family doctor would have to determine whether this is so. This mother wants to know what will happen when her son starts to school. I think the disfavor he will meet in the eyes of the children of his own age will cure him overnight.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

MR. AND MRS. FRANK REHOR of Star Route, Rosendale, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday, June 2, at a dinner in Bianco's Restaurant, Rosendale, given by their three daughters, Mrs. Bernard Krupicka, Astoria, L. I.; Mrs. Joseph J. Koenig and Mrs. Anthony Musto, both of Kingston. Married May 31, 1908 in Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, New York, Mr. and Mrs. Rehor renewed their marriage vows at St. Peter's Church, Rosendale. The Rev. Robert Saccaman officiated. Besides their daughters, the dinner was attended by their sons-in-law, eight grandchildren and seven great grandchildren. The couple, formerly of Union Grove, Delaware County, operated a summer boarding house and farm, having retired 20 years ago. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Hints from Heloise

Dear Friends:

Many of you gals have written wanting to know how to launder bras and other garments containing spandex fabric without their turning yellow and deteriorating.

We wrote to Miss Edna Schappert of the Man-made Fiber Producer's Association, and she has come to our rescue with the following information.

When laundering undergarments containing spandex, DO NOT USE chlorine-based bleach or a detergent containing chlorine bleach. Chlorine will weaken and discolor the spandex fibers.

"Instead, a detergent containing no chlorine, and a perborate-based or oxone-based bleach MAY be used. "Labels on bleach containers will indicate if the product is chlorine-based, perborate-based or oxone-based. "Labels on detergent containers will indicate if chlorine is contained in the detergent.

"Heavily soiled areas in garments containing spandex may be pre-treated by thoroughly rubbing those areas with a thick paste of water and detergent or soap. Then allow the garments to soak for a period of time.

"When machine washing undergarments containing spandex fibers, use the 'low' temperature setting. It is advisable to AIR-DRY (rather than machine-dry) garments containing spandex fibers.

"It is also important to follow special instructions on manufacturers' hangtags and labels in caring for garments containing spandex fibers."

I think Miss Edna deserves a standing ovation for this valuable information. Don't you?

Heloise

P.S. I highly recommend that these spandex garments be washed daily, as I feel that the body oils from our skin, when embedded in the fiber, also does lots of damage.

Dear Heloise:

I always have a supply of canned biscuits on hand. One of our favorite ways of using them is very simple:

Pour maple syrup and butter pats into a pie plate and scatter pecans on top. Place your biscuits on top of the pecans and then bake away.

Just turn them over to serve for breakfast or supper.

9. Tipping is the same in all European restaurants—15 percent—as it is at home. True.... False....

10. You're welcome to take pictures of anyone, anywhere. True.... False....

1. False. Foreigners are more quiet in public, and Americans who are loud or ostentatious attract only unfavorable attention.

2. True. Europeans shake hands continually, and many of the well-educated men still kiss a lady's hand.

3. True. If you do not take them with you, be sure to have flowers sent immediately after you are entertained.

4. False. They much prefer enthusiasm for their own countries or unprejudiced comparisons and information about our life.

5. False. Europeans dress more formally in their cities, and visitors in cities should dress simply, modestly, and above all, neatly.

6. True. Foreigners are delighted when visitors attempt to speak even a little of their language.

7. False. In city stores and many country stores, the rule is "prix fix" and the price stated is firm. In open markets there is usually some bargaining.

8. True. Most Europeans wouldn't think of leaving an older person standing in a bus, or carrying heavy parcels.

9. False. The tip is almost always included in the bill and the diner leaves nothing, or just the few cents brought to him in change.

10. False. Many churches, museums, and official buildings forbid cameras. Also, never take a close-up of a person without asking his permission.

INDIAN LAKE — Dress for the day was rain gear, from boots to slicker to rain hat. Your reporter and Charlie Shader of Centerville were caught in a severe rain storm — a storm that followed a week of beautiful sunshine — and upped the river levels higher than normal.

Water levels here in the Adirondack streams (sans the new rainfall) are considerably higher than at home. The added rain pushed them even higher, making it more difficult to fish. Still, we hauled in a large number of trout from the famed Indian River.

Ran into Kingstonians Jimmy Bell and Merrill Yeaple up at Headquarters (Army Corp of Engineers headquarters). We joined the pair after a guided boat trip of the Headquarters Flow (a very nice river). Wink Meyers, our guide, couldn't help us catch anything, as we drew blanks, but the other two (Bell and Yeaple) did catch some Black Fly Wells along with a handful of trout.

Herb and Louise Morse are also up here. Herb and Lew Spert of Saugerties both got a dip in the chilly waters, having been dumped from their craft.

Koosman Blanks Cubs For Ninth Victory

CHICAGO (UPI)—New York left-hander Jerry Koosman, scattering eight hits, shut out the Chicago Cubs 5-0 Tuesday to become the Major League's second 9-game winner of the season.

It was the third shutout and fourth straight victory for the rookie, who lifted his record to 9-2 with the help of some timely extra-base hitting by his teammates.

The Mets jumped on Cubs starter Ferguson Jenkins for two runs in the first inning on doubles by Ken Boswell, J.C. Martin and Jerry Grote and made it 3-0 when Cleon Jones hit his fourth homer of the year in the fifth.

Jenkins left with his sixth defeat after seven innings. His replacement, Ramon Hernandez, was tagged for the other two New York runs in the

After 54-Inning Record Breaker

Big Don Thanks Popovich for an Assist

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

Don Drysdale didn't need any help from Harry Wendelstadt this time but he got quite an assist from Paul Popovich.

Drysdale set a major league record Tuesday night by pitching his sixth straight shutout and set a National League record by stretching his streak of consecutive scoreless innings to 54. He's only two shy of the major league mark of 56 set by Walter Johnson in 1913.

The big right-hander accomplished all this by tossing a three-hit shutout at the Pittsburgh Pirates while pitching the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-0 victory.

Behind the plate again was umpire Harry Wendelstadt but this time he wasn't involved in a controversy. It was Wendelstadt who made the decision last Friday night that preserved the streak when he called back San Francisco's Dick Dietz for not trying to avoid the pitch after Drysdale hit him with the bases loaded in the ninth inning.

But Popovich, the second baseman who was obtained from the Cubs in the Lou Johnson deal this winter, was invaluable as he made several sparkling plays.

Kingston-NFA Clash Set Back

Today's scheduled baseball game between Kingston High and Newburgh Free Academy, supposedly to decide the DUSO League championship, has been put off until tomorrow.

The game is now meaningless as Newburgh clinched the crown yesterday with a 7-0 shutout of Middletown. It was a two-hitter by John Hunter, NFA pitcher, that won the contest and title.

Tomorrow's game will serve as a tuneup for NFA, which meets Clarkstown Saturday for the Section Nine, Class I crown. It is Newburgh's second straight DUSO title.

Liberty wrapped up the DUSO Village yesterday with a 6-4 win over Monticello, giving the Indians their second title in a row. Liberty will meet UCAL winner Marlboro on the same day for the Class II crown.

Marlboro Cops UCAL Title With 21-5 Romp

*—clinched championship

Marlboro High school's baseball team, lightly regarded, but feared as a darkhouse or spoiled in pre-season picking for the UCAL baseball champion, yesterday wrapped up that crown in rather convincing fashion, trouncing one of the pre-season choices, Pine Bush, by the one-sided score of 21-5.

The Iron Dukes, who have captured the loop's pennant now four times (1963, '64, '65 and second in 1966) in the past half-dozen years, finished in sixth place last year and were not among the top trio that were given a solid shot at the crown.

Yesterday, the Dukes unleashed a 13-hit attack including five doubles, in blasting the hapless and fifth-place Bushmen right off the diamond.

Dozen Runs in Fourth

Highlighting the destruction job at Pine Bush was a 12-run, six-hit fourth inning that ended whatever chances PB had of winning. At that time, the score was 5-3 in favor of Marlboro.

Mike Pagano, one of the top athletes in the UCAL, and a performer that starred as both pitcher and catcher for the Jack Kroh coached Iron Dukes, worked the mound yesterday and scattered eight hits (a trio of doubles) and was in trouble only once, the recipient of the three-run third inning.

Pagano was also the batting star. He contributed four hits in five at-bats, two of those hits being doubles and drove in a quartet of runs.

Bill Giannetta, the left fielder, also had quite a day, banging out a trio of hits in four trips, including one double. Dale Sutton and Roy McAttee had a pair of singles apiece while the Passante's, Rich and Dan each had a two-base hit.

Marlboro touched starting pitcher Rich Alexander for five runs in the initial three frames.

Sisco Next Victim

Gary Sisco came in for Alexander in the fourth and the Dukes bombed him for the dozen runs. Kevin Kelley, a freshman, mopped up, going the final three stanzas.

Kroh, pessimistic before the opening game of the season because of limited practice on the brand new school field, was pleased with the championship.

After the victory yesterday, Kroh told his players, "I didn't think you fellows could win the championship, but you came through when needed, and now you're the champs."

The other contest scheduled for yesterday, Highland at New Paltz was postponed. The remaining two games on the league slate, Highland at Pine Bush and Rondout at Onteora, set for today, plus yesterday's postponement are strictly academic since every other team has at least four losses while Marlboro completed its schedule with just three setbacks.

Feller Wows Crowd At UCCC Banquet

Bob Feller, a 20 game winner six times, an American League Most Valuable Player, and one of five AL greats to have his uniform retired to the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, recalled Monday that his greatest thrill in baseball was pitching a no-hitter opening day in 1946 against the mighty New York Yankees.

Feller, the featured speaker at the Ulster County Community College athletic awards dinner at the Granit Hotel and Country Club, Kerhonkson, recalled this as his greatest single memory in a long tenure of baseball competition.

The big right-hander, fresh from the fields that he romped in as an Indian youth, vowed the major leagues in the '40s with his blazing fastball. Monday night he vowed the dinner, honoring 70-plus athletes, with stories and anecdotes of his long career in the majors.

The former Cleveland Indian ace also had the honor of presenting the awards at the dinner, giving the school's Athlete of the Year for 1967-68 to Bill Zilliox.

Zilliox, who competed on UCCC's Mid-Hudson Conference basketball champs besides being the number two golfer, topped the list of 13 athletes winning trophies.

Mike Derrenbacher and Lou Perry took home a pair of awards. Derrenbacher was the best defensive basketball player and the MVP on the diamond squad. He is a freshman.

Perry was last year's baseball MVP and also made the Region XV All-Star team. There was no banquet last year. Feller, who dwelled on the major role played by amateur athletics, especially on the college level, took pride in making the presentations to the trio. He also presented awards, congratulating and highlighting each of the 10 other recipients.

Brad Meyer, now in Vietnam, had his parents accept his MVP 1966-67 basketball award, with the same award this year going to Frank Roselli; Stan Henderson, best foul shooter; Bob Spiers, top pitcher 1968; John Rottger, MVP in cross-country; John Schatzel Jr., MVP in bowling; Bill Anthony, top wrestler and Dave Blakeley, leader in golf and Keith Mills, the Coaches Trophy for academic excellence.

Feller, in a question and answer period, was asked to compare his fastball against the now-retired Sandy Koufax. Feller brought out what Joe Beckler, his former batterymate and later the pitching coach for the Los Angeles Dodgers (Koufax retirement), said. Beckler, according to Feller, said, "Koufax's hummer is what I would call an aspirin. Feller's a Bufferin, and you know which is supposed to be twice as fast."

Returning to 1946, Feller related the events that made that opening day so memorable. "The papers all said that I wouldn't be as effective as before the war (World War II) and that I was a casualty of the war, never being able to reach the pinnacle of my pre-war form. The no-hitter that day seemed to convince everyone that the papers had guessed wrong," Feller said.

Feller went on to win 26 that year, and the Yanks, never recovering from the no-hitter, wound up third as Boston won the crown.

Larry Jackson pitched a four-hitter and John Callison hit a two-run homer in the first as Philadelphia topped San Francisco. One of the hits off Jackson was Willie McCovey's 10th homer. Mike McCormick took the loss for the Giants.

Tony Perez singled home the tie-breaking run in a two-run sixth inning to give the Reds the triumph over the Braves. Gerry Arigo went 8-2-3 innings to get the win but needed relief help from both Ted Abernathy and Bill McCool to get the final out.

The streaking St. Louis Cardinals chalked up their seventh straight victory by downing Houston. Julian Javier singled in the deciding run with two out in the ninth, scoring Lou Brock who singled and stole second. Steve Carlton, with relief help in the ninth from Ron Willis and Joe Hoerner, got the win.

Thompson Succeeds Bavasi As New LA General Manager

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Fresno Thompson, veteran executive of the Los Angeles Dodgers, was named the club's general manager Tuesday, replacing E.J. "Buzzie" Bavasi, who leaves to become part owner of the new San Diego expansion club.

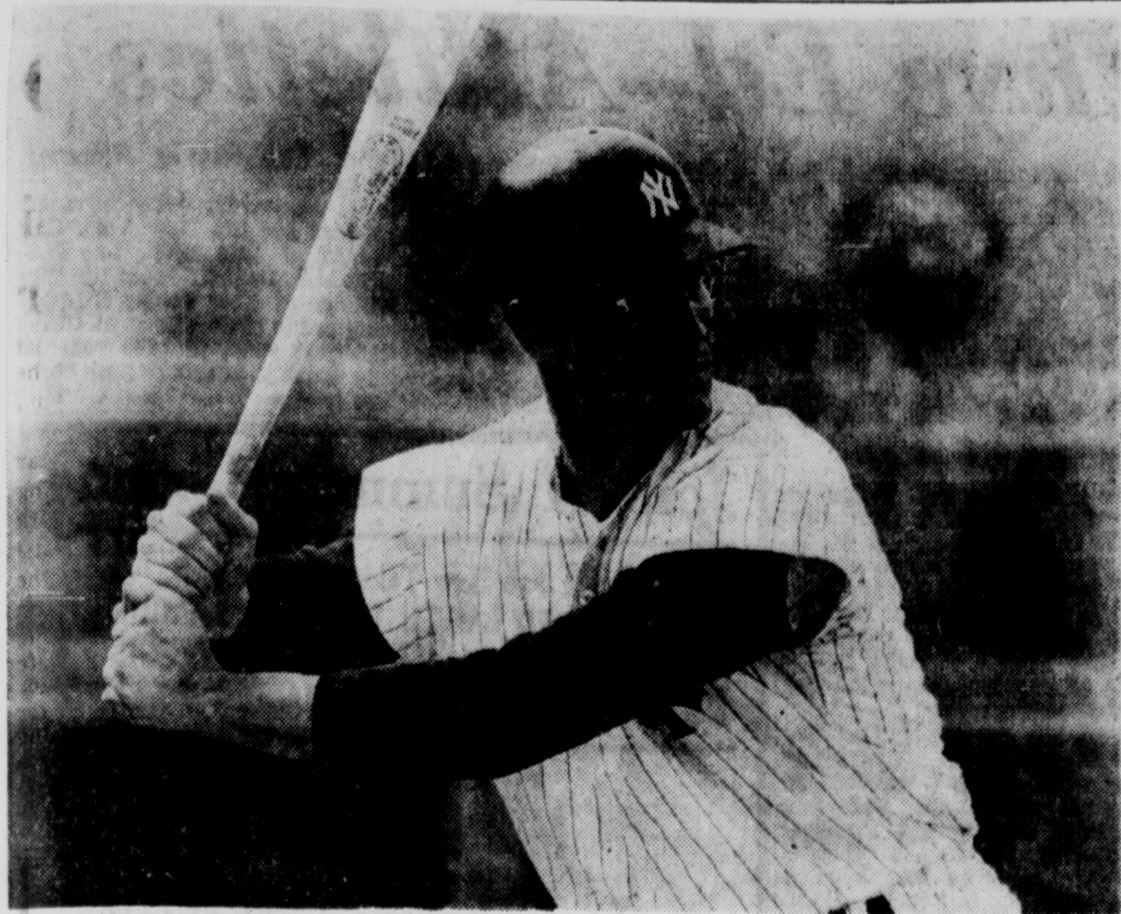

Thompson was named to the post by Dodgers president Walter F. O'Malley. Thompson is in New York representing the club at the important free agency draft meeting this week and will return to Los Angeles Friday to assume his new tasks. Thompson, who will be 65 this month, has been in professional baseball for 45 years, since he joined the Grand Island, Neb., team in 1923 as an infielder.

Thompson had a nine year career in the majors, playing with the Dodgers, the New York Giants, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. He captained the Philadelphia club three years, and had his top batting average, .324, with them in 1929. He life time batting average was .298.

He became playing manager for Hartford in 1939 and subsequently managed Birmingham, Williamsport, Redding, Johnstown, Montreal and New Orleans.

Andy Kosco, who will be the 6 home runs and 27 runs batted in 57 games. He hit only .222, with two homers and 13 RBIs. Back to power after nine games with the Twins at the start of the 1967 campaign, Kosco recovered his minor league touch with a .297 mark, 13 home runs and 67 runs batted in.

In the 89 games with the Twins, Kosco compiled a .215 average, with only 52 hits in 241 at bats, 19 runs batted in and only three homers.

In only 50 games with the Yankees, Kosco has doubled his output of major league homers and surpassed his career total of RBIs with 27 to date. And he is firmly ensconced in the success in spring training, rapping several home runs for the Yankees to win a berth. He was not eligible for the Dawson Award as the best rookie but he and Kingston's Mike Ferraro were the top Yankees in the Grapefruit League.

The 6-foot-3, 210-pound Kosco will stage a 10-minute batting drill before the Braves' opener with New Windsor Rockets. ## Chisox Get Dose of Popgun Attack, 2-1

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox, a sickly hitting group of ballplayers, got a taste of their own medicine and found out how distasteful it is.

The Cleveland Indians spooned out Tuesday night and forced the Sox to swallow two pitty-pat runs in the eighth inning that brought the Indians a 2-1 victory.

An infield hit, a broken bat single and a safe bunt set up the two runs that turned the Sox green. It was the type of popgun attack they have been using to get ahead in the American League.

Luis Tiant made the runs stand up with a four-hitter, one of several sparkling pitching performances in the league on a day of light hitting.

Jim Merritt also yielded only four hits in Minnesota's 3-0 victory over the New York Yankees, and Joe Coleman hurled a five-hitter behind Mike Epstein's two-run homer for Washington's 4-2 decision over Oakland.

Bell Blanks Tigers Gary Bell, with last out help from Sparky Lyle, stopped Detroit on three hits as Boston tripped the Tigers 2-0 before relief specialist Pat Dobson emerged from the bullpen with a five-hitter to give the Tigers a 2-0 decision and a split of their doubleheader.

California nudged Baltimore 5-3 in 10 innings on Tom Satriano's two-run single in the other game.

The White Sox, true to their code, were locked in a pitching duel between their own Gary Peters and Tiant and led 1-0 on a walk to Peters, a sacrifice and Bill Voss hit in the third inning. Then the tables turned.

The fifth hit off Peters was Chico Salmon's leadoff infield safety in the eighth. Jose Vidal followed with the broken bat hit to right field and Vern Fuller then got the only clean hit of the inning, a line drive to right that tied the score.

Tiant, now 8-4, beat out a bunt when no one covered first base and the decisive run came across on Larry Brown's sacrifice fly.

Normally slugging Minnesota also resorted to a tip-toe attack behind Merritt, 4-4, on the strength of three sacrifice flies, one by Harmon Killebrew and one by Tony Oliva.

Bell, 5-1, was breezing to his second straight shutout when two walks got him in trouble in the ninth and Lyle entered and got Jim Price to hit into a force out.

Bob Lasher twirled a three-hitter and struck out 12 to lead Schrader-Walden to a 14-1 rout of Eddie's Country Fair in the Ellenville Softball League.

It was Schrader's third straight win this season and 18 in-a-row, with a carryover of 15 from the regular 1967 season. They lost two games in the playoffs.

Four home runs featured Schrader's 10-hits against Corky Van Vliet. Charlie Holmes slammed a pair and a double for three RBIs. Charlie Page and Tony Zivostski hit solo homers. For Lasher it was his third straight win of the season.

Glascio Athlete Club routed Statewide Insurance, 19-0, behind the 2-6 pitching of Frank Allen (3-0) to move into contention a half game behind the league-leading South Side Men's Club in the Yankee Division of the Saugerties Softball League.

Glascio backed Allen's superb pitching with a 16-hit assault on Bob Campbell and Roy Gillespie, including home runs by Vince Ferraro and Leroy Lasher. Ferraro slugged his round tripper in his first time at bat in two years.

Lasher later cracked a three-run homer and with Garve DePoala had four RBIs. He had a perfect day with three singles and a walk in four trips.

South Side puts its 3-0 record on the line against Ferroxcube (1-1) in tonight's game at 8 p. m.

Onteora Captures UCAL Golf Title

Although there is no official UCAL schedule in golf and therefore no league champion in the sport, five UCAL members got together yesterday at the Grant Hotel and Country Club in Kerhonkson and played for an unofficial league championship.

Onteora won the five-team meet, scoring a total of 379 strokes to nose out runner-up Rondout by five. Steve Linehan, Rondout Valley golfer, shot an 89 over the twice around par-35, nine-hole course, copping medalist honors by a stroke over Onteora's John Buoymaster and Pine Bush's John Ploof.

Pine Bush finished third at 391. New Paltz was fourth at 430 and Highland finished last with 482.

Linehan, who played the course in 41 the first time around, shot a rough 48 the second time, paring the final hole (18th) to win by one. Buoymaster needed an eagle to tie for medalist, but shot a birdie to finish one back.

The best single round of the day was by New Paltz' Dave Robertson, who had a 38 coming home after a 53 on the out.

Rondout finished its dual-meet season at 7-7 and Onteora 8-4. It figured to be a head-to-head match between the two, and neither claimed victory until the final scores were in at the completion of the day.

Ong-Perfect Pitcher

Cliff Ong, the Poughkeepsie softball pitching wizard, fired the first perfect game in the City Softball League Tuesday.

Ong retired 21 batters in a row en route to an 8-0 victory over Perry's Grill in the second game of a doubleheader, as Red Whites swept two to run their league mark to 5-0.

In the opener, Rocky Marucci of Red's had shut out Royal Grill, 2-0, or, one hit, a single by Bob Short.

Ong struck out 10, as he outdueled Billy Costello, who was touched for only six hits but three were for extra bases—a double by Joe Molinaro and triples by George Boyer and John Worman.

Red Whites' score three tainted runs against Costello in the first inning of the nightcap and breezed home behind Ong's perfect performance.

Bill Stokes of Royals proved sterner stuff for Marucci and Red's. He yielded only three hits, the first of which was Bob McKenna's leadoff home run in the fifth inning. The shot sailed over the left centerfield fence.

Butch Veronesi then tripled off the left centerfield fence and scored when George Norton dropped a throw at first base on Chet Zampko's grounder to third.

Marucci retired the first 10 men in a row before Bob Short reached him for Royal's only hit. He then retired the next 11 in a row.

Yankee Stadium a Tonic for Kosco

Andy Kosco Coils for Big Swing

Andy Kosco, who will be the pre-game guest of the Kingston Braves in their Hudson Valley Rookie League opener Thursday night at Dietz Stadium, apparently found something at Yankee Stadium that eluded him through parts of three seasons with the Minnesota Twins . . . the ability to hit major league pitching with consistency and authority.

There was nothing in Kosco's 89 games over three seasons with the Twins that he would blossom into a .284 hitter, with 6 home runs and 27 runs batted in the cavernous reaches of Yankee Stadium.

A powerful minor league slugger (won Triple Crown with Duluth-Bismarck in the Dakota League in 1964), Kosco was brought up by the Twins in 1964 and in 23 games hit only .236 on 13 hits in 55 at bats with six RBIs and one homer. He was shipped to Denver in the Pacific Coast League in 1965 where he batted .327 with 161 hits, 36 doubles, 6 triples, 27 homers and 116 runs batted in.

He spent the entire season with Minnesota in 1966, appearing in 57 games. He hit only .222, with two homers and 13 RBIs. Back to Denver after nine games with the Twins at the start of the 1967 campaign, Kosco recovered his minor league touch with a .297 mark, 13 home runs and 67 runs batted in.

In the 89 games with the Twins, Kosco compiled a .215 average, with only 52 hits in 241 at bats, 19 runs batted in and only three homers.

In only 59 games with the Yankees, Kosco has doubled his output of major league homers and surpassed his career total of RBIs with 27 to date. And he is firmly ensconced in the No. 4 slot in the Yankee batting order.

The Twins sold Kosco to a big bonus in 1959, he joined the Twins organization, as a switch hitter but began to hit strictly right handed on the advice of his manager at Duluth-Bismarck, Vern Morgan. He won the Triple Crown that season.

Kosco was an instantaneous success in spring training, rapping several home runs for the Yankees to win a berth. He was not eligible for the Dawson Award as the best rookie but he and Kingston's Mike Ferraro were the top Yankees in the Grapefruit League.

The 6-foot-3, 210-pound Kosco will stage a 10-minute batting drill before the Braves' opener with New Windsor Rockets. He should know that the late Josh Gibson of the Homestead Grays hitting the longest ball in Dietz Stadium history . . . one bounce off the auxiliary gate above the centerfield bench. Maybe Andy Kosco can match it tomorrow night.

Chisox Get Dose of Popgun Attack, 2-1

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox, a sickly hitting group of ballplayers, got a taste of their own medicine and found out how distasteful it is.

The Cleveland Indians spooned it out Tuesday night and forced the Sox to swallow two pitty-pat runs in the eighth inning that brought the Indians a 2-1 victory.

An infield hit, a broken bat single and a safe bunt set up the two runs that turned the Sox green. It was the type of popgun attack they have been using to get ahead in the American League.

Luis Tiant made the runs stand up with a four-hitter, one of several sparkling pitching performances in the league on a day of light hitting.

Jim Merritt also yielded only four hits in Minnesota's 3-0 victory over the New York Yankees, and Joe Coleman hurled a five-hitter behind Mike Epstein's two-run homer for Washington's 4-2 decision over Oakland.

Bell Blanks Tigers
Gary Bell, with last out help from Sparky Lyle, stopped Detroit on three hits as Boston tripped the Tigers 3-0 before reliever specialist Pat Dobson emerged from the bullpen with a five-hitter to give the Tigers a 2-0 decision and a split of their doubleheader.

California nudged Baltimore 5-3 in 10 innings on Tom Satriano's two-run single in the other game.

The White Sox, true to their code, were locked in a pitching duel between their own Gary Peters and Tiant and led 1-0 on a walk to Peters, a sacrifice and Bill Voss' hit in the third inning. Then the tables turned.

The fifth hit off Peters was Chico Salmon's leadoff infield safety in the eighth. Jose Vidal followed with the broken bat hit to right field and Vern Fuller then got the only clean hit of the inning, a line drive to right that tied the score.

Tiant, now 8-4, beat out a bunt when no one covered first base and the decisive run came across on Larry Brown's sacrifice fly.

Normally slugging Minnesota also resorted to a tip-toe attack behind Merritt, 4-0, to tie the strength of three Killebrew and one by Tony Oliva.

Epstein, making his first appearance since returning from a 12-day stint in the minor leagues to pep up his weak bat, roused the Senators out of a 2-2 tie with his blast in the sixth inning. The clout doubled his runs batted in to four and his homers to two, and raised his batting average to .105.

Bell, 5-1, was breezing to his second straight shutout when two walks got him in trouble in the ninth and Lyle entered and got Jim Price to hit into a force out.

Bell retired the first 13 men he faced before Detroit got a hit, and his mound opponent, Mickey Lolich, didn't allow a hit until one out in the sixth inning. But the safety beat him as George Scott doubled in two runs after two walks and Lolich's error on a grounder.

Dobson, making his first start of the season, got his victory when Don Wert homered off Los Angeles' Gary Wastlewski in the seventh and Price's hit and three walks scored another.

Satriano, a pinch hitter, bounced his hit over the head of reliever Roger Nelson and into center field after three walks, a wild pitch and a sacrifice loaded the bases with one out.

UCCC Names New Director of Phys Ed-Athletics

THE BOOMER—Bernie (Boomer) Geoffron, All-NHL and a great career hockey player, was elevated from the player ranks to the head coaching job of the New York Rangers. Geoffron replaces Emile (Cat) Francis, who remains just as general manager. Francis had been coach as well as GM the past two years. (UPI TELEPHOTO.)

Kenneth J. Wolf, a doctoral candidate at New York University, has been appointed chairman of the Department of Physical Education, Health Education, Recreation and Athletics at Ulster County Community College, president George Erbstein announced today.

Wolf also will serve as director of athletics at the college.

Albert Di Bernardo, the present department chairman and director of athletics, will serve as coordinator of the college's growing Recreation Supervision program, which next year will require considerable attention.

With the increasing growth that our college has been experiencing," President Erbstein said, "supervising this department, serving as athletic director and coordinating the Recreation Supervision program is too much for one person to handle."

Praises Di Bernardo

Dr. Erbstein said the college greatly appreciates the contributions which Di Bernardo has made in physical education and athletics at the college during its development, much of it under very trying conditions in temporary quarters in Kingston. "I'm delighted that he will continue in a role of leadership at UCCC in our growing recreation supervision program which has expanded rapidly in recent years. We feel Mr. Di Bernardo's background makes him highly qualified for this responsibility."

This year, there were about 30 students in the UCCC Recreation Supervision program, and by next September this program's enrollment is expected to more than double to about 65 students.

Wolf comes to UCCC faculty with 19 years of teaching experience including nine years of experience at Falmouth State College and three years at Queens College in Flushing, Long Island.

N.Y.U. Graduate

He received a B.S. Degree in Physical Education from New York University, and a M. A. Degree from the same university in Safety and Health Education. At the present time he is a doctoral degree candidate at New York University in the area of Physical Education and Higher Education.

Wolf has participated in five annual basketball clinics, has supervised student teachers in physical education, and has served as an advisor to Physical Education majors at Queens College. He also has been a member of the Curriculum Committee and Faculty Advisor's Committee at Queens College, and has had experience in coaching almost all varsity sports as well as developing an intramural program.

Joe Rhap in Gate-to-Wire Victory in Mighty M Trot

MONTICELLO—Joe Rhap, an eight-year-old brown gelding, posted a gate-to-wire victory last night in the feature trot at Monticello Raceway, winning by a half-length over Lockman Hanover in 2:08.

Reined by Yves Fillion from post position five, Joe Rhap, a son of Rhapsody and Miss Pomfret out of Follow Up and owned by the Snow Shoe Farms of Kingston, Pa., moved out front quickly to take a two-and-a-half lead over Lockman Hanover, who trailed throughout.

Joe Rhap traded the quarters in :31.4, 1:05.4 and 1:36.1 heading into the stretch.

He was challenged only once, that by Art Bier's Homestretch Spot, who at one time raced neck and neck on the outside with the winner. In the final turn, Homestretch Spot went off stride, leaving the finish wire unchallenged to Joe Rhap.

Lockman Hanover closed up some ground on the winner, cutting the margin to a half-length, but didn't have enough left to catch the leader.

Joe Rhap rewarded his backers in the crowd to payoffs of $10.80, $4.20 and $4.20. Lockman Hanover, the two, with Levi Harner handling the reins, was worth $4.00 and $3.20 for place and Mr. Gordon, the One, Ken Heeney Driving, paid $5.00 for show.

Boo's Win 17-2 Rout

Boo's Tavern moved into second place in the Met Division of the Saugerties Softball League with a rule-shortened 17-2 rout of King's Diner. Boo's (3-1) trail league-leading Ted's Essos (4-1) by a half game and lead King's by that same margin.

(League Standing)

Ted's Essos	4	1
Boo's Tavern	3	1
King's Diner	3	2
Helsmoortels Ins.	1	1
McConkey Funeral	1	1
A. J. Scarsella's	0	1
Greenfinger Agway	0	4

While Barney Hoyt (3-1) was taming King's on eight hits, Boo's collected 18 hits off Jamie Torado (3-2) with every player getting at least one. Rich Greco and Hoyt clubbed three each, Hoyt knocking in four runs with two singles and a double. McConkey's meet Greenfinger Agway today at 6 p. m.

Jones' Pigeon Wins 450-Mile

Walter Jones of Highland beamed proudly when his pigeon won the Kingston-Ulster County Racing Pigeon Club's 450-mile event from Danville, Va., Sunday, clocking an average speed of 1242.37 yards per minute.

Birds owned by Pat Armato of Gardiner captured the next three places, 170 birds representing 18 lofts were released under clear skies and a southwest wind.

Next week's race, last of the series, will be the 550-mile marathon from Salisbury, N. C. Top finishers: Jones, 1242.37; Armato, 1237.12; Armato, 1232.91; Armato, 1223.53; Dick Brightly, Saugerties, 1217.51; Bill Manny, Shady, 1210.98; Pete Baum, Gardiner, 1209.97; Fred Polizzi, Mount Marion, 1209.96; Ed Van Buren, Kingston, 1204.54; Gene Barry, Gardiner, 1189.27; Tony Lanzarone, Highland, 1183.50; Joe Filiotto, Saugerties, 1179.47; Lee Behnke, Highland, 1169.73; Fred Thiele, Bloomington, 1143.53.

Peeping Tom Needs Help

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Thru a very reliable source, we found out that our son has been peeping into various neighbors' windows. He is an average high school student, brought up in a respectable home. We have no idea why he does this.

Because of the humiliation that would be brought upon the family, we do not wish to consult a doctor. Can you help us?

HIS PARENTS: Yes, I can "help" you by insisting that in consulting a doctor there would be no "humiliation" whatsoever. If your son had a "kink" in his back, you would seek the help of a doctor to straighten him out, wouldn't you? So why, when he has an obvious "kink" in this thinking, do you leave him helpless? Window peeping is a symptom of a deeper emotional problem and should be neither hushed up nor ignored. You owe it to your son (and to society) to get him to a doctor.

DEAR ABBY: There is a humane society to protect dumb animals from starvation and neglect. Too bad they don't have a humane society for husbands! I know a woman who sends her husband to work every morning without any breakfast. (He eats an orange on the way.) Not only that, but she doesn't pack him a lunch, either, and she knows there's no place to buy anything within a mile of where he works. If I didn't pack extra sandwiches in my lunch this guy would starve to death.

When he gets home from work he has to clean up the house and take care of the kids. And on week-ends HE does the laundry. What do you think of a wife like that?

JUST ASKING: DEAR JUST: Before passing judgment, I'd have to know if the wife is sick or just plain lazy. If she's sick, I'd try to get her some help. If she's lazy, and her husband puts up with it, he may qualify for help from the humane society. (It's for "dumb animals.")

DEAR ABBY: In answer to "No Name, Ohio," I'll bet if her brother-in-law, the postman, had given her a few of those free samples, you'd never have heard from her.

I did a little research on the subject and here are my findings for what they are worth: First, all free samples and other "junk" mail which is undeliverable due to vacancies, addressee moved, etc., is supposed to be returned to the postoffice to be destroyed. I understand that some postmasters allow their carriers to take the undeliverable stuff home. Others distribute it to various institutions, but can you imagine the work involved deciding which institution got the last box, and who is more "deserving" of magazines and samples of soap, detergents, and toothpaste? Besides, all the original addresses must be removed from the items before giving them away, which presents another problem. The taxpayers are certainly not going to go for hiring more workers just to cut labels off undeliverable stuff.

It is my opinion that products should be advertised in newspapers and magazines and sold in the stores. And this business of sending "free samples" to "occupant" and making delivery boys out of our mailmen should be stopped.

The postoffice should be run for profit, or at least break even.

I, for one, say, "Mr. Postman, you may have all the 'junk mail' addressed to my house—including the free samples. You've earned them, and, I don't want them."

YAKIMA, WASH.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Unlucky Expert Blames Partner

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Running into the unlucky expert makes us thankful for a little good luck. He sat East and here is his hard luck story: "With both sides vulnerable I dealt and picked up my usual losing hand. My partner opened the bidding with one diamond but North doubled and the best I could do was to find a two diamond bid. South tried two spades and if my partner had just kept still North would probably have passed and South would have made a nice part score. Still, I can't blame my partner for competing. He had pretty good defense against any game contract and was not at all upset when it turned out that his red bid caused North to compete to three spades. Of course, South went on to the game.

Quick Quiz

Q—What is "pigeon milk"?

A—Degeneration of the cells which line the crop produces in pigeons a thick, cheesy secretion called "pigeon milk." On this the young birds are fed until they are old enough to eat the seed diet of the adults.

Because of the humiliation that would be brought upon the family, we do not wish to consult a doctor. Can you help us?

DEAR PARENTS: Yes, I can "help" you by insisting that in consulting a doctor there would be no "humiliation" whatsoever. If your son had a "kink" in his back, you would seek the help of a doctor to straighten him out, wouldn't you? So why, when he has an obvious "kink" in this thinking, do you leave him helpless? Window peeping is a symptom of a deeper emotional problem and should be neither hushed up nor ignored. You owe it to your son (and to society) to get him to a doctor.

DEAR ABBY: There is a humane society to protect dumb animals from starvation and neglect. Too bad they don't have a humane society for husbands! I know a woman who sends her husband to work every morning without any breakfast. (He eats an orange on the way.) Not only that, but she doesn't pack him a lunch, either, and she knows there's no place to buy anything within a mile of where he works. If I didn't pack extra sandwiches in the trunk, this guy would starve to death. When he gets home from work he has to clean up the house and take care of the kids. And on week-ends HE does the laundry. What do you think of a wife like that?

JUST ASKING DEAR JUST: Before passing judgment, I'd have to know if the wife is sick or just plain lazy. If she's sick, I'd try to get her some help. If she's lazy, and her husband puts up with it, he may qualify for help from the humane society. (It's for "dumb animals.")

DEAR ABBY: In answer to "No Name, Ohio," I'll bet if her brother-in-law, the postman, had given her a few of those free samples, you'd never have heard from her. I did a little research on the subject and here are my findings for what they are worth: First, all free samples and other "junk" mail which is undeliverable due to vacancies, addressee moved, etc., is supposed to be returned to the postoffice to be destroyed.

I understand that some postmasters allow their carriers to take the undeliverable stuff home. Others distribute it to various institutions, but can you imagine the work involved in deciding which institution got the last box, and who is more "deserving" of magazines and samples of soap, detergents, and toothpaste? Besides, all the original addresses must be removed from the items before giving them away, which presents another problem. The taxpayers are certainly not going to go for hiring more workers just to cut labels off undeliverable stuff.

It is my opinion that products should be advertised in newspapers and magazines and sold in the stores. And this business of sending "free samples" to "occupant" and making delivery boys out of our mailmen should be stopped.

The postoffice should be run for profit, or at least break even. I, for one, say, "Mr. Postman, you may have all the "junk mail" addressed to my house—including the free samples. You've earned them, and, I don't want them."

YAKIMA, WASH.

Unlucky Expert Blames Partner

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Running into the unlucky expert makes us thankful for a little good luck. He sat East and here is his hard luck story: "With both sides vulnerable I dealt and picked up my usual losing hand. My partner opened the bidding with one diamond but North doubled and the best I could do was to find a two diamond bid. South tried two spades and if my partner had just kept still North would probably have passed and South would have made a nice part score. Still, I can't blame my partner for competing. He had pretty good defense against any game contract and was not at all upset when it turned out that his rebid caused North to compete to three spades. Of course, South went on to the game.

Quick Quiz

Q—What is "pigeon milk"?

A—Degeneration of the cells which line the crop produces in pigeons a thick, cheesy secretion called "pigeon milk." On this the young birds are fed until they are old enough to eat the seed diet of the adults.

It's In The Stars —

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 6, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Marriage, home, contracts are spotlighted and could feature delay. Permit others to make choice—let them take initiative. You learn much that later will be put to use. Be calm.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Delay where messages, journeys are concerned is indicated. Some details may have been overlooked. Not wise to leave basics to anyone else. Be there in person—stick to task.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You may be impatient where finances enter picture. Realize necessity of requisitions, certain amount of red tape. If objective, you avoid needless displeasure. Pleasure indicated tonight.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Some personal affairs may be retarded, delayed. Some details demand attention. Unless you give it, you compound errors, delay. Accent today on home, security and property.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Some who have much to do with you hold back on opinions, decisions. Keep open mind. Give and receive suggestions. Day when ideas flow. Clash of thoughts provides electric excitement.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take the cash and let the credit go. Means today see through false flattery. Get what's coming to you. Your responsibility to family should take precedence. Act accordingly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You may feel much of your effort is at a standstill. This gives you a chance to stand back and review. People at the top are making judgments. Most tend to be in your favor.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Delay in travel, correspondence may highlight day. Time to come out of emotional shell. State your needs. Live up to potential. Fulfill responsibility.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Some who handle your money appear indecisive. You may end one relationship and begin another. If you balance sentiment with logic, you protect yourself from deception.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Through diplomacy you can discover methods planned by opposition. You're due for special recognition, perhaps a promotion. Be kind, considerate and gracious.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Sudden moves related to work, co-workers, people who serve you prove significant. Accent on message received and how you react. Study your paper for special hints.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You may find the truth in relation to member of opposite sex. It may not be pleasant, but will give you strength. Stand tall. Adhere to principles. Be creative. Express your opinions.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are restless, but love your home. You seem filled with contradictions but generally know what you really need. You end relationship — this could prove constructive.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An announced resignation makes headlines. (To find out who's lucky for you in money and love, order Sydney Omarr's booklet, "Secrets Hints for Men and Women." ## Victory--Tragic Aftermath

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Like a nightmare, the shooting of Sen. Robert Kennedy early today in Los Angeles was reported live to television viewers who had stayed up late watching Tuesday's coverage of the California primaries.

It was the middle of the night for most of the nation—shortly after midnight, Pacific time—when the horrible sight of the aftermath was suddenly seen by those who had just watched Kennedy make a victory statement following the presidential primary.

Wild Panicky Rush

podium in the ballroom of the Ambassador Hotel and was headed elsewhere when the television suddenly saw a wild, panicky rush of photographers and other observers to a place off-camera. There were wails and screams of anguish by men and women as pandemonium broke loose, and people rushed to microphones to beg for a doctor.

And as all three networks focused on the tragic scene, the sickening memory of other shootings of public figures—including Kennedy's brother, the late president—came back to television viewers who had participated traumatically in the aftermath of past assassinations as reported on the home screen. First there had been the killing of John F. Kennedy himself, and then of his alleged assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald—the latter shooting witnessed as it actually happened in Dallas, where the president had been shot.

And only recently, one watched on television as the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King in Memphis was reported, and as the massive funeral was covered while the killer, still on the loose, was being sought.

Haunting Parallels
As reports on Sen. Kennedy's wife, Ethel, had been calm condition came in on television, after the shooting. And it there were haunting parallels in one's memory—for just as his brother had been shot in the head, so the senator also suffered a wound there. Viewers tuning in late to the events of early today were kept informed of the dreadful immediate aftermath by reruns of videotape. There also were eyewitnesses. And one report had it that when Kennedy was shot, and was on the ground in shock with crowds milling around him, he looked up and said: "Is everybody safe?"

There was the report of a suspect being seized. And then, as the initial shock began to wear off slightly, one remembered how only minutes before Kennedy had been happy, buoyant and energetic in his statement, discussing serious issues but also joking with well-wishers. And one suddenly was depressed beyond words.

The report was that Kennedy's wife, Ethel, had been calm after the shooting. And it seemed that only yesterday one had heard the same words on television about Jacqueline Kennedy, Dallas, Memphis, Los Angeles. You sit there and look at the television screen, and say: What's wrong with us?

Victory--Tragic Aftermath

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Like a nightmare, the shooting of Sen. Robert Kennedy early today in Los Angeles was reported live to television viewers who had stayed up late watching Tuesday's coverage of the California primaries.

It was the middle of the night for most of the nation—shortly after midnight, Pacific time—when the horrible sight of the aftermath was suddenly seen by those who had just watched Kennedy make a victory statement following the presidential primary.

Wild Panicky Rush

podium in the ballroom of the Ambassador Hotel and was headed elsewhere when the television suddenly saw a wild, panicky rush of photographers and other observers to a place off-camera. There were wails and screams of anguish by men and women as pandemonium broke loose, and people rushed to microphones to beg for a doctor.

And as all three networks focused on the tragic scene, the sickening memory of other shootings of public figures—including Kennedy's brother, the late president—came back to television viewers who had participated traumatically in the after-maths of past assassinations as reported on the home screen.

First there had been the killing of John F. Kennedy himself, and then of his alleged assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald—the latter shooting witnessed as it actually happened in Dallas, where the president had been shot.

And only recently, one watched on television as the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King in Memphis was reported, and as the massive funeral was covered while the killer, still on the loose, was being sought.

Haunting Parallels
As reports on Sen. Kennedy's condition came in on television, there were haunting parallels in one's memory—for just as his brother had been shot in the head, so the senator also suffered a wound there.

Viewers tuning in late to the events of early today were kept informed of the dreadful immediate aftermath by reruns of videotape. There also were eyewitnesses. And one report had it that when Kennedy was shot, and was on the ground in shock with crowds milling around him, he looked up and said: "Is everybody safe?"

There was the report of a suspect being seized. And then, as the initial shock began to wear off slightly, one remembered how only minutes before Kennedy had been happy, buoyant and energetic in his statement, discussing serious issues but also joking with well-wishers. And one suddenly was depressed beyond words.

The report was that Kennedy's wife, Ethel, had been calm after the shooting. And it seemed that only yesterday one had heard the same words on television about Jacqueline Kennedy, Dallas, Memphis, Los Angeles. You sit there and look at the television screen, and say: What's wrong with us?

Freeman Pollution Series—Top Award

The Kingston Daily Freeman has won the Empire State Medical Writing Public Service Award for 1967.

Announcement was made today by State Health Commissioner Hollis S. Ingraham who will present the $250 award and plaque to Managing Editor Peter W. Barreccia in ceremonies at the annual Health Conference at Rochester next week.

The Freeman is receiving the award for its five-part September series on air pollution and follow-up news stories which the awards committee felt were instrumental in waging a successful campaign to improve the health of people within its circulation area.

Second Award for Writer

For The Freeman, the statewide health award is a first. For the writer of the series, Lynn Mulvaney, it is a second. In 1965, Mrs. Mulvaney won first prize for excellence in medical writing for another series of articles she wrote while in the employ of the Cortland Standard, Cortland.

The Freeman award is one of three being given by the Health Conference this year. The other two awards to individual reporters will go to John G. Maguire of the Albany Times-Union, whose father won the award in 1961 and to Fern Marja Eckman of the New York Post.

For Barreccia, the public service award stems from his first year as managing editor of the Kingston Freeman.

A native of Queens, he received his masters degree in journalism from Columbia University and has held editorial positions on: The New York Daily Mirror, Lockport Union-Sun and Knickerbocker News.

Action Follows Series

Following the Freeman's series on air pollution in mid-September, several citizen and governmental committees and organizations were created to demand action on the air pollution front. Resultant meetings, hearings and formal complaints led to action on the part of the state and pollution offenders were ordered to take steps to abate the problem.

The Freeman is being honored for its effectiveness in arousing public interest in, and support of, air pollution control in its area.

The paper's effort was the unanimous choice of the judges who included Dr. James J. Quinlivan, director of the Office of Public Health Education for the State Health Department; Fred Warshofsky, science editor of the CBS-TV program "Twenty-first Century"; William Bookman, editor of the White Plains Dispatch representing the State Society of Newspaper Editors; and Prof. John Luter of Columbia Graduate School of Journalism.

The award is given jointly by the State Medical Society and the annual Health Conference, in behalf of the State Department of Health.

Ray Whiffs In Council

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Kingston Common Council turned thumbs down on three proposals by Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan last night—the street program, cars for police city-owned land in Woodstock.

In other action City Clerk Thomas R. Lyle was given a unanimous vote of confidence by the aldermen. Harry M. Thayer, president of Radio Station WGHQ, spoke on pigeons, dogs and bicycles and polling places in the city's 13 wards were approved. The Council also approved a lease to Lawrence Giustino to operate a newstand in city hall.

Up to Ray

Action on the firemen's wages was taken with Finance Ways and Means Chairman Peter Mancuso. (D-Eighth Ward) recommending that Garraghan's official proposal of $350 across the board for the fire fighters be granted and that the retroactive pay (the firemen have refused the increase) be included in paychecks June 14. He read a statement by Garraghan offering a package of $500 for the chief, $450 for the deputies and $400 for the firemen. Any action on that package will have to be officially instituted (in writing) by Garraghan and acted upon by the Council. As things stand (with the Council) the firemen have a $350 pay increase across the board.

The aldermen did not necessarily disagree with Garraghan's legislative proposals, rather it was his method of implementation that led to their defeat.

Peter Fisher (10th Ward) perhaps summed up the feeling of the Council when he said, "The executive branch is taking over. We (the aldermen) are not consulted. We are being ignored. There is a system of checks and balances in this government and it is being violated by the executive department."

Specifically, Garraghan was accused of placing an order for seven new police cars from Franz Rambler for a total of $19,000 without consulting the Council. The money was once in the budget but was taken out in January. There was no question of the need for the police cars but the aldermen could not accept Garraghan's actions in purchasing them.

Similar Charges

Garraghan came under similar charges on his street program. Several aldermen quoted the mayor as saying there would be no street program in Kingston this year, merely patch jobs. In the past the mayor and the Board of Public Works had consulted with aldermen individually as to what their needs for street repair were in their respective wards.

Uneasy Mideast Calm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. The heaviest Israeli attack across the Jordan River in two months ushered in the first anniversary today of the Arab-Israeli war. An uneasy calm reigned after the eight-hour fire fight Tuesday.

Wheatfields Blazing

"We hope this will teach Jordan the lesson once and for all that the shelling of settlements and army positions is taboo," said Maj. Gen. Haim Barlev, Israel's chief of staff.

Artillery exchanges across the Jordan River and an Israeli air strike on Jordanian positions left ripe wheatfields blazing on both sides of the river south of the Sea of Galilee. Jordan reported nearly 100 Jordanian and 45 Israeli casualties. Israel admitted only three Israeli farm workers killed and six wounded.

Each side claimed the other began the fight. Officials in Jordan said the Israelis launched a "surprise attack" while Yosef

Tekoa, Israel's ambassador to the United Nations, said it became "necessary to order Israeli aircraft into action in self-defense" after Jordanian artillery attacks on six collective farm settlements in the Beisan and Jordan valleys.

It was the heaviest Israeli attack since March 29, when Israeli planes dive-bombed Jordanian artillery emplacements that were reportedly harassing farmers across the cease-fire line.

Tekoa said that Jordanian attacks on Israeli villages "have become more frequent and intensive."

Israeli sources reported no planes lost in the air strike. Jordan claimed four were shot down. The Jordanians also

Freeman Pollution Series—Top Award

The Kingston Daily Freeman has won the Empire State Medical Writing Public Service Award for 1967.

Announcement was made today by State Health Commissioner Hollis S. Ingraham who will present the $250 award and plaque to Managing Editor Peter W. Barrecchia in ceremonies at the annual Health Conference at Rochester next week.

The Freeman is receiving the award for its five-part September series on air pollution and followup news stories which the awards committee felt were instrumental in waging a successful campaign to improve the health of people within its circulation area.

Second Award for Writer

For The Freeman, the statewide health award is a first. For the writer of the series, Lynn Mulvaney, it is a second. In 1965, Mrs. Mulvaney won first

Uneasy Mideast Calm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The heaviest Israeli attack across the Jordan River in two months ushered in the first anniversary today of the Arab-Israeli war. An uneasy calm reigned after the eight-hour fire fight Tuesday.

Wheatfields Blazing

"We hope this will teach Jordan the lesson once and for all that the shelling of settlements and army positions is taboo," said Maj. Gen. Haim Barlev, Israel's chief of staff.

Artillery exchanges across the Jordan River and an Israeli air strike on Jordanian positions left ripe wheatfields blazing on both sides of the river south of the Sea of Galilee, Jordan reported nearly 100 Jordanian and 45 Israeli casualties. Israel admitted only three Israeli farm workers killed and six wounded.

Each side claimed the other began the fight. Officials in Jordan said the Israelis launched a "surprise attack," while Yosef

Tekoa, Israel's ambassador to the United Nations, said it became "necessary to order Israeli aircraft into action in self-defense" after Jordanian artillery attacks on six collective farm settlements in the Beisan and Jordan valleys.

No Planes Lost

Israeli sources reported no planes lost in the air strike. Jordan claimed four were shot down. The Jordanians also claimed destruction of four Israeli tanks, six armored cars and three artillery positions.

It was the heaviest Israeli attack since March 29, when Israeli planes dive-bombed Jordanian artillery emplacements that were reportedly harassing farmers across the cease-fire line.

Tekoa said that Jordanian attacks on Israeli villages "have become more frequent and intensive."
